Patronage and Tolerance Of Tigers by City Leaders Blamed for Wave of Crime

Stop Fining Bootleggers and Send Them to Chain-gang, Urges Chamber of Commerce Grand Jury.

ASK ANOTHER DIVISION ON CRIMINAL BUSINESS

Declare Judge Is Needed to Expedite Cases--State Printing Plant and Support of Tech Urged.

Declaring that Aalanta's most prominent citizens, through their patronage and tolerance of the bootlegging industry, are primarily responsible for the wave of crime which has swept the city and section, the October grand jury of the chamber of commerce Monday passed resolutions recommending abolition of the petty fine system for law violations and inauguration of prison sentences.

The last session of the October grand jury of the chamber also passed measures proposing vital changes in the policies of the state and city, establishment of another branch of the Fulton criminal court, solution of a number of local civic problems, establishment of a state printing plant to publish school books, provision of adequate funds for the Georgia School of Technology and other important public matters.

"We are informed that 95 per cent of present violations of the criminal laws is caused by 'bootlegging,'" states one of the resolutions. "Who are and what is the standing of the individuals that constantly patronize, encourage, make it profitable and safer for the bootlegger to daily carry on his lawlessness." asks the resolution.

Liquor Peddler Patrons.

"From the investigations made," continues the resolution, "we are led to believe that the city's most prominent doctors, lawyers and business men are patrons to these liquor peddlers. Is it a wonder that the officers of the law inforcement have their hands tied?"

Other resolutions recommended that "an adequate road bond issue by the state be worked for."

That "the state of Georgia acquire, own and operate its own printing plant for the purpose of doing the state's printing and also for the publication of primary textbooks."

That "another" branch of the superior criminal court be established."

That "the city of Atlanta through its various civic and industrial organs exercise every means to establish an adequate appropriation for the Georgia School of Techonology."

Street Improvements.

That "since our observation is that no street work caused by the baby bond issue or the Nutting resolution has been done on Atlanta's business streets or main thoroughfares, we recommend that a standing committee on street improvements and traffic be appointed to look into this work, sign a petition, and that it be presented to the council by the chamber of commerce."

That "proper steps be taken to remove from our city streets newsstands, peanut venders and all retail establishments which, in our judgment, should occupy store space and not obstruct the city streets."

That "conditions be studied regarding taxicab parking in the city streets."

That "investigation be made of sidewalk inspection, with a view to bringing about more satisfactory handling of sidewalk improvements."

That "no hope can be expected for abatement of the crime wave until representative business men be awakened to realization that they are primarily responsible."

And that "the petty fine is only a joke and possibly an incentive. Until the cash payment system is abolished and a prison sentence is inaugurated, we may just as well pass this proposition up and learn to grin and bear the ever-increasing danger."

Officers Disgusted.

The resolution on the bootlegging industry, which said that Atlanta's prominent doctors, lawyers and business men patronize it, went on to say that "the assessing and (or) depositing of a petty amount for bond and ridiculously small amount of cash fine, the long delay in trying cases and inability to force the city's best people (so-called) to appear against these criminals, has brought about a state among the guardians of the law that these officers are not only discouraged, but

FEDERAL RESERVE REPORTS BRIGHTER TRADE FOR MONTH

Improved Prices for Agricultural Products Have Resulted in Ready Cash Purchases by Farmers.

HIGHER COTTON PRICE IS IMPORTANT FACTOR

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 31.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.—A general review of business and financial conditions throughout the United States, represented by the federal reserve districts, during the month of October, as will be contained in the forthcoming issue of the Federal Reserve bulletin, may be forecasted tonight as follows:

Marketing of agricultural products has proceeded rapidly during the month. This has had a beneficial influence in stimulating the activity of important lines of industry and trade. The higher prices realized by the farmer for tobacco and cotton, and from heavy sales abroad of cereals have given him ready cash and have brought him into the market for purchases of seasonable goods with corresponding benefit to trade in the producing regions. Improved collections and the reduction of outstanding loan accounts have followed in the train of this renewed activity. The beginnings of improvement are noticeable, even in portions of the country such as some of the southern and southwestern districts where credit conditions have been more serious than generally.

Textile Prospects.

Some distinctly encouraging element in the general business situation are to be noticed. The outlook in the textile industries is among these. There has been a more active demand for raw wool, especially of the medium grades heretofore in smaller demand.

While it is true that uncertainty of the future of cotton prices has led some textile manufacturers to hold off, the disposition to buy has been much more pronounced during the past few weeks. Consumption of raw materials continues at a high figure and the total used in September was in excess of that reported for September, 1920.

Basic manufacturing and structural industries have not yet shown the influence of reviving demand

AGREE ON MONEY FOR GOOD ROADS

Georgia's Share of $75,000,000 Federal Fund Will Be $2,000,000, Says Highway Engineer Neel.

Approximately $2,000,000 will be Georgia's share out of the $75,000,000 federal good roads appropriation, according to estimates of state highway officials after the receipt of a message by W. R. Neel, state highway engineer, from W. C. Markham, legislative representative whose efforts have greatly aided in the materialization of the bill. The text of the letter stated that $25,000,000 of the national total will be available immediately, the remaining $50,000,000 to be forthcoming on or not later than January 1, 1922.

Mr. Neel explained the workings of this appropriation Monday night. He says that 60 per cent of the federal fund must be spent on the primary roads of the state system.

AMERICAN LEGION OPENS CONVENTION IN MISSOURI CITY

MESSAGE OF HARDING SENT BY COOLIDGE

Legionaires Greet Foch, Diaz of Italy, Jacques of Belgium and General Pershing.

New Orleans Next.

Kansas City, Mo., October 31.—On a roll call vote tonight New Orleans was chosen as the 1922 convention city of the American Legion.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Kansas City, Mo., October 31.—Receipt of messages of felicitation from abroad and at home, a memorial service in honor of the late Frederick W. Galbraith, of Indianapolis, former national commander and the usual organization routine preliminary to getting down to work, consumed the opening session today of the American Legion's national convention. Adjournment was taken late in the afternoon and the delegates marched to the station to meet Marshal Foch, of France, and General John J. Pershing.

Marshal Foch, soldier of the allies, accompanied by General John J. Pershing, arrived tonight. Completing a trip from overseas to bring a greeting of good will from the republic of France to the legionnaires, the marshal was received with the most tumultuous welcome ever accorded a visitor here.

It was after dark when Marshal Foch and General Pershing reached Kansas City. The marshal, smiling broadly, nodding right and left in friendly, informal fashion, passed through the seas of men and women, in the station. As the party emerged in the open, facing the station plaza, a battery of calcium flares were set off and, while the movie makers ground away, the thousands who had been unable to get inside, had opportunity to see the marshal enter his car with a final bow, and waving his cap and laughing right and left, drive away.

From Italy and Belgium came word of faith in America and in the legion. President Harding sent a message that nothing was closer to his heart than the welfare of the former service men. The American Federation of Labor announced in emphatic terms that it stands behind the legion's campaign against radicals and that it will never tolerate the introduction into this country of sovietism or bolshevism in any form. Many military organizations, including the United Confederate Veterans and Grand Army of the Republic, sent greetings, while good wishes came from Marshal Foch and General Pershing.

Italy sent its message through General Armanda Diaz, hero of the Piave. Belgium's greetings and her thanks for American aid during the war were extended by General Baron Jacques, who was responsible for the delaying at Liege of the German drive westward during the first few days of the war.

Message From President.

President Harding's message to the service men came through Vice President Calvin Coolidge, George L. Berry, of Rogersville, Tenn., president of the International Printing Pressmen's union, and a delegate to the convention from his state, spoke for the American Federation of Labor.

The convention was aroused to the greatest pitch of excitement during the afternoon session when General Diaz and General Jacques delivered their addresses.

The demonstrations began with the appearance of the military leaders and proceeded almost continuously until both men had ceased speaking, and John G. Emery, of Grand Rapids, Mich., national commander of the legion, had pinned upon their breasts the officials' emblem of the legion which the convention today, by resolution, authorized them to wear. Marshal Foch and M. Charles Bertrand, of France, also were authorized to wear the emblem.

Ovation for Generals.

Wearing military uniforms of their native countries, with the American distinguished service medal, the premier decoration of the day, General Diaz and General Jacques, were escorted to boxes on opposite sides of the arena at convention hall. Both men were compelled to stand several minutes while the crowd delivered its ovation.

Another ovation awaited General Diaz when he was escorted to the platform to deliver his address, which he gave in Italian. He spoke with pride of the accomplishments of American troops who fought beside the Italians during the war, and said that Italy always would remember with gratitude America's efforts.

General Jacques received probably the most extended ovation of the convention, so far, when the crowd discovered that he could speak English. His calling, "Ladies and gentlemen," was met with a whoop and shouts of "atta boy," "you tell 'em," "let's go."

It was a minute or more before he could continue and tell the legion and the nation that Belgium

Aged Man Killed by Auto And Little Girl May Die From Result of Injuries

Dorothy Cook, Seven Years Old, Hit by Car Driven by L. S. Bach and Skull Is Fractured.

DRIVER OF CAR HITTING W. G. KAY SPEEDS ON

Machine Occupied by Four Negroes and Going at 45-Mile-an-Hour Rate, It Is Said.

Dorothy Cook, 7 years old, of 351 Washington street, is in Grady hospital with a fractured skull, the result of being struck by an automobile Monday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at Washington and Glenn streets, and W. G. Kay, aged 64, of Peachtree Inn, on Peachtree street, was late Monday night taken to St. Joseph's infirmary, with a fractured skull and internal injuries, sustained when struck in front of the inn by an automobile containing four unidentified negroes, who sped away without stopping after striking Mr. Kay. He died within an hour after the accident occurred.

L. S. Bach, the driver of the car which struck Dorothy Cook, of 61 West Harris street, immediately went to police headquarters and reported the accident and no case has been made against him yet, since the child's father stated he was inclined to believe it was not the fault of the driver.

The little girl was going from her home to a nearby grocery store and was crossing Washington street. Mr. Bach, driving in toward town, struck the girl after making a vain effort to stop the car in time to avoid the collision.

So far as is known, there ere no eye-witnesses. Mr. Cook, the girl's father, stated that a passing automobile took the child to Grady hospital, while Mr. Bach went to the Cook home and carried the father to the institution, arriving shortly after the little girl had been placed on the operating table.

Knocked Unconscious.

The was knocked instantly unconscious and up to a late hour Monday night had not regained consciousness. When picked up she was bleeding profusely about the head from a deep gash, which is believed to have caused the fracture at the base of the skull.

Police were assigned to make an investigation by Night Chief of Police A. L. Jett, to whom the accident was reported. Chief Jett stated that a case may be made against the driver later.

Eyewitnesses to the accident in which Mr. Kay was struck, state that the automobile containing the negroes was being driven at the rate of between 45 and 50 miles an hour, and that they paid not the slightest attention to their victim. They were chased for about ten blocks by another automobile which passed at the same time, but escaped.

Taken to Hospital.

Mr. Kay was taken to St. Joseph's infirmary in an automobile containing C. S. Terry, of 22 Stovall street; M. T. Guffin, of 296 Kirkwood street, and L. Lesnowss, of 82 Flat Shoals avenue. The aged man was struck unconscious by the au-

HIGHER VALUATION ON GAS PROPERTY GIVEN BY EXPERTS

Engineers Declare That Sums in Neighborhood of $7,000,000 Are Fair as Basis for Rates.

INCREASE TO MAKE UP $1,000,000 LOSS ASKED

Afternoon Session Enlivened by Appearance of John McCrindall, Who Testifies for Company.

Continued testimony of experts that sums cited in the neighborhood of $7,000,000 were fair valuations on the properties of the Georgia Railway and Power company used in supplying gas, featured the opening of the hearing Monday before the Georgia railroad commission on its citation that the company appear to show why rates should not be revised on gas service. The minimum valuation upon which the commission has based its rates is approximately $4,500,000.

The afternoon session was enlivened by the appearance of John McCrindall, an expert mechanic of the gas company, for the union employees, asking that the commission do not reduce the rates. McCrindall lauded the company and lamented the fact that it had been made a "football" by a certain element in Atlanta and Georgia which always wished to criticise it.

At the morning session, the corporation had filed its answer to the citation and had asked in it an increase above the present rate, to take care of an alleged loss of $1,000,000 from operation during the years between 1917 and 1920, inclusive. The company also introduced a revaluation of its properties, placing the minimum valuation at $7,525,756.

Valuations Given.

Henry M. Brinkerhoff, public utility engineer, who had made a valuation of the properties up to September 30, 1921, for a group of Philadelphia bankers, placed his estimate on the minimum valuation at $7,144,253, and stated that he thought this a fair price at which the properties might be sold. A. J. Luick, another valuation expert, quoted the minimum figure of $7,525,750, and stated that he thought $8,093,207 would be a fair price for a purchaser to pay.

The entry of McCrindall, who was cross-examined briefly by Dr. L. N. Huff, appearing as a citizen, was the high light in the afternoon session. He asked for permission to present his case upon the completion of the introduction as evidence of a report of H. E. Riggs, another expert, who had substantiated the quotations of those who had gone before him. He presented a petition signed by a committee from two union locals, 541 of the pipe fitters and helpers, and 329 of the steam and operating engineers.

"There seems to be an effort on the part of the people to disrupt the service of the Georgia Railway and Power company," he said. "People seem to want to kick us around like a football, and I appear for the employees of the firm who are trying, like the officers, to give good service despite the obstacles. The last time the company appeared before

Gobs of Goblins And of Witches Throng Streets

Halloween Fittingly Celebrated in Atlanta Homes on Monday Night.

BY PAUL WARWICK.

Gobs of goblins, dozens of dominoes, myriad masks, worlds of witches, crews of crazy costumes and a perfectly preponderous plurality of perforated pumpkins—lit with lurid lights—testified in Atlanta Monday night that Halloween was here. And everywhere else for that matter.

This following fact hasn't been verified, but it is said on good authority that one kid, disgusted with the paucity of gates on city residential streets, walked all the way to Buckhead to find a gate he could unhinge and hang on a telegraph pole. Copings and lawns that sloped foolishly to sidewalks had him baffled and he just be derned if he was going to be cheated out of the stunt that makes Halloween hallowed.

Whether you know it or not, there are two Halloweenish elements—those who bob for apples and those who plug doorbells. Those in both categories have good times and had them Monda ynight. There were places all over the United States where the two Halloween tenden-

ANTI-LYNCH BILL OUT OF COMMITTEE

Majority Report Favors Passage of Dyer Measure, While Minority Doubts Constitutionality.

Washington, October 31.—Widely conflicting views on the anti-lynching bill, now before congress, were presented in the house today in majority and minority reports from the judiciary committee.

The bill, introduced by Representative Dyer, republican, Missouri, would undertake to wipe out lynching by heavy penalties to be imposed on persons participating and officers charged with enforcing the peace. Counties in which persons are put to death by mobs also would be subject to heavy fines in the federal court.

Citing the demand in the platform adopted by the last republican national convention to end lynching, the plea of President Harding in an address to congress "to wipe out this barbaric strain," and the appeal of President Wilson in 1918 to citizens to help stop mob law, the majority report, prepared by Mr. Dyer, declared that these and similar appeals "have gone for naught and lynchings continue."

Threatens Peace.

"Congress must have the means for ending this cowardly crime," the report continued. "It lies in punishing those who take part in it or who permit it.

"The prevalence in many states of the spirit which tolerates lynching, accompanied too often with inhuman cruelty, and the inability or unwillingness of the public authorities to punish the persons guilty of this crime, threatens very seriously the future peace of the nation. Lynching blots our fair name

BRITISH ALLIANCE AT ARMS PARLEY DESIRED BY U. S.

American Group Seeks, First of All, Working Partnership With the British Delegation.

ANGLO-SAXON POWERS TO DOMINATE MEET

America, However, Is Strongly Opposed to Anglo-Japanese Treaty Renewal--To Fight Plan.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 31.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—There is not the slightest doubt that one of the first moves of the American group in the coming disarmament parley will be a working alliance with the British delegation.

This, it is now known, was agreed upon at the heart-to-heart conference between the president and the four American plenipotentiaries held at the white house two weeks ago. It was found to be the conviction of these five men that the two great English-speaking nations must come to an early understanding upon all important issues before the conference and must maintain that understanding if the problems to be considered are to be dealt with successfully.

With this uppermost in their minds the American group at the earliest possible opportunity will insist upon knowing whether the British are with America or against America; whether the two groups of delegates can agree upon a formula to be applied first to the unsettled issues arising out of Pacific and Far Eastern complications, and next upon a formula for either the limitations or the reduction of armaments.

If these two groups arrive at such an understanding it is the belief of the American delegates to the conference that Japan must inevitably accept their ultimate judgment and that both France and Italy will do the same thing.

Jap Problem.

How to deal with Japan with firmness, yet with entire friendliness, is more important to the success of the conference than the policies which France and Italy may be asked to adopt. The Americans are convinced that if the Japanese find themselves isolated, by reason of an agreement between the United States and Great Britain, it will be less difficult to persuade the Orientals to "go along."

From all that can be gathered in official circles there is no notion on the part of the American delegation to organize a combination hostile to the Japanese or to anybody else concerned. It is not a matter of hostility, but rather a matter of diplomatic expediency.

In the first place, as all interests now understand, America takes the position that the Anglo-Japanese alliance should not be renewed.

This government is opposed to all such alliances and is particularly opposed to this one.

Against Alliance.

To the cessation of this alliance the Americans expect to devote themselves unreservedly. Notice to that effect has already been given all other powers concerned, if not formally, at least informally. The first test of Great Britain's willingness to join with America in dominating the conference will come upon that question.

It is the feeling in Washington that if the British government shows a readiness to abandon its alliance with Japan it will be comparatively easy for the two delegations to come together upon all other Pacific and Far Eastern questions. It will only remain then for these two powers to find a basis for limiting their naval armament.

In deciding at the very outset that an understanding between Great Britain and the United States is vital to the success of the disarmament conference, the Harding regime is simply following the line of reasoning which Woodrow Wilson adopted with respect to the Paris peace conference.

WEEKS ASKS FORD FOR CONFERENCE ON PLANT OFFER

Washington, Oct. 31.—Secretary Weeks, returning today from his trip of inspection of the Muscle Shoals nitrate and power plants, conferred with President Harding, and announced he had requested Henry Ford to come to Washington for a conference relative to the Detroit manufacturer's offer for the projects.

Mr. Weeks, explained that his invitation to Mr. Ford did not specify a date or time for the conference, leaving that question entirely to the convenience of the manufacturer.

Referring to construction work required for the completion of the Wilson dam, Mr. Weeks said he believed the $22,000,000 estimated and allowed by Mr. Ford for the completion of this project would be sufficient, but added that that figure made no allowance for completion of dam No. 3.

The secretary indicated he was disinclined to favor lease of the government's power plant at Sheffield, Ala., while negotiations for its sale were in progress. Lease of the Sheffield works, he said, probably would complicate the negotiations now in hand.

British Parliament Backs Loyd-George On Irish Situation

BRITISH LEADERS WHOLE-HEARTEDLY FOR DISARMAMENT

Lloyd-George Almost Shouted His Acceptance of American Invitation to Arms Conference.

HARVEY TELLS STORY AT FAREWELL DINNER

As British Delegates Prepare to Sail, U. S. Ambassador Tells How Leaders Have "Kept Faith."

BY RALPH H. TURNER.
United News Staff Correspondent.

London, October 31.—David Lloyd George almost shouted, so eager was he to accept President Harding's invitation to participate in a disarmament conference, when Ambassador George Harvey called on him at his country home, "Chequers," last July with the official cable of invitation from Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes.

"We accept! Gladly! Gratefully!" the prime minister exclaimed when the ambassador had withdrawn to a secluded spot with him in response to the premier's hint. "I don't need to read the telegram; it's all right. We will do everything in our power to make the conference a success."

Lloyd-George has kept that pledge. Colonel Harvey declared in addressing a farewell dinner here at which the Pilgrims' society entertained the members fo the British commission, before their departure for Washington. But, the ambassador added with a tone of regret, the premier's heart is heavy with apprehension lest the performance of some more urgent duty prevent his presence at the opening of the conference.

Memorable Sunday.

Harvey's speech was mainly an acknowldgment of the generous and prompt manner in which the premier supported the president's initiative in calling the conference. He recalled the circumstances of that Sunday afternoon in July when he had a social appointment with the premier at "chequers," on which day the message came from Secretary Hughes, announcing merely that the president intended calling such a conference and asking whether Great Britain would approve. He took the message along and the premier, divining that the ambassador had important business to transact, asked him to out with it.

Harvey also paid a tribute to Lord Curzon, secretary of state for foreign affairs. When he, Harvey, called at the foreign office for the official reply, Curzon had there a conventional message of acceptance ready to be delivered.

"This does not suffice," Curzon remarked, however, whereupon he added in his own hand, the cordial phrase, "With the greatest satisfaction."

Size of Empire.

Continuing, the ambassdor said, "The more I see of the operations of the British government, the more fully I comprehend the magnitude of the British empire, as, what we, in America, would call, 'a going concern,' it is a corporation greater

Young Lochinvar Takes Fair Lady From Policeman

Officer W. S. Morgan Suspended for Using Gun in Trying to Block Rescue.

It's pretty safe to say that Officer W. S. Morgan, of the local police force, isn't spending the five days' compulsory vacation which was slapped on his record Monday by Chief Beavers, sitting around his winter fire reading Kipling.

There's a reason. Do you remember that line of the famous British poet which has something to say about "promotion and pay?" Well, it's safe to assert that Patrolman Morgan is studiously keeping his mind off these rather important items in a policeman's life, for with the idea is associated the bitterness of gall and wormwood.

Here's how Officer Morgan happens to have retired from public life for the space of five days, during which Police Chief Beavers advised him to ponder methods of control of temper and to brush up on the rules of the local constabulary:

Early Saturday morning the patrolman was on duty near Forsyth and Alabama streets when a gay young lady and three gallant escorts began making the night hideous with sounds of inebriated rejoicing. It is claimed, ostensibly over the intended as a warning to the Sinn Fein, butto parliament not to harass those engaged in the negotiations.

The prime minister said that a very grave issue had been raised as to the proceedings conducted by the government, and it was quite clear tha there was a section in the house who had given very loyal support to the government in the main, but who were full of misgivings with regard to this particular action, and he felt it was essential that the situation should be cleared as soon as possible so that they might know what the view of the house really was.

Ulster Problem.

Dealing with the complaint of Captain Charles Craig, leader of the Ulster unionists in the house, that necessary powers had not been conferred on the government of northern Ireland, the premier explained that the government of Ireland act provided that these powers should be conferred on the two parliaments simultaneously. If the southern parliament did not come into existence, he declared, something in the nature of a crown colony would be set up; then powers would be conferred simultaneously upon that and the Ulster government.

The negotiations had intervened, and the government thought it inadvisable to set up a crown colony until it was known how the negotiations would end. He was sure this was paralyzing the activities of the Ulster government, and the present condition was intolerable. He then gave to Captain Craig his pledge, unless something happened one way or another in the next few days, the government would put the position right. It would either transfer the necessary powers to the northern parliament, under the provisions of the act, if that were legally possible, or otherwise it would ask parliament to pass a short act for the purpose.

"I am now invited," he went on, 'to state what the opinions of the government are, in the middle of a conference, on the subjects discussed there.

Up to House.

"Without caring one iota myself, the house of commons must either trust its negotiators or replace them. I want to know, my colleagues, I want to know whether you want us to try to make peace. If you do not, there will be one glad man who will go to his sovereign and say: 'I hand in my portfolio.'

"If we discuss the matter in this house, there will be no conference.

"For the moment the government knows that the sympathies of Ireland are behind these people," said the premier. "The only thing the government can do is to treat them as the representatives of the people. I admit that all the Sinn Fein declared for a republic; that all the Sinn Fein repudiated the authority of the crown, but if we are not going to deal with them for that reason, there is no one in Ireland to deal with."

Recalling that Great Britain had dealt with "rebels" before, instancing South Africa, the prime minister asserted emphatically: "The only issue is whether the house will say 'drop these negotiations; crush the rebellion first, then deal with Ireland as seems just in the eyes of parliament.'

Must Count Cost.

"It is a question of the cost. Let us count the cost. If the conference is broken, and it may be—perhaps in a few days—I want the public to feel that it has done everything that could reasonably be expected by this country and the civilized world to avert it. The first thing the government would have to do would be to strengthen the forces of the crown in Ireland on a considerable scale."

Discussing guerrilla warfare, the premier said that all knew what gigantic forces had to be put into Africa. One of the evils of guerilla warfare was that the forces were dispersed and there was not the same control of discipline. Unless it was absolutely necessary for the honor and security of the country, it was not the time to impose great additional burdens upon the taxpayers and invite the young men once more to risk their lives."

"Before you do that," said the premier, "you must first of all convince the people of this country that there is no other alternative. You must convince the empire; you must convince yourselves.

"Negotiatalons are proceeding. I would be happy if I could be in a position to announce that the great parent races which founded this empire had decided to put an end to this feud of centuries and substitute comradeship, but I cannot conceal the possibility that I may have to make the grim announcement that it is impossible to settle without danger or dishonor.

Conscience Must Be Free.

"If that terrible hour comes and some one standing at this table has to invite this house and the country to make greater sacrifices, then Britain's conscience must be free and we must feel that everything has been done.

"If the security of this country is menaced; if the throne is repudiated; if this empire is to be mutilated and Ireland established as an alien country on our most vulnerable flank, free to make any arrangements with the enemies of this country, free to make war on our commerce; if Ireland walks off with her freedom leaving Britain staggering alone under the burdens thrown upon her for benefits which every Irishman in the world is sharing today whether in this country, the Dominions or America; if arrangements are insisted upon which will mean civil war between Catholic and Protestant, then Britain, I feel confident, will make the necessary sacrifices to face the necessary risk and avert such evils.

Great Issues Involved.

"Great issues are dependent upon this conference; the fate of the empire or rather the strength of the empire is involved. If concessions are pressed that would weaken the empire, the government will take all hazards to protect it. If concessions can be made which will bring an honorable peace, which will strengthen the empire, we will hazard all on the possibility of achieving that object."

Herbert P. Asquith, who followed the prime minister, said, in supporting the government on this issue: "We are not giving a blank check or a vote of confidence. We think that the government are pursuing a statesmanlike course and we are content to support them by every means in our power in the action they are taking. If the negotiations break down we should be confronted with a situation of unexampled difficulty and danger.

"Do not let us, in advance, commit ourselves to this or that method of facing and dealing with such a situation."

GOBS OF GOBLINS THRONG STREETS

cies, mischief and romance, were blended—if ever they are to be blended. And that was in the hospitals and camps where disabled soldiers were being treated to parties by thoughtful citizens.

No matter how you fix it, it was Halloween.

Apple Peelings in Demand.

Apple peelings were slung over shoulders and expected to do all manner of unreasonable things, such as landing on the floor with perfect grace and a tendency toward arrangement that could be interpreted as being the initials of somebody.

Ladies went to mirrors and looked in them. On second thought that statement sounds too preposterous, so let's qualify it. Some ladies went to some mirrors and held candles above their heads, waiting with breathless trepidation for the reflection of the man they will marry after they get over their Halloween superstitions to appear. At least we are told that some ladies did that. Young ladies—very young.

Fortunes were told, futures were read and pasts were unfolded with alarming accuracy. The doer of parlor tricks had his evening. Cards, coffee grounds, tea leaves and the wickedly suggestive heart dice were put into play as media of discovering what had happened to everybody and was going to happen to everybody. Taken all in all, first and last, it was a fine night—except for that poor lad seen standing in front of the Piedmont hotel late at night when the thermometer was sinking.

He had essayed a Pierrot costume of cheese-cloth, or material of some such consistency, and apparently had neglected to obey the calendar with reference to his winter flannels.

Waiting for Last Car.

He was waiting for the last car and looked as though he was trying to do an imitation of the leaves in an aspen forest—except leaves in aspen forests never let their teeth chatter audibly. It must have been on a night like last night that Henrik Ibsen wrote that breezy little playlet of his, fit for the kindergarten—"Ghosts."

There were a lot of ghosts out. The writer of this saw one ghost, apparently about 11 years old, stumble over his pallid shroud and fall about eight feet in the direction he was going. He, she or it—what's the gender of a ghost?—had just frightened the wits out of an unsuspecting policeman and was getting away, as ghosts are supposed to do just after they scare policemen. It was never until then, however, that anybody knew ghosts rode street cars, or drank chocolate milks.

But Halloween is not all done in the lighter vein any more. Right here in Atlanta the Red Cross and other good people looked to the welfare of the disabled soldiers and there were many organizations which took it as an added opportunity to do something good for someone in need. The Witches' club, for instance, founded on the traditions of All Hallow's Eve, took the season as its opportunity to aid the Churches' Home for Girls.

LOCHINVAR TAKES LADY FROM POLICE

successful signing of the declaration of independence. Morgan made the arrest in his usual suave manner and stepped into a nearby garage to summon the patrol.

At this juncture a piratical looking auto hove into sight, a beckoning hand of some young Lochinvar waved in the direction of the young lady, there was a swish of skirts and a leap to the running board—and lo, the highly efficient minion of the law found himself without an attractive prisoner.

Flinging aside the heavy goggles he affects—which lend an air of distinction to the officer's countenance even if they do slightly impede his vision—the doughty defender of the public peace rushed into the street, gave his trusty revolver a realistic wild west flourish and fired several shots somewhere in the general neighborhood of the vanishing taxi.

But the taxi sped on, leaving the dead-shot copper to listen to exclamations of admiration from a critical band of newsboys whose advice to "run down the cab" and "quit using blanks" he calmly ignored.

As little as possible was said about the incident, but Monday Chief Beavers heard of the affair and issued an order suspending Morgan for five days for having discharged his pistol on the streets in a reckless manner and without just provocation.

With as much dignity as he could summon to his aid, Morgan immediately began his period of involuntary exile from the police headquarters, and it is safe to say that when he returns he will be considerably wiser in the lore of policemanship and the ways of women.

That is, the interstate roads, which constitute three-sevenths of the system. The remainder may be spent on the secondary, or inter-county part of the system, which constitutes the remaining four-sevenths of the state system—the state system being seven per cent of the entire road mileage of the state.

The passage of the bill and the ultimate acquirement by the states of the fund has been in doubt for some time.

The snarl in the legislative procedure in congress was unraveled Friday of last week when, without a record vote, the members of the conference committee agreed to the appropriation in the road bill.

This now places the matter before both houses, and consensus of opinion emanating from the nation's capital seems to indicate that there is no question as to the final disposition of the bill within a very few days.

Georgia advocates of the measure are elated over the news contained in Mr. Markham's comunication, as it will mark, if ultimately successful, the end of strenuous weeks of legislative agitiation in which every effort has been launched to secure recognition of the needs of passage of the measure.

There has been a bitter contention over this matter between both houses and it has at various times become necessary to thoroughly canvass the steering, rules and appriation comittees of the house to secure even favorable consideration.

SEEK SAFE-CRACKERS

$60 Comprised Loot in Saw Company Robbery.

Detectives Sturdivant and Campbell Monday were seeking clews of robbers who some time early in the morning entered the store of the Atkins Saw company, 432 South Forsyth street, and carried away approximately $60 in cash from the safe, which was "cracked" in true "Jimmy Valentine" style. The officers stated no papers or other contents had been reported missing. The thieves effected entrance by cleverly opening the lock of the front door.

Leaders of Sunday Schools Attend School of Methods

Seventy-two Sunday schools were represented in the first day's work of the school of method, now in session at the First Baptist church, under the auspices of the Atlanta division of the Georgia Sunday School association. Officers of the Atlanta division and the state association expressed their pleasure at the number of churches represented on the first day. A large number of the Sunday schools have reported reaching their quota for the school—as many registrants as officers and teachers—and it is expected that before the end of the school of methods Friday evening, that the enrollment will reach more than a thousand.

The course on story telling is making a strong appeal. "The story is the one best method of teaching anything," said Dr. Tralle, and he is helping those present each afternoon at 4:35 to get a vision of being real story tellers. Mrs. Hanifan, of St. Luke's Episcopal Sunday school, and Miss Myra Batchelder, superintendent of the Atlanta Sunday school work, will tell stories Tuesday afternoon in connection with the story-telling period. In pointing out the seven points in the magic of the story, which was Dr. Tralle's topic Monday afternoon, he showed that the story (1) pictures people, or things represented as people; (2) that there is action and life portrayed; (3) that truth and error are contrasted; (4) that good and bad are contrasted; (5) socialization—shows how people behave in contact with each other; (6) pictures self; (7) opens new world.

Dr. Shelton Speaks.

At the session Monday evening, Dr. Shelton, of Emory university, spoke on "The Book of God," at the period devoted to Bible study. Because of his recent trip to the orient, and because of his desire to make others see and love the book as he does, he is presenting the Bible message with a freshness that unfold new meaning to his hearers. Immediately following the Bible period, Monday evening, Dr. Tralle gave his first lecture on "Vitalizing the Teaching Process." Before beginning his lecture, he had 30 people in the audience to give definitions of a teacher. Then Dr. Tralle very briefly and very pointedly gave five definitions of the teaching process. Psychologically, teaching was defined as "making the truth real through the appeal to the imagination and other intellectual functions; making the truth attractive through the appeal to the emotions; making the truth effective through the appeal to the will."

Program for Today.

This afternoon at 3:55 Mrs. James Wood, of Birmingham, will speak on "The Child We Teach." Immediately following Mrs. Wood, Dr. Tralle will take up his second lecture on story-telling, "The Telling of the Story." The third period is devoted to departmental specialization work, followed by the supper and social hour.

At 7 p. m. Dr. Shelton will speak on "The People of the Book," at the Bible hour, and he will be followed by Dr. Tralle at 7:55 on "Vitalizing the Teaching Process—Methods." A special conference for leaders in the adult Bible class work with Dr. Dakin will be held at 9 o'clock.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You—Drink More Water.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—(adv.)

Long Watch Ends In Capture Here Of Ollie Taylor

Harry Saphire, the "demon" prohibition agent, last night proved true the old adage that everything comes to him who waits, by placing under arrest Ollie Taylor on a charge of transporting 100 gallons of liquor from Dawson county to Atlanta. The arrest was made at 47 Mitchell street, and a $200 bond was given by P. P. Jackson.

A number of weeks ago Saphire and Postoffice Inspector Taffel, of Augusta, made a trip to Dawson county on business foreign to prohibition enforcement, but none the less, he kept an eye open for possible breakers of the law that deals with moonshine product.

While on a county road they noticed a truck that was broken down, and 100 cans of liquor were being carried by the driver to the home of a friend nearby.

"What's the chance of buying a gallon of 'shine,'" called out Saphire.

"Not a bit in the world, but I'll give you a gallon if you will haul my truck about ten miles," answered the "runner."

Everything was agreeable, and the two officers took the truck about ten miles to a point where the pilot and machanic of the "runner" was waiting.

The driver, Saphire states, was Ollie Taylor, but it was impossible at that time to make an arrest without "queering" their business, and letting it be known that they were on the scene. So the opportunity had to be turned down, but when Saphire reached Atlanta he at once asked for a warrant for Taylor, and since that time has been waiting for him.

Several weeks ago Saphire noticed a car, piled with cans, driving through the center of the city. He at once gave chase and fired several times in the air to stop the machine. One man jumped out, smashed a bottle as he did so, and made his escape. The other man halted the car, and when Saphire came along he found that all the cans were empty, so he was obliged to let the driver, Clarence Nichols, continue on his way unmolested. The other man, it is stated, was Ollie Taylor.

Monday night Saphire found his man at the Mitchell street address and the arrest was made without trouble.

Capsized Ship Found.

Milwaukee, October 31.—The two masted sailing vessel Rosabelle, of the House of David, Benton Harbor, Mich., was found floating bottom side up in Lake Michigan, forty-two miles east of Milwaukee, Sunday, it was reported today by officers of Car Ferry No. 4, Ann Arbor, who made the discovery. No trace of the crew of four was found. According to Captain Olson, United States coast guards, the vessel probably sprang a leak, swamped and rolled over. There was no storm and no signs of a collision.

Humphries Returns.

Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, returned to Atlanta the state did not excede 5 per at the Modjeska theater Sunday afternoon, he addressed 500 Augusta citizens on juvenile and youthful delinquency at the invitation of the Augusta Community club. Judge Humphries presided in Richmond superior court several months ago on invitation of Judge Henry C. Hammond.

FEDERAL RESERVE REPORT IS BRIGHTER

except in a limited degree. There has been some increase in activity, although the extent of it has varied quite materially as between industries.

Better conditions are reported in the lumber industry, one or two districts, notably Minneapolis, however, furnishing an exception. The activity of building has been particularly noteworthy because of its continuance beyond the time when a seasonal reaction would ordinarily occur.

The better conditions in the agricultural districts, accompanied by improved buying demand and the enlarged activity in manufacturing, have naturally been reflected in increased activity of wholesale trade. An improvement has been noted in the majority of cases for four leading reporting lines, although in the case of wholesale groceries, there has been reaction in a few instances. The sale of certain seasonal articles which would ordinarily show an increase at this period of the year, has in some cases failed to do so owing to the mild weather. Retail trade has been well maintained in most parts of the country.

Prices Stabilized.

Index numbers of prices appear to show that the price level has attained a substantial degree of stability. The index number of the federal reserve board shows no change during the month of September, while commercial index numbers reflect tendencies to slightly higher prices. Prices are generally in better relation to one another than at any time during the past eighteen months. In foreign countries the same degree of stability has, of course, not been attained, but indications in some point to the belief that the bottom has been reached.

Although unemployment continued to be a serious element in the existing industrial situation, there has been a fairly general increase in the number of men employed.

Steady liquidation of credit, increases in reserve strength and of reserve ratios, and some decline in bills held by federal reserve banks, have been the characteristic features of the month from the banking standpoint. Financially the outstanding occurrence has been the marked increase in the prices of standard bonds, particularly of Liberty bonds, and the limited decline in rates of interest. Foreign exchange, however, has shown great instability largely due to disturbed political conditions in foreign countries and continued difficulty of devising any system of international financing.

Cotton Crop Reports.

District No. 11 (Dallas) reports that there has been no improvement in the crop since September 25 in any of the districts which were infected with boll weevils. Picking is completed except in the northwestern part of Texas. Reports from district No. 6 (Atlanta) state that unfavorable weather, late planting, stinted use of fertilizer and boll weevil ravages will result in the shortest cotton crop Georgia has had for over forty years. The army worm has spread over the fields of Mississippi and Tennessee during the past month, and has destroyed all the foliage. This has damaged young bolls and resulted in much shedding.

In Florida the crop is practically all picked and ginned. District No. 5 (Richmond) states that cotton is opening rapidly and that most of it will be picked by November 1.

Farmers appear to sell cotton freely, whenever the market price is higher than 20 cents a pound, but seem reluctant to sell at lower levels.

Tobacco Condition.

Favorable weather conditions in certain districts led to an increase in the estimated production of tobacco, the figure for October 1, being 991,564,000 pounds. The quality of the crop in district No. 3 (Philadelphia) is excellent, while it is reported from district No. 8 (St. Louis) that the burley crop will contain a high percentage of the best grades and that the crop in the western dark districts is among the finest ever raised. Bright tobacco is being marketed steadily on the North Carolina and Virginia markets, and prices seem to be fairly satisfactory to the growers. As the season has advanced, prices have tended to rise, due to better grades coming on the floor.

Fruit Crops.

District No. 6 (Atlanta) reports that the Florida citrus fruits have suffered from dry weather and that the condition of oranges is lower than in the past three years. Grape fruit also deteriorated during September, but limes showed little change, as the bulk of the lime crop had already been harvested. The Georgia watermelon crop is believed to have been the largest ever harvested, and shipments reached the record total of 15,791 cars.

During the past month there have been no changes of moment to record in the industry. Stabilization of prices has not yet been achieved but fluctuations are less extreme and there is a growing disposition to believe that the time is not far distant when orders for future delivery can again be placed with some measure of confidenec. Current demands from purchasers, in combination with orders placed before recent price advances, have enabled mills to maintain a high degree of activity, and as a matter of fact, cotton consumption in September was in excess of that for September, 1920, and likewise greater than during the preceding August. The census bureau reported that 484,647 bales of lint cotton were consumed in the United States during September as compared with 457,647 bales in September, 1920, and 467,103 bales in August of this year. District No. 3 (Philadelphia) states that the "gray goods market is quiet and practically free from the speculative element." The market is reported to be well sold up for a month or six weeks. The demand is almost wholly of domestic origin and while buying is widely distributed, orders are small and for immediate shipment. Many gingham mills have their output sold up to April or May and a few mills not average about 10 per cent above July quotations. In the market for cotton yarns, buying, though steady, is in limited volume.

Some manufacturers in district No. 3 (Philadelphia) report that their production is sold ahead well up to the first of the year, but others will require new orders if their mills are to maintain the present schedule of operation. Business is said to be about evenly divided between weaving knitting yarns with an increase in inquiries from knitting mills, however.

The report of district No. 3 (Philadelphia) notes that there is a large movement into trade channels of yarn stocks purchased at the high prices prevailing last year, but now selling at prices below those that would be quoted by a spinner for the same counts today. Many of these yarns have been held by commission houses which have marked down their inventories.

In district No. 5 (Richmond), higher prices set by the mills have checked buying somewhat, but orders are sufficient to keep them running full time, and many are sold out for several months ahead. One large mill in the district manufacturing tire yarns and fabrics increased its business 50 per cent during the past month, while another chain of mills reported that they were not quoting for deliveries beyond 1921.

In district No. 6 (Atlanta), cotton mills are, generally speaking, operating at full capacity, and some of the mills have even found it necessary to install night shifts. The 34 representative cotton cloth mills which make regular reports to the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, produced 6.7 per cent more cloth in September of this year than a year ago, although the September average was 6.1 per cent below that for August, of this year. However, this decrease does not quite equal the advance in production that occurred during August. Orders on hand at the end of the month increased 8.9 per cent, as compared with the end of August, although they were 28.4 per cent below the outstanding orders for a year ago. The yarn production reported by 39 mills in the district showed a slight decrease, both as compared with September, 1920, and with the preceding August, the respective percentags being 4.2 and 8.0. Orders on hand at the end of the month, were, however, 3.0 per cent above those on hand at the end of August and 28.8 per cent above those on hand at the end of September, 1920.

Cotton Fabrics.

The 34 mills reporting to the National Association of Finishers of Cotton Fabrics showed a further increase of activity during September following a pronounced advance which occurred in August. The total number of finished yards billed during the month rose from 95,915,235 yards to 101,824,795 yards. The total gray yardage of finishing orders received increased from 101,741,412 yards in August to 107,336,429 yards in September.

Building Increases.

Atlanta reports an increase in the demand for lumber and some advance in prices of both higher and lower grades. The Southern Pine association's September statement, covering 133 member mills, shows actual production to be 22.23 per cent below normal, and shipments to be 18.6 per cent above actual production.

There is a marked increase in building in the Atlanta federal district. It reports that in fourteen important cities 2,847 permits were issued, valued at $5,150,280, as compared with 2,255, valued at $4,243,928, during the corresponding period last year.

The wholesale hardware and dry goods firms reported exceptionally heavy increases in sales in the Atlant adistrict during October. Grocery trade also showed a marked increase in the Atlanta territory.

A NEW COMPANY INVADES THE SOUTH

Its connection in Atlanta was brought about by two prominent Californians' interest in this section. After looking over the whole of the south, they felt that no better place for headquarters could be found than in Atlanta, so in a quiet manner they selected a conservative business man to head the company, and in as quiet a manner they have begun to distribute their products. It is interesting to note what a very prominent real estate man has to say. Mr. J. R. Robbins says:

"The juice from Grape Hearts entirely relieved me of an acid condition with which I have been troubled for many years and to which I traced many ailments, viz.: Poor blood circulation, constipation, headaches and constant aching of my limbs. After drinking juice from Grape Hearts, the acid condition has disappeared, and along with the disappearance of that my other troubles disappeared also. Many kinds of food were eliminated from my menu because of my acid condition; now I can eat and assimilate anything, and I feel like a new man. I have tried a number of remedies, but I shall in future recommend Grape Hearts to my friends, for it not only does the work, but it is pleasant to take, and the effects are magic. You are doing a good work in introducing Grape Hearts, a remedy that is so magical and with no ill effects. I cheerfully recommend this to sufferers, and the price of two dollars per package is forgotten after noting the effects. I usually take a wineglassful each night before retiring. By phoning Ivy 4556 or writing to 24 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga., you may get in touch with the Grape Hearts Distributing company."—(adv.)

WILL NOT RETIRE, DECLARES WHITE

St. Louis, Oct. 31.—(By the Associated Press.)—George White, of Marietta, Ohio, chairman of the democratic national committee, today issued a formal statement that he had "no intention of retiring from the chairmanship at this time unless all elements in the party can agree upon some one to succeed me." The statement came prior to the meeting of the committee here tomorrow to take stock of the party's assets, and to discuss further plans.

Among committeemen present the probability of "all elements" coming to a common mind on a new leader, was declared to be remote. Chairman White, it was said, intends to make a determined fight to defeat any effort to unseat him, if such should develop. It is the consensus, however, that no such fight would develop, it was explained.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, holding the proxy of Miss Henrietta Mitchell, committee woman from Mississippi, came in with Chairman White. Senator Harrison, with E. H. Moore, of Youngstown, Governor Cox's manager before the San Francisco convention, which nominated the latter for president, will compose Chairman White's general staff, in case it is necessary for the chairman to make a fight to retain his position. Mr. Moore was expected here later in the day.

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, and Thomas B. Love, of Texas, recognized among the leaders of the White opposition, have arrived and are conferring with various committeemen. Senator Harrison, discussing the possibilities of a fight on Chairman White, said "this is no time for the democratic party to divide." He anticipated that opposition to Chairman White would not develop seriously.

Chairman White's formal statement follows:

Text of Statement.

"This meeting is called to hear reports of my work as chairman, reports of my work as chairman, which includes reports of headquarters bureaus, to discuss party policy and to make plans for future operation.

"These objects include taking up matters of finance and making provisions therefor, and to discuss political conditions throughout the country.

"Concerning published reports with reference to my retirement, I have no idea of submitting my resignation at this time, unless all elements in the party can agree upon some one to succeed me, thus assuring party harmony and the conduct of the committee's affairs solely in the interest of the party as a whole.

"I would cheerfully make way for such a successor.

"My sole interest and ambition in the chairmanship is in the success of the democratic party, harmonious and undivided."

Possible Candidates.

Those mentioned as possible candidates for the chairmanship in case attempt is made to unseat Mr. White, are Daniel H. Roper, former commissioner of internal revenue; Senator Glass, of Virginia, and former Congressman Scott Ferris, of Oklahoma.

Mr. White stated the financial affairs of the committee involve a deficit of approximately $150,000, part of which represented liabilities of several years' standing.

Chairman White said he would attempt to have all committee sessions at which questions are discussed other than those mentioned in the official call, open to the press.

WOMAN ELECTED.

St. Louis, Mo., October 31.—Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, of Joplin, was elected national democratic committeewoman from Missouri at a meeting of the state committee here today. She succeeds Mrs. Burris Jenkins, of Kansas City, who resigned.

Concerto With Orchestra First Time at Howard

Two of the best things at the Howard theater last night were not on the printed program. One was the playing of a concerto by Charles Cooper, noted concert pianist, with the Howard orchestra, Enrico Leide conducting, and the other was the singing of the caged birds in the foyer who seemed almost to burst their little throats to surpass with their trills and roulades those of the pianist.

Late arrivals for the 7 o'clock performance developed a whole series of surprises, with a grand piano on the stage, and Liszt's concerto in E minor in course of performance, while the canaries on their gilded perches tested their own powers of bravura to the background of this brilliant concert piece.

Charles Cooper, the artist, has been brought here for Ampico week, the festival of music being promoted by Ludden & Bates, and thus with the co-operation of Enrico Leide, there was afforded that rare opportunity in Atlanta—the hearing of a concerto for piano and orchestra. The first performance betrayed the lack of adequate rehearsal, but the 9 o'clock program had developed the real spirit of co-operation, and Mr. Cooper, confident of his support, was revealed as a musician of highest standard.

The Liszt concerto is a "show" piece and Mr. Cooper has an extravagance of technical facility to display with clarity and brilliance all its scintillance, which is sometimes like the sudden burst of a fountain into play under many colored lights. Its melody is more defined, more sustained than many concertos, and therefore, it offers itself exceptionally well to the enjoyment of an audience, which, like that at the Howard, has a variety of tastes. This phase of the beauty of composition Mr. Cooper gave full value to, and the whole character of his playing aroused a keen curiosity as to his handling of the many-sided program promised for his appearance at the Auditorium Friday night in a recital, an invitation affair, which will be the culmination of Ampico week.

A well-presented melodrama of William de Mille's "After the Show," and a Harold Lloyd farce which left the audience as usual helpless with laughter, was the movie bill and the orchestra overture was a delightful performance of "Mignon," by Thomas.

AGED MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

tomobile, and did not regain consciousness.

Surviving Mr. Kay are his widow, and six sons, Vincent Kay, a conductor at the Howard theater; Lambdin Kay, associate editor of The Tri-Weekly Journal; Kenneth Edmond Kay, William G. Kay, Jr., Ralph T. Kay and Malcolm M. Kay.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Third Serious Accident.

The accident was the third serious one of its kind in the past two days the first being that of little 6-year-old John Augustus Gibbs, of R. F. D. 3, Decatur, who was struck late Sunday afternoon on Metropolitan avenue, in East Atlanta, and rushed to Grady hospital with a fractured skull. No case was made against the driver of the automobile, T. L. Keen, of 147 Flat Shoals avenue in view of statements made by the boy's mother that her son was entirely at fault in running across the street in front of the car, being apparently unaware of its approach.

During the period including Saturday, Sunday and Monday, fourteen accidents have taken place, resulting in thirteen injured, three seriously, the destruction of four automobiles and minor damage to a number of others and narrow escape from death of a number of occupants of the machines figuring in the crashes.

Auto Hits Street Car.

As the result of an automobile skidding and crashing headlong into an Oglethorpe university street car about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon on the Seaboard tracks on Peachtree street, two negroes, whose identity could not be learned, had a narrow escape from death, while the automobile was badly bent and battered.

A. W. Hawes was motorman of the outbound car, and he stated he saw the plight of the automobile, which according to reports, was going at a rapid rate of speed, and he stopped the street car. It was stated the negroes were badly injured. Efforts to learn their identity proved unsuccessful.

NEGRO SNATCH THIEF CAUGHT WITH JEWELRY

Ed Fowler, alleged negro snatch thief, was arrested Monday by J. M. Cawood, who recently became a member of the detective department, after Detective Cawood had recognized the man from a printed description and shadowed him for some hours. More than $1,000 worth of jewelry was found on the negro's person.

HIGHER VALUATION ON GAS PROPERTY

this commission, there was in this room a large group of ladies with bad gas bills. The company admitted that its service had been bad and showed how it could improve with increased rates. Now you don't see any ladies here with bad gas bills, and everyone is willing to admit that the service is excellent. There is no kick on that.

Made Better Gas.

"And the fact that there is no one here kicking on bad gas, proves the honor of the company and the employees. We asked for more money to improve the service and you gave it to us. The company took the money, gave us better and more complete equipment and we made better gas and served it to the customers. Now the rates are to be revised—upward, I hope, and not downward. If the rates are reduced and we are not allowed enough money to operate upon, I suppose the ladies will be back up here again with their big sheaves of bad gas bills."

Mr. McCrindall spoke in a pure Scotch brogue, which heightened the effect of his talk; he also told of the adverse effect this would have on the wages of the workers, who, he said, were already working for wages as low as they could live on with prices at their present status. He said that the power company employed 3,500 people, and that he estimated something like 20,000 people throughout the state were dependent on it. The others on the committee he represented were L. L. Wallis, W. E. Ham, Roy Bridwell, C. M. Bagwell and R. C. Fuller.

Felt Honor Bound.

Attorney J. J. Spalding asked if any one connected with the company has asked him or any other member of the committee to appear.

"No, sir," Mr. McCrindall almost shouted; "I feel honor bound to appear."

It was then that Dr. Huff questioned the witness.

"You say," said Dr. Huff, "that the last time you were here the room was full of women?"

"No," answered Mr. McCrindall, "I called them ladies." Dr. Huff then asked the witness if he knew that the ladies were unwilling witnesses, and had been subpoenaed to appear. The witness replied that he did not know that, and on further questioning by Dr. Huff said that his pay was $5 a day.

The attorneys for the company appearing in the hearing are the firm of Rosser, Slaton, Phillips and Hopkins; Spalding, McDougald and Sibley; Colquitt and Conyers; Gerald T. and Linton C. Hopkins, and J. Price Webster. Dr. Huff and Mr. McCrindell were the only people announcing their wish at the opening of the morning session to appear as private citizens.

Gordon T. Cavanaugh, who had assisted Mr. Luick in his inventory work, was the first witness of the afternoon session, telling that he had had charge of the calculation of the various unit costs, quantities, applications of the unit costs to quantities, and determination of depreciation. He said that the figures offered by Mr. Luick were correct. Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, asked if the witness thought prices sufficiently stable to make the valuation of $7,525,750 correct for several years to come, and the witness replied in the affirmative.

80 Per Cent Increase.

Mr. Luick was recalled to the stand and stated it as his belief that costs now were about 80 per cent above what they were in 1914. Mr. Brinkerhoff, later in the afternoon, made the same estimate. Mr. Luick said he did not believe business conditions to be normal now, but said that people seemed to believe prices would stabilize very nearly at their present level.

The witness also said that if there were no regulation of rate, he believed the just return on the fair valuation of the property would make the rate between $1.75 and $1.80 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas. He also said that a return of somewhere between eight and ten per cent was necessary before people would invest their money in the properties.

The gas service, in consideration of its convenience, cleanliness and general value of service, is worth something below $2 to the customer, said the witness.

Dr. Huff questioned the next witness with reference to municipal ownership. He asked Mr. Brinkehoff about the gas plant in Philadelphia and whether the witness knew it was municipally-owned. The witness did not know. Asked for the standard gas in Atlanta and that in Philadelphia, the witness stated that it was 575 British thermal units in Atlanta, and that he did not know the Philadelphia standard.

Response to Citation.

The morning session was featured by the testimony of Mr. Luick and the introduction of the gas company's response to the commission's citation. This, read by L. Z. Rosser said that the present rate of $1.65 was put into effect by the commission without a hearing, and that the granted rate of $1.90 was effective only three months. The company contended that the present rate has not been in effect long enough to show whether or not it is high enough or too high. The company also claimed that during the years 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920, the company had sustained losses aggregating nearly $1,000,000.

According to its response, the power company has had a complete inventory made of all its fixed physical property, the value claimed to be $6,100,750. Working capital, in the amount of $425,000, "going concern" value of $1,000,000, franchise value of $300,000, and cost of financing the business, $567,000, were other items listed as inventoried and corroborated by Mr. Luick.

In conclusion the company asked: "That the commission proceed to find and fix the present fair and reasonable value of the property devoted to the public service in its gas department, and that it do itemize said finding so that it can be examined separately and in detail.

"That the loss sustained during the past four years, as above set forth, amounting to about one million dollars, be either amortized during the next succeeding period of four years, or such other reasonable time as this honorable body may determine, or that respondent be permitted to at once capitalize said loss.

"That its present rates may be so revised and increased as to give a fair and just return upon the value of its property devoted to the public service."

MORTUARY

BACKING OF TIGERS BLAMED FOR CRIME

disgusted. They receive no encouragement and get no recognition when they do their duty and when they make arrests they have cold water thrown on them, so to speak."

Then after stating taht the representative business men of Atlanta ... petty fine is a joke and that the ... cash payment system ... abolished and a prison sentence inaugurated, it states that it "recommends another branch of the criminal court with another judge, which would relieve the court calendar and give time to trial and possible conviction to a great many cases that are now released on bond, which is forfeited, and the criminal never prosecuted."

The resolutions of the October ... of the chamber will go ... chamber's board of directors for approval. C. D. Montgomery was chairman of the jury. Among other members were H. C. Blake, William Burckel, G. P. Armstrong, H. M. Patterson, A. P. Burke, Murphy Holloway and J. R. Nutting.

Unfavorable Advertising.

Mr. Nutting, who is a member of council, was chairman of the jury's committee on advertising. "When a city grows to metropolitan size it attracts an undue proportion of the lawless and criminal elements of the country. It becomes headquarters for illegitimate business and vicious and criminal classes. Atlanta is no exception to the general rule.

"During the past eight or ten months, Atlanta has received a large amount of very unfavorable advertising, and in some instances on account of political antagonism, this unfavorable advertising has degenerated into almost open slander. "When our own people, or any considerable proportion of them, take the charge, and send the statements broadcast that our city is a hotbed of crime and lawlessness, we must not be surprised that outsiders reach the conclusion that the law-abiding people here have lost control, and that the criminal elements have taken charge.

Tell of Good Points.

"But if we devote our time to telling Atlanta's good parts and virtues and those things which have really made her great, we shall have very little time or opportunity to mention those unfortunate and unfavorable features that are not peculiar to Atlanta alone, but which are characteristic of all large cities, especially during the last two years of world wide lawlessness, one of the most disastrous heritages of the great war.

"In telling of the good and virtous attributes of Atlanta, let us not in any way relax our efforts to bring about improvements whenever possible in the moral tone of our community, let us keep in mind the fact that all cities need the regenerating influence of a sound sentiment, and that an improvement in our own case can be much more successfully brought about without too much partisan exploitation and without too much unfavorable and hypercritical fault finding."

One of the few fights of the meeting occurred when the committee on legislation, Murphy Holloway chairman, recommended that the state of Georgia acquire, own and operate its own printing plant for the purpose of doing the state's printing, and also for publication of primary text books.

A number of the jurymen said that the chamber included members whose livelihood depends on the success of their printing establishments and also that this tended toward government ownership. Mr. Nutting, Mr. Holloway and Mr. Montgomery declared that it was a good proposal and asserted that the state should print all school books and give them to students free.

Need Free Text Books.

Mr. Holloway said that it is a shame that Georgia ranks in the forty-first and forty-fourth class among the United States in education, and declared that the compulsory education system which we are trying to make feasible will never be carried out except by a correlated use of free text books.

He said that the printing plant established by the state of Kansas cost $125,000; that today it is worth $800,000, and that it saves the people of Kansas $131,000 yearly. Also that the California plant cost $350,000, and that it is now worth about $1,200,000.

Mr. Holloway ended by asking if Georgians will continue to sanction ignorance, and then said that the erection of this plant, which will, he said, only cost the state $125,000, and the furnishing of free text books to Georgians will be one of the biggest things possible of accomplishment.

Mr. Holloway also asked that the jury adopt his resolution calling on the state to issue $50,000,000 in good-road bonds. He said that it is a necessary amount for road development in Georgia, and that it will show that we appreciate the federal aid which has been given, but which may stop in four years if we do not wake up and appropriate a sufficient amount.

Adequate Bond Issue.

Mr. Nutting considered the $50,000,000 part too strong, and the resolution was adopted after substituting "adequate" for "$50,000,000."

In recommending a move for establishing an adequate appropriation level for Georgia Tech, Mr. Holloway declared that during the last thirty years the state has only appropriated $2,000,000 for Tech's maintenance.

He said that most of Tech's money has come from private sources, and when asked the amount he considered Tech should receive from the state, Mr. Holloway replied that he considered a yearly appropriation of $400,000 will be adequate.

The only other report adopted was presented by H. C. Blake, chairman of the committee on taxation. "We are convinced," it said, "that our present system of taxation should in some way be supplemented, but it is probable that the present schedule of occupation tax on gasoline imposed by the last general assembly may be sufficient as a supplement to the ad valorum system, but this, of course, cannot be definitely determined until it is known approximately what the gas taxes and the increased occupation taxes amount to."

WHITE WOMEN URGED TO VOTE IN GEORGIA

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 31.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Fearing that the great volume of negro women who register and vote in Georgia under the equal suffrage amendment may become a serious menace to white democratic supremacy in that state, Congressman Thomas M. Bell, of the Ninth district, has organized a vigorous campaign to arouse the white women of his district to the necessity of registering and voting, and other Georgia congressmen are expected to follow the example.

Congressman Bell has just mailed the following letter to every editor in his district:

Letter to Editors.

"Dear Mr. Editor: I believe you will agree with me when I say it is of the utmost importance that we maintain white supremacy in Georgia and in the south.

"The recent constitutional amendment enfranchises the negro women and I fear they will at the last moment, register and vote, as they have in Virginia.

"I know you are intensely interested in this matter and I am writing you to suggest that you write a ringing editorial giving good reasons why the ladies of the state should register and be prepared to vote. It may be obnoxious to many of them, but this is better than to suffer bitter humiliation when it is too late to remedy it.

"I hope and trust you will have something to say in each edition of your paper about this important matter until the registration books close. By so doing you will have done your country and fellowman an invaluable service.

"Command me at any time you need me. Your friend,
"THOMAS M. BELL.

"Washington, D. C., Oct. 29, 1921."

He will tomorrow follow this with a letter to leading white women in each militia precinct in his district, which will read in part as follows:

Letter to Women.

"I know you are interested in the civic and social welfare of your country, and I want to interest you in the political welfare of our beloved southland, and especially in our own state which we all love so well.

The amendment to the constitution of the United States, granting woman suffrage, enfranchises negro women, and when they qualify they will be entitled to vote. There are 1,206,365 negroes in Georgia, more than any state in the union. One of the number 615,365 are females. So you can see what we have to contend with. I voted against the amendment, because of the negroes in Georgia, but now that we have it we must all do our full duty in protecting our homes, our section and those near and dear to us."

"Twenty-four years ago, when the ninth district congressman first entered politics, standing at the time for clerk of the superior court of Hall county, Mr. Bell made a fight for and forced white primaries in his county, and subsequently in his congressional district when he ran for congress.

His present activity, therefore, is along familiar lines, and he is determined to get the white women to the polls at the forthcoming elections.

Interesting Program Slated for Telephone And Telegraph Meeting

A varied and interesting program has been arranged for the fifty-seventh regular meeting of the Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph society which will be held Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock in Cable hall. The feature will be an address on "The New Era," by Dr. William Torrence Stuchell, pastor of the Central Congregational church.

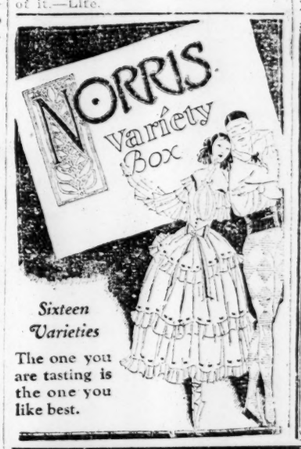

The program, which includes telephone demonstrations, plays and music, has been arranged by Evin P. Howell, chairman of the program committee. The telephone demonstration was personally arranged by Miss Laura M. Smith, chairman of the woman's executive committee of the chamber of commerce, who is a member of the traffic staff of the Southern Bell and Cumberland Telephone companies.

Atlanta Orchestra Wins.

The Atlanta orchestra has been invited to play several selections at the concert and fair that will be given at the Bulter street branch of the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 8 o'clock. This program was prepared for last Saturday evening, but the weather was inclement.

The Silk Bazaars of Bagdad in all their ancient glory never flaunted Banners of Such Silken Loveliness as these that softly wave in our Special Silk Display
A-Down the Big Main Aisle

Quality prevails—whether inexpensive or the last word in silken luxury—we call your attention to the high grade of every fabric.
We invite careful inspection and comparison.
Prices, considering quality, will always be found consistently low.

You will not be urged to buy—this exposition has been arranged for your pleasure. We hope you will come and enjoy it.
If it pleases you to buy, it will be our pleasure to serve.

YOU ARE INVITED to a feast of color and beauty that will surprise and delight.
Such rich lavishness, such infinite variety and loveliness of silken fabrics and accompanying laces, robes, flowers, fans, furs and fascinating trimmings are quite beyond your expectations.
MEN, TOO, will enjoy this—their innate sense of the beautiful—which they strive to hide—cannot but give a thrill of pleasure at such colorful beauty.

SILKS IN INFINITE VARIETY of weave and texture and design are so displayed as to give the full effect of their lustrous beauty.

A RIOT OF COLOR will greet you that will be a real joy to see. There are familiar silks and silks new—best of all, there are many of surpassing beauty of an exclusive nature that cannot be seen elsewhere.

We call your attention to these with especial pride.

The Miracle of Silk

Within silken prison walls a tiny life stirs. There is a struggle—minutely unimportant in itself, but as one of countless millions involving the silk industry of a world!

The little Cycle of Life must complete its course, so nature has provided a way. The end of the cell is moistened while tiny pincers claw and rend.

Soon a hole is made and a little gray-white moth crawls forth on wabbly legs to see its world. It rests a few moments on its prison walls—a yellow silk cocoon, firmly bound to a twig which has been placed on the feeding table for the purpose.

But Nature urges on. Time is brief. In a life span of four to six days the moth lays eggs to five hundred or more—eggs so minute that about one hundred will make a grain! Very soon tiny worms emerge from the eggs and feed on young mulberry leaves which are supplied fresh very frequently.

These little worms are most voracious eaters and increase in size rapidly, in a few weeks becoming full-fledged caterpillars. At maturity the caterpillar ceases eating and taks a brief rest.

At this stage small branches of brushwood are placed on the feeding tables.

Each caterpillar selects a little twig and starts about spinning its own cell.

It casts its tiny silken lines here and there for anchorage—quite regardless of the yards of thread expended. Nature seems to have provided an endless supply.

Each caterpillar spins a continuous thread of from 800 to 1,200 yards! The web is woven thicker and denser, till finally it centers in a cocoon so closely and compactly woven that no way is known to separate the threads. In three or four days the cell is finished. The spinning ceases.

The cycle is complete.

A few days later the cocoons are collected and all the surrounding webs of silk are carefully removed by intricate processes to be spun later into the silks we know.

So delicate are these web-like threads or fibers that from four to twenty are included in a single strand of silk, afterwards woven by many processes into the beautiful silks of commerce.

EXQUISITE ROBES and laces are displayed with wonderful effect with the silks of suitable nature.

FANS of lovely new designs and richest colorings have a prominent place, while flowers of rare beauty add touches of fine color here and there with tropical luxury.

RICH FUR bands and quite fascinating trimmings of sequins, beads and Oriental embroideries add many beautiful touches to the display of complete loveliness.

VOTE ON TAX BILL LIKELY THIS WEEK

Senate Leaders Confident of Passage Before Saturday, Though Many Items Are Unsettled.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 31.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Despite the effort to force a final vote on the tax bill in the senate there are many vital questions yet to be settled. Among them are:

Tax exemption for Americans engaged in business in China and other foreign countries and the Philippines.

The Smoot plan for a 3 per cent tax on sales by manufacturers and producers.

Retention of repeal of the corporation capital stock tax.

Modification of the proposed 15 per cent flat tax on corporations in such a way as to avoid any increase in the tax burdens of those with moderate earnings.

Application of the various proposed excise taxes.

New proposals for the taxation of insurance companies.

The senate leaders give assurance that this week positively will see the passage of the bill. The democrats are reported to have refused to enter into a unanimous consent agreement for a vote next Thursday. Its passage not later than Saturday seems assured.

The question of exemption from taxation of Americans engaged in business in China and in American possessions will be brought up in the senate tomorrow. Submission from the finance committee of a new proposal to take care of the situation in China and the Philippines without making the tax exemption world-wide, as was done in the provisions applicable to foreign traders and foreign trade corporations, which were eliminated ten days ago, revived this controversy at yesterday's session, but action was deferred until tomorrow. It is the understanding that if the pending amendment is approved an attempt will be made to restore the general provisions for tax exemption of foreign traders and foreign trade corporations.

While there have been no votes as yet on the Smoot plan for a 3 per cent tax on sales by manufacturers and producers, tests of strength during the past week on related questions have indicated about what the line-up will be. A group of influential republican senators will support the Smoot amendments, but none has claimed that a majority vote is in sight.

Among those who favor the sales tax in addition to Senator Smoot, of Utah, are Senators Edge and Frelinghuysen, New Jersey; Calder, New York; McLean, Connecticut; Moses, New Hampshire; McKinley, Illinois; New, Indiana, and Poindexter, Washington.

SENATE IN NIGHT SESSION.

Washington, October 31.—After spending the day discussing the soldiers' bonus, the senate tonight proceeded with the tax revision bill with unusual celerity, voting to retain $75,000,000 of taxes on corporations which had been proposed for repeal and lopping off a number of the excise levies now in force.

The first important action was the adoption of an amendment proposing a graduated corporation capital stock tax at rates of one dollar on each $1,000 of stock between $5,000 and $3,000,000, and two dollars per $1,000 on all over $3,000,000. Holding companies in paying this tax would be credited with the amount of the same tax paid their subsidiaries.

Reconsidering its former action approving the present 5 per cent tax on pianos and other musical instruments, the senate, without a roll call and little opposition, adopted an amendment by Senator Frelinghuysen, republican, New Jersey, repealing this tax.

The section proposing a 5 per cent levy on sporting goods was next eliminated, a compromise amendment striking out this section being adopted, 31 to 30.

The senate got stuck for a time on the cheming-gum section, but it finally voted 35 to 24 to repeal this tax, the existing rate of which is 3 per cent, and that proposed in the bill, 2 per cent.

The senate rejected an amendment by Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, to repeal the 10 per cent tax on cameras weighing less than 100 pounds and on lenses for such cameras; it then rejected a motion by the same senator to reduce the tax from 10 to 5 per cent.

At 11:20 p. m., the senate recessed until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

PAIN IN MUSCLES AND JOINTS CAUSED BY RHEUMATISM

To Get Genuine Relief You Must Clear Your Blood of Waste Products.

If we could keep our human bodies clean of the poisons which accumulate in them daily, and give them the full benefit of proper diet, we should live far beyond the average span of human life.

But alas! We realize only too often that we have an excess of waste products in our system. This poisonous waste matter not only causes a lowered vitality and many forms of skin disorders, but it also causes rheumatism—a disease that has no equal for pain. Genuine relief from the agonies of rheumatism can be had only by correcting the basic trouble—waste products.

Thousands and thousands of men and women during the past 50 years have cleared their blood of waste products with S. S. S. It is the ideal remedy for rheumatism, because it removes the poisonous waste matter which is causing the trouble. There are no bad after effects and the results is wonderful. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for 56-page illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free.

TRIAL OF WALKER SCHEDULED TODAY

Alleged Slayer, 15 Years Old, Must Rest Fate With Jury Following Death of Playmate.

Dublin, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—Charged with the murder of George Avery, his 18-year-old playmate, George Walker, 15, son of a prominent Laurens county planter, is scheduled to go on trial in the superior court Tuesday morning. The first trial of Walker resulted in a mistrial.

On Monday night, August 1, Avery and Walker attended a revival church service at the Orianna Methodist church. They were said to have been on friendly terms when they left the church together for the purpose of securing a drink of water at a well a short distance away. When the two boys had reached a point about midway between the church and well, a witness overheard an exchange of words which indicated an argument, and in a few seconds the two grappled.

Avery Falls.

Before anyone could interfere, young Avery was seen to reel and fall away from his younger antagonist.

Everyone in and around the little church rushed to the scene in time to see young Avery writhing in the last agonies of death and bleeding profusely from an ugly gash in the lower section of the abdomen. He was unconscious when reached, and made no final statement.

In the meantime, it is stated, Walker returned to the church and when informed of his former friend's death, knelt and prayed aloud for both himself and the boy whom he had killed. Later, he stood awed in the presence of the limp and lifeless body of Avery.

Walker Faints.

He swooned while uttering a prayer, declaring that he did not "go to kill George."

George B. Davis, candidate for attorney-general of Georgia in the last democratic primary, who is chief counsel for the defendant, was slightly indisposed tonight, but it is said that he would announce ready for trial tomorrow morning. Owing to the prominence of the two families and youthfulness of the alleged slayer, much interest is being manifested in the coming trial.

UNION ENJOINED IN WEST VIRGINIA

Order of U. S. Judge Bars Efforts to Unionize the Coal Field at Williamson.

Indianapolis, Ind., October 31.—Collection of funds of the United Mine Workers of America through the checkoff system, by which union membership dues are deducted from miners' wages by operators throughout the country was enjoined today by Federal Judge A. B. Anderson. Further, his order enjoined all union officials and members from seeking "by any and all means," to unionize the Williamson coal field in West Virginia, where violence has marked the strike that began more than a year ago. The order is a temporary one, but effective until changed by court.

Vain effort was made in court by counsel for the union to forestall the decree placing a ban on the "checkoff," and though officers withheld comment on the court order, it was said officially to be a staggering blow at the union. After issuance of the order, reports from Knox county, one big Indiana producing center, said that 3,000 miners planned mass meetings to determine their stand. The order itself indicated the possibility of many fights between operators and miners being broken by the ban on the checkoff.

The only comment on the order from the miners' side was a statement by Ellis Searles, editor of the official publication of the union, who asserted the injunction was "certainly joyful news for the United States Steel corporation," which, he added, was reputed to be the largest coal landowner in the strike zone.

Conspiracy Charge.

In giving his opinion Judge Anderson made it plain that he believed a conspiracy in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law had been shown at the hearing for the temporary injunction in the suit of the Borderland Coal corporation, acting on behalf of three-score other West Virginia operators. This conspiracy, the court said, existed between the union miners and operators in the central competitive field, comprising Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania, and that the "closed shop" operators of other states were as involved because of the "checkoff." He added that the trouble in West Virginia was due to an attempt to bring the only competitive field into the combination.

"How does this strike the man in the street?" he asked. "Here is an organization with enormous funds, all of which are collected by the checkoff system. The poor old consumer, without a friend in the world, is milked constantly by these operators and miners. I am going to stop the checkoff now. These operators know now that they are furnishing the sinews of war for that struggle in West Virginia."

Prohibits "Checkoff."

The court order as finally agreed upon after an all-day discussion of court and counsel as to the exact text, prohibited the checkoff and efforts toward unionizing the Williamson field, which includes Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky. It did not deny the right of workers to organize, or hold that the union was an unlawful organization. It also did not hold the "checkoff" was in itself unlawful, but was aimed at the use of money obtained through it.

However, the order was of a striking nature, applying to every operator in the country having agreements for the "checkoff" and affecting every union miner. After reciting that Judge Anderson believed he was compelled to issue it on account of the refusal of President John L. Lewis to cease efforts toward unionizing the Williamson field, the order named several Indiana operators as "representatives of the class of persons" in part, enjoined by the court.

"They are hereby," continued the order, referring to operators generally "restrained from collecting over and through their pay rolls or in any other manner, any and all moneys as dues and assessments levied or charged by the United Mine Workers of America, its officials or members upon or against its members, employees of said individuals and of defendant corporations, or who may hereafter be employed by them, under the checkoff provisions of the contracts in evidence herein and heretofore executed by, or on behalf of, said named defendants and the officials or members of the United Mine Workers of America, or under any and all contracts that may hereafter be executed between the said defendants and the officials or members of the said United Mine Workers of America, and from paying the same to the officials, members or representatives of the United Mine Workers of America."

Further Restraint.

Further the order provided that "all persons who now are or hereafter may be members" of the union were enjoined "from advising, assisting, encouraging, aiding, abetting, or in any way or manner and by any and all means whatsoever and especially by the use of any funds or moneys howsoever collected by the international union, United Mine Workers of America, its members, agents or representatives, the unionization or the attempted unionization of the non-union mines in Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky."

This provision of the order, however, was limited so as to permit union funds being used to feed strikers as follows. "But this injunction and restraining order is not to be interpreted or understood to prevent the payment by William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, sufficient funds to the members of the United Mine Workers, now living in tents or out of employment in Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky, for their actual necessities until further order of the court, this exception, however, does not include any person or persons not bona fide miners and not now members of the United Mine Workers of America and their dependents."

Directs Answer.

The order, which is temporary but errective until changed by court, also directed that the defendant union men and operators file an answer to the suit, in which the order was issued, within the next 30 days. No time was set for a final hearing, and defense counsel did not announce whether an appeal would be taken from the temporary order.

At the opening of court Judge Anderson read a statement of his reason for granting the order, and it indicated for the first time the scope of the injunction. Counsel for the union sought to limit the order to unlawful expenditure of union funds, but the judge held such an order would fail to reach the "checkoff" and the operators' connection with a conspiracy to restrain trade. In his statement Judge Anderson reviewed the evidence before him, and announced his findings of law.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

Eddie Carr and company in an absurd farce called "The New Office Boy," toplines a bill of vaudeville at Keith's Lyric for the opening three days of the week, the chief claim to distinction of which lies in its variety of entertainment. Mr. Carr and his company drew hearty laughs from the audience and were roundly applauded.

Clinton and Chappell, in a character comedy duo, was marked by some clever Italian chatter and songs, the young lady of the act taking the honors. Marie and Ann Clark, in a novelty offering entitled "In What?" also were warmly received.

Eary and Eary opened the program with a whirlwind aerial number, and the Jennier Brothers, "gymnasts of quality," closed it. Both these acts were unusually good in their line. News and feature pictures completed the program.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

The program offered at Loew's Grand theater for the first part of this festive week, the celebration of the fifth anniversary, realizes all and more than was expected. Jack Waldron and Betty Winslow are exponents of various types of modern fancy and character dancing, which they present in the most artistic style. The ketch as played by Octavia Handworth and her clever company of three men, entitled "Sal-vation Sue," is interesting and full of laughing spots all through, while the genteel tramp of Dave Thursby is a gem. Dana and Loehr are a very pleasing little couple, and the girl most attractive in her various changes of dress. The DeLyon Duo perform some astounding feats of balancing. The pre-release film feature, Tom Mix in "The Rough Diamond," is easily the best thing he has ever done. There are some timely scenes depicted in the Loew's News.

"Her Social Value."

(At the Metropolitan.)

One of the best motion picture productions of the season opened yesterday at the Metropolitan theater, for a week's engagement. It is "Her Social Value," starring Miss Katherine MacDonald.

The feature depicts the adventures of Marion Hoyte, who presides over the destinies of a glove counter in a large department store. She makes the acquaintance of a young society man, who saves her from arrest on an unwarranted charge, marries him and thus moves up into a higher strata of society.

However, her husband quickly learns that there is a penalty for marrying outside of his set, and support which was sending him upward to success was withdrawn as a result. Fearful that she will be the cause of his ruin, the young wife maneuvers to obtain a divorce by a clever method. But nothing can take the place of the happiness which had been theirs, and they are reunited in a mining town in the far west, following a thrilling series of adventures.

The entire production makes capital entertainment and the punch at the end is a strong one.

"Child Thou Gavest Me."

(At the Criterion.)

As the basic theme for "The Child Thou Gavest Me" at the Criterion this week, John M. Stahl, the director, chose the one sure-fire subject of the American drama—heart interest. Careful not to reduce his production to sentimental mush, yet never losing sight of the value of the human note in his story, the director made his picture a well-balanced combination of tense drama and subtle humor that cannot fail to arouse instant response in the spectator.

To say that "The Child Thou Gavest Me," is appealing and soul-stirring is not only taking advantage of overworked phrases, but is doing it advisedly and with full justification. A person who could sit through this picture without being touched by the plaintive little figure of a boy who lives in a house divided.

Little "Itchie" Headrick, who plays the part of the little son, is only three and a half years old.

"The Place of Honeymoons."

(At the Tudor.)

"The Place of Honeymoons," a film version of the famous novel of the same name, by Harold McGrath, is the attraction for the first half of the week at the Tudor theatre, and is a feature which carries with it all the thrills, the human touches and the love appeal, that motion picture fans are anxious to find in their search for entertainment. The escapades of a grand opera singer, her love affairs and the thrilling enactments of a jealous rival, coupled with the most daring methods of the ever faithful one, have given the producers of the picture a vehicle which they have lifted to a higher plane than the ordinary production of the cinema.

The leading roles are in the hands of Emily Stevens and Montague Love, supported by a cast of unusual strength. Miss Stevens has greater dramatic possibilities in the production than has ever been given her before, and does not fail to take advantage of the opportunity to demonstrate her dramatic ability.

SUITS FOR $13,000 BY BUNCO VICTIMS SET FOR SATURDAY

Petitions in equity, seeking to recover property and money amounting to $13,000, which the plaintiff's claim they lost to the bunco gang which operated in Atlanta, will be heard next Saturday following an order signed Monday by Judge John T. Pendleton to that effect.

The defendants in the cases are Floyd P. Woodward and his wife, Mrs. Helen Ruth Woodward; Clyde Smith and Mrs. Clyde Smith; Edith I. O'Brien, administratrix of the estate of Louis V., alias "Jacknife" O'Brien. The subject of the suit is already tied up by court order and its disposition will depend on the outcome of the present hearing.

The suits are brought by M. E. Holley, of South Carolina, who asserts that he was fleeced out of $11,000; R. W. Gillespie, of Georgia, who asserts that he lost $6,000; James A. Tutton, of Alabama, who alleges the loss of $3,600; George M. Wiley, of Pennsylvania, who asserts that he lost $10,000 in the "pay-off;" N. L. Davis, of Indiana, who reports loss of $5,500; and William R. Manning, of Texas, who alleges that the bunco artists fleeced him of $8,100.

It was announced that the petitions against all the defendants will be heard at the same time.

Attorneys Reuben Arnold, Lowry Arnold, Ed Hill and Herman Evins represent the plaintiffs.

Three-fourths of a husband's income is a fair share for the wife, according to the ruling of one New York magistrate.

THIS COUPON IS WORTH $1.00— A BOTTLE OF YEASTOSE FREE

Chemist, Through New Process, Produces a Yeast Wafer, Known as "Yeastose," That Is Delicious in Taste and Will Not Form Gas on Stomach. Coupon Accepted by Any Druggist in Atlanta.

Yeastose Wafers Contain Other Body-Building Ingredients That Increase Appetite, Weight and Energy, Aid Digestion and Clear Up the Complexion. The Best Form of Yeast for Children.

THE MOST COMPLETE VITAMINE PRODUCT YET DEVELOPED

Realizing the importance of vitamines to the human body, a chemist and dietitian began years ago to perfect a wafer that would contain all three vitamines, making hundreds of scientific laboratory tests and experiments, finally evolving "Yeastose Wafers," the most complete vitamine product yet produced.

The component parts of Yeastose Wafers are Yeast, Cod Liver Oil, Maltrose, Lactose, Saccharose, Orange, Peppermint, Whole Powdered Milk and Hydrochloric acid. The three vitamines represented by A, B and C are: A, Cod Liver Oil and Milk; B, Yeast and Milk; C, Orange and Milk, plus the digestive aid of Hydrochloric Acid. Have you seen any other formula the equal of this?

Any physician will tell you that this formula will give quicker and better results in cases of loss of appetite, weight and energy, due to impaired nutrition, as Yeastose does not rely upon yeast alone for restoring to the body its normal health and vigor.

Yeastose Wafers have a delicious flavor, and by a special process, each yeast cell is seered, which inactivates the yeast, and positively does away with stomach gases. Its delicious taste, and the absence of gas, makes Yeastose Wafers ideal for children as well as grown-ups.

The yeast cells used in Yeastose Wafers are from combined yeast cultures, and every flask of culture is microscopically examined and counted before put into wafer form. Each Yeastose Wafer has an average count of five million yeast cells, which is more than double the average count in any similar preparation, and you get a fifteen-day treatment for one dollar.

It will cost you nothing to try this new, improved yeast wafer. Simply cut out coupon below and take it to any druggist in Atlanta, who will redeem it with a free sample. If you do not live in Atlanta, fill out coupon and mail to The Yeastose Co., Atlanta, Ga., and you will receive an eight-day treatment free.—(adv.)

NOTE—Each Atlanta druggist has 60 samples, 12 of which are full $1.00 size bottles; 48 contain 10 wafers each. This coupon is good for a $1.00 bottle as long as they last.

Your old methods of teeth cleaning

See what this new way does. Watch your teeth whiten—note how clean they feel. Millions have learned in this way how much film removal means. It is something that you should know.

You must fight film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. It clings to the teeth unless you combat it, gets between the teeth and stays.

It forms a dingy coat which dims the luster of the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the daily brushing, very few escape them. The old brushing methods do not effectively fight film.

New ways to combat it

Dental science has now found ways to combat film. The methods are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. It has proved so effective that leading dentists everywhere are now advising it. And millions of people have already adopted it.

Pepsodent, with every use, brings five desired effects. It attacks the film in two efficient ways. It keeps teeth highly polished. It stimulates the salivary flow—Nature's great tooth-protecting agent.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva That to digest the starch deposits which cling to teeth and often form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Modern authorities regard these effects as essential aids to Nature, in view of the average diet. To bring those effects twice daily means such protection as you have not known before.

See and feel them

The results can be seen and felt. They are delightful, and this 10-day test will bring them 20 times.

Send the coupon for it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects, and the book we send you will tell you what they mean.

Do this now in justice to yourself. Learn how much this new-day method means to you and yours.

Found Dead.

Macon, Ga., October 31.—(Special.) J. D. Barclay, collector for a local installment house, was found dead today in the rear of a house on Monroe street, near Georgia avenue, by firemen from an engine house located nearby. At the coroner's inquest late this evening it was held that death was due to natural causes. Barclay was 45 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children, who reside at 105 Applewood avenue, East Macon.

Home Again—with the Same Old Backache!

DOES every day bring the same old, nagging backache? Do you rise in the morning lame and stiff? Drag through the day with your back a dull, unceasing ache? Evening find you "all played-out," thinking only of a little rest before tomorrow's weary grind? Then don't be discouraged. Realize it's merely a sign you haven't taken good care of yourself—been overworking and haven't had enough fresh air, exercise, rest and sleep. This has probably strained your kidneys. So instead of worrying, just take things easier for awhile and help the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Then if it's kidney backache, you'll soon get over it and the headaches, dizziness, tired feelings and bladder troubles will go, too. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Atlanta Folks Found Relief:

Mrs. W. O. Key, 125 Cooper Street, says: "My back ached almost continually, and in the morning it was worse. I seemed to be sick all over. Tiredness also bothered me, especially if I did a little work. My condition was such that I became nervous. Many a time my eyes were blurred by spots of colors. My kidneys were too free and badly disordered. I read in the paper of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I started using them. Two boxes of Doan's from Jacobs' Pharmacy rid me of kidney trouble."

J. H. McCown, retired grocer, 172 Luckie street, says: "Heavy lifting strained my back. Every time I would stoop over a soreness came in my back which hurt so I could hardly straighten up. I felt weak and tired every night, and, while working in the daytime, would have to sit down and rest. My kidneys were too free in action. I got hold of the right medicine in buying Doan's Kidney Pills, for, after taking them, I was fixed up in a fine way."

Mrs. S. F. Ritter, 122 South avenue, says: "I had kidney complaint and rheumatic pains. I couldn't use my left arm and my limbs ached and pained terribly. At times I could hardly move my fingers and my joints become swollen. I had dizzy headaches and felt weak and miserable. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought some from Jacobs' Drug Store and they relieved me from the first, so I continued to use them until I was free from the trouble."

Georgia-Virginia Battle Next

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

Special Train Is Going to Athens

With nothing more vivid than the Clemson game in the immediate offing for Georgia Tech followers and Atlanta football finds in general, the interest for the week shifts to Athens, where Georgia meets Virginia Saturday.

Indications are that a monster crowd from Atlanta will attend the contest. The alumni of the two institutions are particularly interested in the game as on that same day, the memorial to Von Gammon, the Georgia football player killed in a Georgia-Virginia contest in the last century will be unveiled.

So great have been the demands for railroad accommodations to Athens for the trip that Fred Geissler, assistant general passenger agent of the Seaboard Air Line, yesterday announced that a special train will be operated to and from the game. Details of his announcement follow:

"For the convenience and accommodation of the alumni of both the universities, Georgia and Virginia, the Seaboard will authorize reduced rate on basis of one fare for the round trip, which is $2.84 (including war tax), account of the football game at Athens, Saturday, November 5, between Georgia and Virginia, operating a special Pullman, observation car train in both directions, leaving Atlanta 9 a. m. (Atlanta time), arriving Athens 11:30 a. m. Returning, leave Athens 5:30 p. m. (Eastern time), arrive Atlanta 7 p. m. No stops will be made in either direction between Atlanta and Athens. Game will be called at 2 p. m. (Athens time), which will give ample time to secure lunch in Athens before the game.

"In order to guarantee the securance of the one-fare rate for the round trip, also special train service, it will be necessary to have minimum 125 adult fares; and all those contemplating the trip will kindly telephone Fred Geissler, assistant general passenger agent, Seaboard Air Line railway, Ivy 2708, for parlor car reservations and other information, at their earliest convenience."

Great Crowds Sure To Go On Train.

There shouldn't be any doubt but that the special will be packed. Those Georgia-Virginia contests are traditionally close games. When they are decided they are usually decided by one touchdown. In recent years they have not been decided at all. I don't know how many scoreless ties have been recorded by the two institutions, but I'll bet that the total scores of Georgia-Virginia battles will be smaller than the totals of any other classic combat of the American gridiron.

Georgia will doubtless be the favorite in whatever wagering is done on the contest. The Red and Black's desperately close game against Harvard has not been forgotten and the victory over Auburn last Saturday has added prestige to the Bull Dog's record.

Virginia has done remarkably well this year in its Old Dominion games. It defeated the powerful V. M. I. team, and has also done things to V. P. I., but last Saturday's showing against Princeton did not indicate any alarming strength on the part of the F. F. V.'s. Princeton won, 30-0, and the Tiger threw in the reserves after having scored three touchdowns early in the going.

Still, you never can tell on a battle like that. Georgia was pointing for Auburn, and won't be as good this week as it was last. Then, under the terms of the contract with Virginia, the Red and Black will not be allowed to use freshmen, which will put a serious crimp into the Georgia backfield effectiveness.

More Trouble Ahead For Mike Donahue.

When Tulane lost the first game of the season to Mississippi College, the news was a choice morsel for Mike Donahue, of Auburn. It seemed to mean that Mike would have a breathing spell between two of his mort important games, the annual struggle with Georgia and the scrap with Centre college.

Now Mike has lost to Georgia, and undoubtedly the morale of his team has suffered somewhat. On the other hand, Tulane has journeyed up north and make a remarkably fine showing against the heavy University of Detroit team.

When Mike meets the Greenbacks in New Orleans Saturday he will have no assurance in the world that he is in for anything but a very warm afternoon.

RAIN HAMPERS EMORY GAMES

The third round of the interclass football games at Emory took place yesterday afternoon on the campus. Due to the heavy rains, the four teams were hindered somewhat in their playing. Many fumbles were in evidence during the entire afternoon.

The first game of the day's play was between the Law school and Junior-Seniors, which ended in a 0 to 0 tie. The ball was see-sawed up and down the field, but owing largely to the condition of the field neither team could get within striking distance of the goal before a fumble showed up and the ball would go over to the other side. Williams and Beal were the shining lights of the first game from a Law standpoint while Callahan and Rochelle played best for the two upper classes.

In the second game on the program, the Freshmen-Sophomores defeated the fast Theologs by the score of 7 to 0. Like the first game, the second encounter was not as good as it should have been because of the field, but nevertheless the large bunch of rooters seemed satisfied with the showing that was made.

Bill Jones made the only touchdown of the day when he bucked the ball over from the three-inch line for the Freshmen-Sophomores. Beasley carried the ball to the three-inch line and tried twice to carry it over from that position but without results, so the task was transferred to Jones, who succeeded. Tinnoy for the Preachers played the best game thus far seen on Emory campus. Cannon also played a good game.

AMERICAN LEGION OPENS CONVENTION

was grateful for all America had done. Herbert Hoover, who had charge of food administration in Belgium, and General Pershing, were especially eulogized by General Jacques. Both he and General Diaz were escorted from the hall when they had finished speaking, convention officials stating that a busy program had been mapped out for them.

Visitors Leave.

After the visitors from Eurpean had gone, the convention, tired out by the series of demonstrations, settled back to hear from "the home folks."

Major-General John L. Lejeune, commander-in-chief of the United States Marine corps, told what it meant to be a marine during the war. He was followed by General Robert McBride, of Indianapolis, senior vice commander and representing the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, who delivered a message of greeting on behalf of his organization.

A mixup came just before adjournment this afternoon, when by motion of a Missouri delegate, permission was sought for a representative of the Missouri Women's Christian Temperance union to address the convention. The motion was rejected on an aye and nay vote, on the ground that a speech dealing with temperance would be partisan and improper. Later J. W. Inseer, of Chattanooga, Tenn., national chaplain of the legion, took the platform and explained that the Missouri W. C. T. U. merely wished to extend its greetings, and did not expect to touch upon the question of prohibition. The convention then voted to reconsider its original motion and hear the speaker.

Extends Support.

Mrs. Nell Berger, president of the Missouri W. C. T. U., spoke for her organization, and extended its support to the legion in its campaign for congressional legislation providing compensation for soldiers.

Beatty Speaks.

Earl Beatty, admiral and commander of the British grand fleet, urged the members of the legion to keep alive the spirit of comradeship developed in the great war.

He declared this was the task of the legion which helped to make possible a victorious peace and affirmed that the value of such comradeship was the great lesson of the war. He told them they could earn a still greater debt of gratitude by inculcating the same spirit in those engaged in the important pursuits of peace. Admiral Beatty said:

"We fought a malignant autocracy which sought to impose its domination on other nations and their duly constituted governments. Proud of their freedom and true to their traditions these great nations sacrificed everything to preserve their integrity. Great peace-loving nations, immersed in the pursuit of their domestic affairs, rallied to meet the danger, raised mighty fleets and armies and stood shoulder to shoulder in the path of the aggressor.

"It is to the immortal glory of the American nation that, far removed though they were from the carnage and devastation of the battlefields, they came at a moment when the outlook was darkest to the relief of the sorely tried peoples who were threatened with destruction."

ANTI-LYNCH BILL OUT OF COMMITTEE

as a nation, for we cannot claim to be civilized until our laws are respected and enforced and our citizens secured against the hideous cruelties of which we are constantly furnishing fresh examples."

The report added that while it had been impossible to get accurate figures, available records showed 3,224 persons had been lynched in the last 30 years, of which 2,522 were negroes.

Minorty Report.

Declaring the bill unconstitutional, the minority report presented by Representative Sumners, democrat, Texas, contended it would tend to destroy the sense of local responsibility without adding to the protection of the people.

"This bill, in the judgment of the minority, is without constitutional warrant," said the report. "It is definitely and directly antagonistic to the philosophy of our system of government and within the limit of its effectiveness if it should be held constitutional would be destructive of that system.

"If enacted and operative it would not add to the protection of person or general efficiency of government nor strengthen the relationship between the federal government and the states. On the contrary, this proposed intervention of the federal government directed against local power, supplanting and superseding the sovereignty of the states, would tend to destroy that sense of local responsibility. . . .

"This bill, challenging as it does, the relative governmental efficiency of the states and the integrity of purpose of their governmental agencies, placing the federal government, as it does, in the attitude of arbitrary dictator assuming coercive power over the states, their officers and their citizens in matters of local police control, would do incomparable harm to the spirit of mutual respect and trustful co-operation between the federal government and the states essential to the efficiency of government."

Mr. Dyer will ask for a rule to bring the bill up for consideration probably this week.

FULTON GETS TOUGH FOE

BY FRED HANEY.

Fulton, like the rest of the Atlanta prep schools, will have a tough opponent Friday afternoon, when the team travels up to Powder Springs to do battle with the Seventh District A. & M. school. Whether the Atlanta boys will be able to defeat a team so much heavier than themselves cannot be said, but there is one thing, and that is Coach Van Buren's boys will put up some real football in an effort to come home victorious.

The Fulton team is slowly recuperating from the game last Friday with Gainesville High School, where the Fulton lads returned home with nothing except the small end of a 62-to-0 score, and a few minor injuries, which are expected to be entirely well by the time that they exhibit their wares Friday.

A few changes have been made in the line-up which it is believed will have a telling effect on the team. From reports, Wilder has given up his position at center for a berth in another part of the line, and Jess Walton, the famous Buckhead athlete, will shove the piksgin to the backfield for the Whitehall street lads.

Kiker seemed to have it all over his Gainesville opponents in last Friday's game by his all-round playing, and if he continues this good work until after the game Friday the Aggies will have no little amount of trouble.

G. M. A. is facing the coming week with the sober realization that they are up against the best team that they have yet played in Boys' High—a team of eight of last year's veterans, heavier than G. M. A., and with a week's rest to their credit, while G. M. A. was biting off a mouthful in the Carrollton Aggies. G. M. A. has been heavily overrated all during the fall. They have been fortunate in several games, and have not yet stood the acid test that all teams stand during the season.

The team works hard, is willing, and faithful, and is learning football, but they are weak on many fundamentals of the game, where a yeteran outfit is always strongest. An examination of the "Thin Red Line" man for man yields several surprises. For instance, there is but one of last year's varsity back, Sam Simowitz; of all the rest of the regular eleven, eight men played on the scrub outfit, while the other two men are first-year men—"rats."

Tudor Theater Shows Movies of Tech-Penn Game

Through the efforts of William (Bill) Oldknow, pioneer motion picture promoter and football enthusiast, the Tudor theater was showing to its patrons on Monday scenes of the Penn State-Georgia Tech football game, which was played on Saturday at the Polo grounds in New York city.

As an example of enterprise, this is a feat that has never been excelled in Atlanta motion picture circles. The game between these two colleges was not completed until late Saturday afternoon, and yet the negatives were developed, printed and titled, then shipped to Atlanta and ready for showing on Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

The pictures were taken under the personal supervision of Mr. Oldknow and show every important play of the game besides close-ups of the principal players, the sponsors and scenes incidental to the game.

DETROIT-CENTRE GAME WANTED BY BOSTON

Detroit, October 31.—Efforts are being made to arrange a game between the University of Detroit and Centre College football elevens in Boston on Thanksgiving day. Replying to an inquiry from a Boston promoter, officials of the local team have advised him they are willing to meet the Kentuckians if faculty permission can be obtained. Such permission is expected.

MINOR TO HEAD CAMPAIGN WORK IN SUMTER COUNTY

Americus, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—Carl W. Minor, pastor of the First Baptist church, has accepted the post of chairman for Sumter county of the fifth annual roll call of the Red Cross. The date of the roll call will be November 11-24. Prior to the launching of the campaign, Miss Adele Stamp, division representative of the Red Cross, will visit Americus November 7 to perfect final arrangements.

An executive committee composed of Dr. H. B. Allen, Rev. F. P. Anderson, Hillard Williams, Rev. Silas Johnson and J. E. B. McLendon has been chosen locally to assist Dr. Minor in the campaign.

GEORGIA-VIRGINIA GOVERNORS TO ATTEND FOOTBALL BATTLE

Athens, Ga., October 31.—Athens is to be the host of two executives and their wives Saturday when Governor and Mrs. Thomas W. Hardwick, of Georgia, and Governor and Mrs. Davis, of Virginia, are in the city as the guests of honor at the Georgia-University of Virginia football game, which is to precede the unveiling of the Van Gammon memorial.

The memorial is being presented to the University of Georgia by the University of Virginia as an honor to the memory of Van Gammon, a Georgia boy, raised in Rome, who was killed in a football game in Atlanta between Virginia and Georgia in 1894. The University of Georgia has supplemented the amount put into the memorial by Virginia and it is one of the most beautiful tablets ever seen. It is to be placed in the George Foster library on the University of Georgia campus.

Football Opens Magnate's Eyes

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Garry Is Looking for Yale Stock

New York, October 31.—If Garry Herrman, of Cincinnati, ever sees one of these college games, like mumblety-peg or football, and counts up thirty-odd thousand people sitting in at the rate of one-to-three and no rain checks given, Garry Herrmann, of Cincinnati, will certainly look up the owners of some good college team and try to buy in on the club.

During the late world's series at the Polo grounds, there was one game with an attendance below 28,000. And here comes the Penn State football club and the Georgia Yellow Jackets, minor-leaguers, in a football way, drawing more than 30,000 to the same Polo grounds at a time of the year when a world's series couldn't raise a quorum, counting groundkeepers, bat boys and actors who have licked John McGraw.

To baseball people, football has been pretty much rah-rah, but judging from the extremely dug-up condition of the turf behind second base after the Golden Tornado of Georgia hit the keystone of Penn State last Saturday, the college kid carrying the ball makes Babe Ruth in a hook slide resemble a dull moment in the inter-class bean-bag tournament of a young ladies' finishing school at some nice, quiet spot on the historic Hudson.

Quick Route to Hospital.

They say, nevertheless, that the quickest way to the nearest hospital is to approach a college football player with a salary proposition, a situation that defies the understanding of a baseball-minded promoter. Indeed, the average football team's salary list is reliably reported as nearer nothing at all than something to put in the bank, and the players buy their own T-bones, rare, except when the club is on the road.

Well, if you can make this game out, maybe you can make some money at football, as nobody else seems to be working the racket.

The three biggest clubs in the east are the Harvard club, belonging to Harvard university; the Yale club, owned by Yale university, and the Tigers, from a little town down in Jersey called Princeton. Most of the players are students, but in the old days some of the students were players.

In the early part of the season these three teams put in their Saturday afternoons holding little teams to small victories, which don't count, because these are only practice games. Later on they get together and the Yale boys add to their string of glorious defeats, although Princeton has been crowding Yale for that glory this season.

One Mustn't, Mustn't One.

The Harvards are noted for their sportsmanship, demonstrated only last Saturday, when a bush league club came up from Centre college, Kentucky, and won the ball game, 6 to 0. The southern club expected to play the Harvard regulars, but after the game, it turned out that they had beaten only the scrubs. Harvard has no alibi for the licking, being full of sportsmanship, but one must admit that one's scrubs are one's scrubs, after all, and ont one's regulars, mustn't one? By the time the Kentucky club arrives home, the wires will be telling that most of the regular Harvard scrubs were suffering from epidemic goose-flesh last Saturday, and explaining that Centre really beat the scrubs of the Harvard scrubs.

GEORGETOWN VARIES DRIVE

Washington, October 31.—Recent practices at the Hilltop indicate that Head Coach Exendine, of the Georgetown eleven, may try to beat Georgia Tech November 12 at Atlanta at its own game. While Johnny McQuade and Captain Jack Flavin have been confined to line plunges this season in most of the Blue and Gray games, recent scrimmages have seen the two Georgetown aces skirting the ends on sweeping runs, with a fancy array of trick plays far different than the offering of the Washington team for the last two seasons.

Forward passing is also coming in for its share of attention and the giant ends, Florence and O'Connell, both members of the basketball team that last winter defeated Tech at Washington, have developed into the greatest pigskin catches that have worn a Georgetown uniform in many years. Tech is still considered as the one and only objective of the Senators and the successful stopping of Gagnon and Simendinger, backs much on the type of Barron, has caused Georgetown supporters to believe that the Golden Tornado will receive the same setback as the Blue and Gray handed the Purple.

Coaches are confident that in at least one department Georgetown will surpass Tech. In the Holy Cross game, the mighty toe of Captain Jack Flavin sent the oval hurtling over 110 yards, shifting the scene of play from his own goal line to the very goal posts of the Purple. While other kicks have averaged great distances on the rolling of the ball, Flavin's lusty boot was remarkable in that it traveled 75 yards in the air. While Billy Kenyon's educated toe was not needed to drop them over from placement in the Holy Cross game, Exendine is anticipating no such easy time in the Tech contest and the little fullback spends an hour or more daily at placement kicking from the middle of the field.

Whole Tech Student Body Out To Welcome Tornado Back Home

High Praise Given Nittany Lion—Jackets Want Penn at Grant Field in 1922.

If the roll of the student body of the Georgia School of Technology had been called yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock out at the Brookwood station every man would have answered present. That was one formation which no Tech man balked at attending.

For the Golden Tornado was returning from its great adventure to New York and like most adventurers it was returning home with heart a bit heavy and pockets a bit light and needed that cheer and confidence that can only be imparted by close communion with the home folks.

That's what the student body was on hand to give. As the Golden Tornado specail pulled up at the station there were yells just as loud and just as hearty as if those yells were welcoming returning victors. When the members of the squad had mounted the stairs there were eager hands to carry the baggage of each man who had fought on the stricken field of the Polo grounds and there were automobiles handy to speed them home to where everything was ready to make them forget Penn State and that 28-7 score.

But the returning boys were full of fight and the right kind of fight as they got back. They want another whirl at Penn State next year. Some of the players were authority for the statement that negotiations were already under way for a renewal of the game. The present plans contemplate a battle with Penn State on Grant field, but another trip to the Polo grounds is not beyond the range of possibilities.

Chip Robert, alumnf director of athletics, is still in New York, and it is understood that his stay there has something to do with arranging another go with the Nittany Lions.

The athletes were loud in their praises of the Penn State team. "They were the best football players we ever encountered and they were the cleanest sportsmen we ever ran across," was the way one athlete expressed it. "It will be a pleasure to every one of us to meet those boys next season."

Little Work This Week.

Not much work will be undertaken by the Tornado squad this week. Today will be spent in recovering morale and nursing bruises, for if the Penn State athletes did play cleanly, that is not saying that they didn't play hard. Then there will be a loosening up practice Wednesday with perhaps a light scrimmage Thursday and a signal drill Friday. That's about all the preparation the team will take for the Clemson game.

The team had reached its finest edge for Penn State. The task of the coaches from now on will be to have the team hold that edge for as much of it as possible.

TRIAL OF WALKER SCHEDULED TODAY

Alleged Slayer, 15 Years Old, Must Rest Fate With Jury Following Death of Playmate.

Dublin, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—Charged with the murder of George Avery, his 18-year-old playmate, George Walker, 15, son of a prominent Laurens county planter, is scheduled to go on trial in the superior court Tuesday morning. The first trial of Walker resulted in a mistrial.

On Monday night, August 1, Avery and Walker attended a revival church service at the Orianna Methodist church. They were said to have been on friendly terms when they left the church together for the purpose of securing a drink of water at a well a short distance away. When the two boys had reached a point about midway between the church and well, a witness overheard an exchange of words which indicated an argument, and in a few seconds the two grappled.

Avery Falls.

Before anyone could interfere, young Avery was seen to reel and fall away from his younger antagonist.

Everyone in and around the little church rushed to the scene in time to see young Avery writhing in the last agonies of death and bleeding profusely from an ugly gash in the lower section of the abdomen. He was unconscious when reached, and made no final statement.

In the meantime, it is stated, Walker returned to the church and when informed of his former friend's death, knelt and prayed aloud for both himself and the boy whom he had killed. Later, he stood awed in the presence of the limp and lifeless body of Avery.

Walker Faints.

He swooned while uttering a prayer, declaring that he did not "go to kill George."

George B. Davis, candidate for attorney-general of Georgia in the last democratic primary, who is chief counsel for the defendant, was slightly indisposed tonight, but it is said that he would announce ready for trial tomorrow morning. Owing to the prominence of the two families and youthfulness of the alleged slayer, much interest is being manifested in the coming trial.

UNION ENJOINED IN WEST VIRGINIA

Order of U. S. Judge Bars Efforts to Unionize the Coal Field at Williamson.

Indianapolis, Ind., October 31.—Collection of funds of the United Mine Workers of America through the checkoff system, by which union membership dues are deducted from miners' wages by operators throughout the country was enjoined today by Federal Judge A. B. Anderson. Further, his order enjoined all union officials and members from seeking "by any and all means," to unionize the Williamson coal field in West Virginia, where violence has marked the strike that began more than a year ago. The order is a temporary one, but effective until changed by court.

Vain effort was made in court by counsel for the union to forestall the decree placing a ban on the "checkoff," and though officers withheld comment on the court order, it was said officially to be a staggering blow at the union. After issuance of the order, reports from Knox county, one big Indiana producing center, said that 3,000 miners planned mass meetings to determine their stand. The order itself indicated the possibility of many fights between operators and miners being broken by the ban on the checkoff.

The only comment on the order from the miners' side was a statement by Ellis Searles, editor of the official publication of the union, who asserted the injunction was "certainly joyful news for the United States Steel corporation," which, he added, was reputed to be the largest coal landowner in the strike zone.

Conspiracy Charge.

In giving his opinion, Judge Anderson made it plain that he believed a conspiracy in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law had been shown at the hearing for the temporary injunction in the suit of the Borderland Coal corporation, acting on behalf of three-score other West Virginia operators. This conspiracy, the court said, existed between the union miners and operators in the central competitive field, comprising Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania, and that the "closed shop" operators of other states were as involved because of the "checkoff." He added that the trouble in West Virginia was due to an attempt to bring the only competitive field into the combination.

"How does this strike the man in the street?" he asked. "Here is an organization with enormous funds, all of which are collected by the checkoff system. The poor old consumer, without a friend in the world, is milked constantly by these operators and miners. I am going to stop the checkoff now. These operators know now that they are furnishing the sinews of war for that struggle in West Virginia."

Prohibits "Checkoff."

The court order as finally agreed upon after an all-day discussion of court and counsel as to the exact text, prohibited the checkoff and efforts toward unionizing the Williamson field, which includes Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky. It did not deny the right of workers to organize, or hold that the union was an unlawful organization. It also did not hold the "checkoff" was in itself unlawful, but was aimed at the use of money obtained through it.

However, the order was of a striking nature, applying to every operator in the country having agreements for the "checkoff" and affecting every union miner. After reciting that Judge Anderson believed he was compelled to issue it on account of the refusal of President John L. Lewis to cease efforts toward unionizing the Williamson field, the order named several Indiana operators as "representatives of the class of persons" in part, enjoined by the court.

"They are hereby," continued the order, referring to operators generally "restrained from collecting over and through their pay rolls or in any other manner, any and all moneys as dues and assessments levied or charged by the United Mine Workers of America, its officials or members upon or against its members, employees of said individuals and of defendant corporations, or who may hereafter be employed by them, under the checkoff provisions of the contracts in evidence herein and heretofore executed by, or on behalf of, said named defendants and the officials or members of the United Mine Workers of America, or under any and all contracts that may hereafter be executed between the said defendants and the officials or members of the said United Mine Workers of America, and from paying the same to the officials, members or representatives of the United Mine Workers of America."

Further Restraint.

Further the order provided that "all persons who now are or hereafter may be members" of the union were enjoined "from advising, assisting, encouraging, aiding, abetting, or in any way or manner and by any and all means whatsoever and especially by the use of any funds or moneys howsoever collected by the international union, United Mine Workers of America, its members, agents or representatives, the unionization or the attempted unionization of the non-union mines in Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky."

This provision of the order, however, was limited so as to permit union funds being used to feed strikers as follows. "But this injunction and restraining order is not to be interpreted or understood to prevent the payment by William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, sufficient funds to the members of the United Mine Workers, now living in tents or out of employment in Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky, for their actual necessities until further order of the court, this exception, however, does not include any person or persons not bona fide miners and not now members of the United Mine Workers of America and their dependents."

Directs Answer.

The order, which is temporary but errective until changed by court, also directed that the defendant union men and operators file an answer to the suit, in which the order was issued, within the next 30 days. No time was set for a final hearing, and defense counsel did not announce whether an appeal would be taken from the temporary order.

At the opening of court Judge Anderson read a statement of his reason for granting the order, and it indicated for the first time the scope of the injunction. Counsel for the union sought to limit the order to unlawful expenditure of union funds, but the judge held such an order would fail to reach the "checkoff" and the operators' connection with a conspiracy to restrain trade. In his statement Judge Anderson reviewed the evidence before him, and announced his findings of law.

HOME ON SEVENTEENTH STREET BRINGS $17,000

A brick bungalow at 217 East Seventeenth street has been sold by Mrs. Irma J. Clay to W. H. Rhett for $17,000, it was announced Monday by the J. H. Ewing Realty company. The sale of 14 acres of land near the corner of Hemphill avenue and Pace's Ferry road by the Tuxedo Park corporation to Hugh Richardson was also disclosed, but no figures were given out.

The two-story frame dwelling at 493 Ponce de Leon avenue owned by Mrs. Bessie Stephens has been purchased by C. J. Bible for $10,000. The house is on a lot 64 by 100.

The Atlanta Title and Trust company reported Monday that the following bonds for title were issued Monday:

$1,800—Murphy Real Estate company to Joseph T. Floyd, lot west side Ashby street, 223 feet north of White, 55x155 feet; November 12, 1920.

$1,302—Ewing Realty company to S. C. Bowen, lot north side Sidney street, 100 feet west of Hill, 50x146 feet; May 11, 1921.

$1,100—Mrs. Helen Reed Turman to J. W. Edge, lot southwest side Richmond avenue, 226 feet northwest of Schoen, 55x150 feet; October 19, 1921.

$14,000—R. H. Burgess to Carl R. Allen and Ethel B. Allen, No. 29 West Ontario avenue, 50x165 feet; October 24, 1921.

Found Dead.

Macon, Ga., October 31.—(Special.) J. D. Barclay, collector for a local installment house, was found dead today in the rear of a house on Monroe street, near Georgia avenue, by firemen from an engine house located nearby. At the coroner's inquest late this evening it was held that death was due to natural causes. Barclay was 45 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children, who reside at 105 Applewood avenue, East Macon.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

Eddie Carr and company in an absurd farce called "The New Office Boy," toplines a bill of vaudeville at Keith's Lyric for the opening three days of the week, the chief claim to distinction of which lies in its variety of entertainment. Mr. Carr and his company drew hearty laughs from the audience and were roundly applauded.

Clinton and Chappell, in a character comedy duo, was marked by some clever Italian chatter and songs, the young lady of the act taking the honors. Marie and Ann Clark, in a novelty offering entitled "In What?" also were warmly received.

Eary and Eary opened the program with a whirlwind aerial number, and the Jennier Brothers, "gymnasts of quality," closed it. Both these acts were unusually good in their line. News and feature pictures completed the program.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

The program offered at Loew's Grand theater for the first part of this festive week, the celebration of the fifth anniversary, realizes all and more than was expected. Jack Waldron and Betty Winslow are exponents of various types of modern fancy and character dancing, which they present in the most artistic style. The sketch as played by Octavia Handworth and her clever company of three men, entitled "Salvation Sue," is interesting and full of laughing spots all through, while the genteel tramp of Dave Thursby is a gem. Dana and Loeffr are a very pleasing little couple, and the girl most attractive in her various changes of dress. The DeLyon Duo perform some astounding feats of balancing. The pre-release film feature, Tom Mix in "The Rough Diamond," is easily the best thing he has ever done. There are some timely scenes depicted in the Loew's News.

"Her Social Value."

(At the Metropolitan.)

One of the best motion picture productions of the season opened yesterday at the Metropolitan theater, for a week's engagement. It is "Her Social Value," starring Miss Katherine MacDonald.

The feature depicts the adventures of Marion Hoyte, who presides over the destinies of a glove counter in a large department store. She makes the acquaintance of a young society man, who saves her from arrest on an unwarranted charge, marries him and thus moves up into a higher strata of society.

However, her husband quickly learns that there is a penalty for marrying outside of his set, and support which was sending him upward to success was withdrawn as a result. Fearful that she will be the cause of his ruin, the young wife maneuvers to obtain a divorce by a clever method. But nothing can take the place of the happiness which had been theirs, and they are reunited in a mining town in the far west, following a thrilling series of adventures.

The entire production makes capital entertainment and the punch at the end is a strong one.

(At the Criterion.)

As the basic theme for "The Child Thou Gavest Me" at the Criterion this week, John M. Stahl, the director, chose the one sure-fire subject of the American drama—heart interest. Careful not to reduce his production to sentimental mush, yet never losing sight of the value of the human note in his story, the director made his picture a well-balanced combination of tense drama and subtle humor that cannot fail to arouse instant response in the spectator.

To say that "The Child Thou Gavest Me," is appealing and soul-stirring is not only taking advantage of overworked phrases, but is doing it advisedly and with full justification. A person who could sit through this picture without being touched by the plaintive little figure of a boy who lives in a house divided.

Little "Itchie" Headrick, who plays the part of the little son, is only three and a half years old.

"The Place of Honeymoons."

(At the Tudor.)

"The Place of Honeymoons," a film version of the famous novel of the same name, by Harold McGrath, is the attraction for the first half of the week at the Tudor theatre, and is a feature which carries with it all the thrills, the human touches and the love appeal, that motion picture fans are anxious to find in their search for entertainment. The escapades of a grand opera singer, her love affairs and the thrilling enactments of a jealous rival, coupled with the most daring methods of the ever faithful one, have given the producers of the picture a vehicle which they have lifted to a higher plane than the ordinary production of the cinema.

The leading roles are in the hands of Emily Stevens and Montague Love, supported by a cast of unusual strength. Miss Stevens has greater dramatic possibilities in the production than has ever been given her before, and does not fail to take advantage of the opportunity to demonstrate her dramatic ability.

SUITS FOR $13,000 BY BUNCO VICTIMS SET FOR SATURDAY

Petitions in equity, seeking to recover property and money amounting to $13,000, which the plaintiff's claim they lost to the bunco gang which operated in Atlanta, will be heard next Saturday following an order signed Monday by Judge John T. Pendleton to that effect.

The defendants in the cases are Floyd P. Woodward and his wife, Mrs. Helen Ruth Woodward; Clyde Smith and Mrs. Clyde Smith; Edith I. O'Brien, administratrix of the estate of Louis V., alias "Jacknife" O'Brien. The subject of the suit is already tied up by court order and its disposition will depend on the outcome of the present hearing.

The suits are brought by M. E. Holley, of South Carolina, who asserts that he was fleeced out of $11,000; R. W. Gillespie, of Georgia, who asserts that he lost $6,000; James A. Tutton, of Alabama, who alleges the loss of $3,600; George M. Wiley, of Pennsylvania, who asserts that he lost $10,000 in the "pay-off;" N. L. Davis, of Indiana, who reports loss of $5,500; and William R. Manning, of Texas, who alleges that the bunco artists fleeced him of $8,100.

It was announced that the petitions against all the defendants will be heard at the same time.

Attorneys Reuben Arnold, Lowry Arnold, Ed Hill and Herman Evins represent the plaintiffs.

Three-fourths of a husband's income is a fair share for the wife, according to the ruling of one New York magistrate.

THIS COUPON IS WORTH $1.00— A BOTTLE OF YEASTOSE FREE

Chemist, Through New Process, Produces a Yeast Wafer, Known as "Yeastose," That Is Delicious in Taste and Will Not Form Gas on Stomach. Coupon Accepted by Any Druggist in Atlanta.

Yeastose Wafers Contain Other Body-Building Ingredients That Increase Appetite, Weight and Energy, Aid Digestion and Clear Up the Complexion. The Best Form of Yeast for Children.

THE MOST COMPLETE VITAMINE PRODUCT YET DEVELOPED

Realizing the importance of vitamines to the human body, a chemist and dietitian began years ago to perfect a wafer that would contain all three vitamines, making hundreds of scientific laboratory tests and experiments, finally evolving "Yeastose Wafers," the most complete vitamine product yet produced.

The component parts of Yeastose Wafers are Yeast, Cod Liver Oil, Maltrose, Lactose, Saccharose, Orange, Peppermint, Whole Powdered Milk and Hydrochloric acid. The three vitamines represented by A, B and C are: A, Cod Liver Oil and Milk; B, Yeast and Milk; C, Orange and Milk, plus the digestive aid of Hydrochloric Acid. Have you seen any other formula the equal of this?

Any physician will tell you that this formula will give quicker and better results in cases of loss of appetite, weight and energy, due to impaired nutrition, as Yeastose does not rely upon yeast alone for restoring to the body its normal health and vigor.

Yeastose Wafers have a delicious flavor, and by a special process, each yeast cell is seered, which inactivates the yeast, and positively does away with stomach gases. Its delicious taste, and the absence of gas, makes Yeastose Wafers ideal for children as well as grown-ups.

The yeast cells used in Yeastose Wafers are from combined yeast cultures, and every flask of culture is microscopically examined and counted before put into wafer form. Each Yeastose Wafer has an average count of five million yeast cells, which is more than double the average count in any similar preparation, and you get a fifteen-day treatment for one dollar.

It will cost you nothing to try this new, improved yeast wafer. Simply cut out coupon below and take it to any druggist in Atlanta, who will redeem it with a free sample. If you do not live in Atlanta, fill out coupon and mail to The Yeastose Co., Atlanta, Ga., and you will receive an eight-day treatment free. —(adv.)

NOTE—Each Atlanta druggist has 60 samples, 12 of which are full $1.00 size bottles; 48 contain 10 wafers each. This coupon is good for a $1.00 bottle as long as they last.

Your old methods of teeth cleaning

See what this new way does. Watch your teeth whiten—note how clean they feel. Millions have learned in this way how much film removal means. It is something that you should know.

You must fight film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. It clings to the teeth unless you combat it, gets between the teeth and stays.

It forms a dingy coat which dims the luster of the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the daily brushing, very few escape them. The old brushing methods do not effectively fight film.

New ways to combat it

Dental science has now found ways to combat film. The methods are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. It has proved so effective that leading dentists everywhere are now advising it. And millions of people have already adopted it.

Pepsodent, with every use, brings five desired effects. It attacks the film in two efficient ways. It keeps teeth highly polished. It stimulates the salivary flow—Nature's great tooth-protecting agent.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva That to digest the starch deposits which cling to teeth and often form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Modern authorities regard these effects as essential aids to Nature, in view of the average diet. To bring those effects twice daily means such protection as you have not known before.

See and feel them

The results can be seen and felt. They are delightful, and this 10-day test will bring them 20 times.

Send the coupon for it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects, and the book we send you will tell you what they mean.

Do this now in justice to yourself. Learn how much this new-day method means to you and yours.

Home Again—with the Same Old Backache!

DOES every day bring the same old, nagging backache? Do you rise in the morning lame and stiff? Drag through the day with your back a dull, unceasing ache? Evening find you "all played-out," thinking only of a little rest before tomorrow's weary grind? Then don't be discouraged. Realize it's merely a sign you haven't taken good care of yourself—been overworking and haven't had enough fresh air, exercise, rest and sleep. This has probably strained your kidneys. So instead of worrying, just take things easier for awhile and help the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Then if it's kidney backache, you'll soon get over it and the headaches, dizziness, tired feelings and bladder troubles will go, too. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Atlanta Folks Found Relief:

Mrs. W. O. Key, 125 Cooper Street, says: "My back ached almost continually, and in the morning it was worse. I seemed to be sick all over. Tiredness also bothered me, especially if I did a little work. My condition was such that I became nervous. Many a time my eyes were blurred by spots of colors. My kidneys were too free and badly disordered. I read in the paper of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I started using them. Two boxes of Doan's from Jacobs' Pharmacy rid me of kidney trouble."

J. H. McCown, retired grocer, 172 Luckie street, says: "Heavy lifting strained my back. Every time I would stoop over a soreness came in my back which hurt so I could hardly straighten up. I felt weak and tired every night, and, while working in the daytime, would have to sit down and rest. My kidneys were too free in action. I got hold of the right medicine in buying Doan's Kidney Pills, for, after taking them, I was fixed up in a fine way."

Mrs. S. F. Ritter, 122 South avenue, says: "I had kidney complaint and rheumatic pains. I couldn't use my left arm and my limbs ached and pained terribly. At times I could hardly move my fingers and my joints become swollen. I had dizzy headaches and felt weak and miserable. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought some from Jacobs' Drug Store and they relieved me from the first, so I continued to use them until I was free from the trouble."

Rockefeller Fund Leaders Inspect University Funds

Athens, Ga., October 31.—(Special.) Dr. Wallace Butterick, president of the general education board, which is maintained by the Rockefeller fund, together with Trivor Arnett, also of the board, were in Athens Saturday, Sunday and Monday inspecting the University of Georgia, and making a survey of the needs of the institution. While in the city, they were the guests of Harry Hodgson, general chairman of University of Georgia war memorial fund campaign, and Chancellor David C. Barrow.

Monday, at noon, Dr. Butterick delivered an eloquent address to students and faculty members of the University of Georgia in the university chapel, the entire student body assembled for the address, and many of them had to stand, so inadequate is the present chapel to the needs of the institution.

Dr. Butterick delivered a very brilliant address on "Sustaining Interests," and was followed by Mr. Arnett, who delivered an interesting talk. Immediately after the chapel exercises, a brilliant luncheon was given at the Georgian hotel in honor of the guests, assembling the officials of the million dollars drive, and faculty members of the university.

CLAY FAMILY GIVES $1,000 TO UNIVERSITY

As a memorial to Major Frank B. Clay, who died July 22, 1920, in the Walter Reed hospital, in Washington, a subscription of $1,000 toward the University of Georgia's war memorial fuld has been made by Mrs. A. S. Clay, his mother, and the widow of the late Senator A. S. Clay, of Marietta; Herbert Clay, president of the senate in the Georgia legislature; A. S. Clay, of Camp Lee, Va. Major Clay graduated from the University of Georgia in 1907.

At the luncheon of the Fulton county team workers, to be given at the Ansley hotel at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the next statement of the financial status of the drive will be made. It is believed that the amount thus far suscribed will be at least $650,000.

HARDWICK SPEAKS IN AUGUSTA TODAY

Augusta, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—Governor Hardwick will arrive in Augusta Tuesday morning. He will be met by a special delegation and taken to the home of Mrs. H. W. Perkins, on Greene street, where he will remain during his stay in Augusta.

At 10:30 a special committee appointed to look after his entertainment while he is in the city will meet him and accompany him to the fair grounds. On his arrival at the fair grounds, Governor Hardwick will be taken immediately to the main buildings and be shown the fact that Richmond county can make the greatest horticultural and agricultural displays of any part of the south. He will then witness the tractor demonstration. He will also be taken through the various buildings.

A special luncheon will be prepared for Governor Hardwick and committee, on the grounds. After luncheon, in machinery hall, he will address people of the tenth district.

STINSON ADDRESSES A. M. E. MEETING

Acworth, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—At the Saturday night meeting, Richard D. Stinson, Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute, addressed the A. M. E. conference on "Industrial Education for Negroes." "It is to our interest in every way," he said, "that we give our boys and girls an English education and a good trade in farming, carpentry, in some phase of domestic science, cooking, laundry and prepare to keep them busy in whatever community they may go. It will mean everything to the youth's goodness and usefulness.

"The other thought is let us cultivate friendly relations with the people where we live. It is next to the impossible for us to accomplish the good things which all good people desire without these relations. No deserving negro boy or girl in Georgia or out of it, whether with or without money, need be deprived of the school privileges as long as the Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute is situated in Atlanta under its present control.

Presiding Elder L. A. Townsley spoke on the topic, "The Relation of Education to Negro Business." Revs. John Taliaferro, L. R. Parker and J. T. Wilkerson also spoke. Presiding Elder J. R. Fleming, of the Washington district, presided in the absence of Bishop Flipper.

ROTARIAN OFFICIAL TO VISIT ATHENS

Athens, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—John Turner, of Tampa, Fla., the district governor of the Rotary club, will make his annual visit to Athens Wednesday, November 9. The Athens Rotarains will have a specal luncheon and an elaborate program in his honor. While in Georgia, Mr. Turner will also visit Atlanta, Macon, Savannah and other cities.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED IN ATHENS

Athens, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—Improvements to cost $379,568, including two new school buildings and additions to seven others instead of five as was previously announced, constitute the plans of City Engineer J. W. Barnett, which were submitted to the building committee of the board of education Friday, and which will be in turn submitted to the whole board of education at a special meeting called for Tuesday.

As soon as the board of education has thoroughly considered the plans and incorporated in them such stipulations as they care to, they will be presented to the mayor and council which will determine the exact amount that is to be expended on the improvements and will set the date for the bond election.

BRITISH LEADERS FOR DISARMAMENT

than th esteel corporation or the tobacco company. It is almost, if not quite, as big as the Standard Oil."

Harvey said Lord Robert Cecil, staunchest of supporters of the league of nations, was right in saying that the disarmament conference was in no sense to be regarded as a challenge to the league.

"The president's design is precisely what it purports to be," he explained. "There is in it no more challenge to the league of nations than to the Monroe doctrine or that treaty which has maintained inviolate the boundary between the United States and Canada."

Commenting on the recent speeches of Premier Briand, of France, and Baron Hayashi, the Japanese ambassador to Great Britain, the American ambassador said America's position was quite plain—American did not fear war.

American Hates War.

"There are in America more than 24,000,000 men registered as capable of bearing arms," he said. "To pronounce such a land as unconquerable is to utter the merest truism. America does not fear war. She simply hates it.

"The conference does not presage arbitrament by the sword. It is to be an ordeal not by battle, but by faith. Whatever the outcome, conditions cannot remain the same. They will be changed for the better or worse, but inevitably they will be changed. The bonds of friendship are bound to be strengthened by what happens in Washington. If we cannot act in unison now, there is slight reason to believe that we ever can."

Harvey concluded that the removal "of the causes of war from the Atlantic augurs well for the Pacific."

Moonshine, it is said, has a marked effect on stammering. People so afflicted stammer most at the full of the moon.

In and Around Decatur

BY COLONEL JEFFERSON SHACKLEFORD MILLS

Decatur, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—Pursuant to call, a mass meeting of Decatur citizens was held at the courthouse tonight to elect a new democratic executive committee, to be charged with the business of calling and regulating a primary to nominate two members of the city commission to fill vacancies which will occur by termination of the terms of R. E. White and Homer H. George.

W. W. Freeman was elected to preside as chairman and J. A. Campbell was chosen secretary.

For executive committeemen the following names were placed in nomination and elected without a dissenting vote:

Mrs. J. A. McCrary, Mrs. H. A. Cantrell, W. S. Marbutt, J. C. Waldron, W. P. Johnson, J. A. Campbell.

After election of the committee, the mass meeting adjourned, and the executive committee met for the transaction of business.

The committee was organized by the election of W. S. Marbutt chairman, J. A. Campbell secretary and Mrs. H. A. Cantrell, treasurer.

The election was ordered for Saturday, November 19, and the limit for entrance of candidates expires Saturday, November 12, at which time the registration book will also close.

The fee for admission of candidates is fixed at $25 each, and there will be no departure from the previous manner of holding primary elections in the city.

An element of popular interest, however, was injected into the campaign tonight by the probability that women candidates may enter the race. There was a number of women at the mass meeting and they showed themselves competent in parliamentary affairs and the discussion of all matters. Several were solicited to enter the race, but all refused to allow their names to be announced at this time, although they frankly admitted that they might later enter the lists.

Pastor Accepts Call.

The Decatur Baptist church, which extended a call to Dr. J. M. Haymore, of Waycross, has received notice of his acceptance. It is announced that he will arrive at Decatur on November 15.

Traffic Signs.

New city traffic signs have been posted. The school zones restrict travel to ten miles per hour, and require that cut-outs be closed. At the city limits of each thoroughfare also a sign is prominently posted welcoming travelers to the city. Jim Still, the landscape painter, was employed to do the work and he never left out a flourish where he could find room for one.

Unknown Man Held.

An unknown man wandering about town, who was placed in jail on suspicion is not only apparently both deaf and dumb but appears to be neither able to read nor write, and does not understand the sign language of mutes.

He refuses to leave jail, and yet in some respects appears to possess intelligence.

The officers are mystified. They have failed to discover any clew by which he may be identified.

White's Park Plan.

The conversion of the one and a quarter miles of land lying between the tracks of the Georgia railroad and the Georgia Railway and Power company in Decatur, under a plan proposed by Commissioner R. E. White, appears to be heartily indorsed.

Mayor W. J. Dabney, in an interview with this reporter tonight, stated that he was "for the project" and desired to be quoted in the strongest terms.

R. F. Green, who resides near along these lines and is an owner of property adjacent thereto, already has spent many thousands of dollars improving this section.

It will be of much interest to read the responses of the authorities of the steam and electric railroads, concerning this matter. It is known that Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, favors improving the property.

SOULE TO DELIVER ADDRESS BEFORE FARM BODIES

Athens, Ga., October 31.—(Special.) Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture, will address the American Farm Bureau Federation in Atlanta, November 7, on the subject, "Agricultural Needs and How to Meet Them."

Dr. Soule will also deliver an address in New Orleans, November 21, to the Association of Land Grant colleges and the particular society for promoting science in agriculture on the subject, "Some Factors Affecting the Economic Production of Cotton."

Watson Pleads For War Bonus For Ex-Soldiers

BY JAMES. A. HOLLOMON,
Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 31.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Senator Thomas E. Watson delivered today in the senate a powerful plea for the ex-service man. The senate had under consideration the Reed amendment to the tax bill in which the Missouri senator proposed to pay the soldiers who served in the late world war a bonus of $1 for each day the soldier served.

Senators Reed and Stanley earlier in the day made speeches in favor of a bonus for the American soldier; Watson, of Georgia, made the concluding argument for the Reed amendment.

In an outburst of eloquence, the Georgia senator declared:

"The soldiers who fought for civilization and humanity in the late war, and who uncrowned Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs, were given boisterous send-offs, as they were conscripted into a foreign war; upon their return they received a pittance of $60, barely enough to buy a change of clothing."

Senator Watson told Republican leaders that they were digging their own graves in denying adequate compensation to the ex-service men.

Among the Georgians in the gallery who listened to Senator Watson was Judge James J. Flynt, of Griffin, a visitor to Washington, who pronounced the Georgia senator's speech "eloquent and convincing."

HOW TO GET RID OF COLDS AND CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method That Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

There must be readers suffering from chronic catarrh who would like to know how they can stop catching cold after cold, for they must realize that sooner or later this may lead to deafness and other serious troubles.

Dr. Blosser, a respected physician, and for years a specialist in catarrh, is the discoverer of a pleasant, direct method that can be used by man, woman and child. His remedy is made from medicinal herbs, flowers and berries which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette, and inhale the vapor into all the air passages. It contains no cubebs, tobacco or habit-forming drugs, and is not sickening to those who have never smoked.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is effective in all forms of colds, catarrh, asthma, catarrhal headache and ear troubles that may lead to deafness. You will breathe better and feel better after using it. Satisfactory results guaranteed. Any well stocked drug store can supply Dr. Blosser's Remedy.

A trial package will be mailed to any sufferer for ten cents (coin or stamps) by The Blosser Co., 40 DT Atlanta, Ga., to prove its beneficial and pleasant effect.—(adv.)

HIGHSMITH IS FINED AND GIVEN 12 MONTHS

J. R. Highsmtih, who was convicted Saturday by a jury in the criminal division of the superior court of participation in fake hold-up in which Mrs. M. J. Glenn lost rings valued at $2,000, was sentenced by Judge John D. Humphries to pay a fine of $500 and to the jury recommended that the offense be treated as a misdemeanor.

Judge Humphries stated that if the fine was paid the court would consider an application for suspension of the chainsang sentence.

It was charged by Mrs. Glenn that while riding with Highsmith and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Arthur, she was robbed of valuables by two soldiers. Her companions' actions aroused her suspicion, she said. The Arthurs also were arrested, and the husband confessed. Later he repudiated this, saying he merely had been trying to clear his wife.

NOT IN VAIN.

The extraordinary welcome that greeted the respective Italian, Belgian, French and British military commanders during the world war by the American Legion and the people of Kansas City, as they arrived to attend the third annual convention of the legion, came as a manifestation of deep-seated international cordiality that is one of the outgrowths of the world war.

As the train bearing General Jacquez, chief of the Belgian army in the greatest of all wars, rolled into the Kansas City terminal last Sunday the distinguished visitor was met by thousands of American ex-service men and an enormous crowd of citizens of the city, all "cheering wildly," as the Associated Press describes the incident.

The demonstration was repeated a few minutes later when General Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian army, arrived in the convention city; and again Monday—only with enthusiasm intensified—upon the arrival of Marshal Foch, the gallant Frenchman who was in supreme command of the allied forces engaged in the death struggle against autocracy, and of Admiral Beatty, the British naval hero.

Its counterpart already had been experienced upon the arrival of each of those foreign heroes upon American soil; in the national capital, and in each city through which he passed from the time of his reaching our shores at New York to his arrival at the seat of the legion convention.

All of this goes to show simply that underneath the surface of things there is a common thread of sentiment and of sympathetic interest that ties together the various peoples of the world and unites them in spirit to a degree never before known.

And the world war, with all of its horrors, all of its human and intrinsic sacrifices, is responsible for it.

Those ovations, those repeated demonstrations of cordial regard, were not extended to our distinguished guests as betokening anything even remotely akin to emotional hero-worship, for Americans are not given to that sort of thing; nor because the recipient happened to be a Belgian, an Englishman, an Italian or a Frenchman.

But in each instance the greeting took the form it did solely because each recipient in turn typified a common cause that is sacred and dear to the heart, not of America alone, but of the world; and because he represents a nation and a people that had joined forces with the other nations and peoples of the civilized world in an epochal and sanguinary conflict in which the perpetuation of civilization and the freedom of humanity were at stake!

And so the manifestations of amity and cordial respect that have featured the visits of these eminent heroes of foreign countries attest—more eloquently than words could express—the fact that, regardless of the hardships and the suffering through which the world is now passing as an aftermath of the most monumental conflict in the history of the human race, the world war was not fought in vain!

For America's part, thousands of our gallant sons paid the supreme sacrifice on the battlefields of a foreign land, and we spent billions of treasure, in the hope of bringing about precisely what has been brought about, as demonstrated by the manner of reception that has been extended to those war heroes who are now guests of honor of the organization that is composed of our former soldiers in the war: The purpose of uniting of the peoples of the world in a spirit of common interest and understanding!

That is what has been won; and in a measure it recompenses for the ghastly and staggering cost of the world war, for with the coming of international sympathy and understanding will come human welfare and happiness and the end of war.

THE BEGGAR KING.

It isn't strange that an ex-king cannot find an easy resting place even in the safe shelter of a hospitable country; for, as in the case of Charles, the dream of his lost throne is still a nightmare to him.

And that dream is encouraged by a few loyal, but misguided, followers who have their own preferment in mind while they are counseling conspiracy to regain lost kingly prestige.

So, uneasy lies the head that once wore a crown!

It is matter for wonder, however, that it seems not to occur to the down-and-out representatives of former royalty that, all things considered, they have done pretty well to keep their heads on their shoulders!

The Austrian Charles overlooks that important fact altogether, and that is another reason for the several spectacular "breaks" he has made in the comeback line.

Except by the few referred to—and for the reasons given—he isn't wanted in his former dominions, nor anywhere else.

The problem is to know just what to do with him. They don't want to "martyrize" him by packing him off to another St. Helena, and with unrestricted liberty, dependent on his oft-broken word, he would be something of a menace to the peace of Europe in any place of easy access to his old domain.

Switzerland has been almost worried out of her political wits by him, and rightly considers that it is high time to call a halt to his capers; and it is evident that Spain doesn't want him.

He is certainly in the attitude of an ex-king going begging.

A MISSOURI GOLD MINE.

How a certain Missouri farmer discovered a veritable miniature gold mine in the form of a cow that he had regarded as being inferior and of little worth is told in a recent issue of the Weekly News Letter of the federal department of agriculture.

As the News Letter tells the story of the discovery—

"Before a certain Missouri farmer joined the cow testing association, report specialists of the United States department of agriculture, he owned a good herd in which was an old crippled cow named Goldie. At that very time the owner was trying to sell her for $75. To his surprise the Babcock test not only placed poor, old, crippled Goldie at the head of the herd but at the head of the whole association.

"Her yearly production, as shown by the records, was 9,300 pounds of milk and 526 pounds of butter fat, and her yearly earning over cost of feed was $267. Goldie belonged to a herd whose average yearly butter fat production was 360 pounds, yet she was almost 50 per cent above the average of the herd and more than 200 per cent superior to the average dairy cow of this country."

Thus did Goldie vindicate her name; and the records of the department of agriculture show that among the cows now on test in the 468 cow-testing associations throughout the country there are many like Goldie.

The true production records furnished by these tests have prevented the sale or slaughter of many unassuming but fairly high producing cows, and proved of corresponding value to the farmers owning them.

The probabilities are that here in Georgia there are many "Goldies"—cows of great productive capabilities, but whose value is unknown because it has never been put to a scientific test.

In this simple story of a "poor, old, crippled" cow, there is a lesson for every farmer who is pursuing his vocation along slipshod, haphazard lines, or who relies upon outward appearances to guide him in appraising the value of his live stock.

It teaches the value of modern equipment and of scientific demonstration in all departments of rural operations, for the principle is the same in all branches of the activities which combine to constitute the modern farm program, as it is in the farm dairy.

No use in Marshal Foch praying to be delivered from the American dinners that are coming to him; but his hearty health will doubtless be equal to every emergency.

Charles is another ex-king who thinks he was born to rule by divine right; but from the first his crown wasn't on straight, and now his head isn't.

A "Bowling Green" Lyric.

In that fine column, "The Bowling Green" of The New York Evening post, over which Christopher Morley presides, this—entitled "Ecstacy"—was a recent contribution from Robert J. Harris—

"Shake the trunk and set the tree
Shivering with ecstacy:
Gather in thy basket all
Of the silver leaves that fall
—Then, remote, but greatly moved,
By their beauty be reproved.

"Gulls, like sheets of paper, wheel
In the distance; dost thou feel
That the wind whole pages ripped
Out of beauty's manuscript?
—Then, thy basket by the tree
Holdeth half thy ecstacy."

Very few literary magazines, and few books of modern poetry, contain finer lyrics than that.

An Invitation.

Hi, Lady Summer,
Hangin' round the place,
Showin' frosty falltime
The roses in your face;
Won't you come to table?
It's time for sayin' grace,
An' the latchstring's hangin' on the outside!

The "Trial Balance."

This is what your "Uncle John," of The Excelsior Springs Standard, has to say about the human "Trial Balance"—

"I 'spose there must be heartaches in this little world of ours—without a hell we wouldn't need no heaven . . . the sunshine would be pizen if there weren't no thundershowers—and even death puts keener joy in livin' . . . when we strike a trial balance on the page of Right an' Wrong, the figgers may reveal a startlin' total . . . For every disappintment there's a heart-inspirin' song—for every wound a balm that's antidotal . . .

"But—ye know—'s only human, when we bend beneath the rod, an' tears is bitter solace for our grief . . . A country's mighty lonesome if it's very fur from God—it's hard to smart with lashes fer relief . . . But the keenest sort of agony that I have ever bore, which nothin' ever seemed to compensate—that 'swept me into water many miles away from shore an' left me to a cruel, heartless fate—that left me with a feelin' that no platitude can mend—was to find I'd pulled a Boner, which I took to be a friend!"

A Far Cry.

In this, entitled, "The King of China's Daughter," in The Poetry Review, Joan Campbell disturbs the peace of that country—

"This is the song of the King of China's daughter.
Very far away she lives, beyond the tumbling water;
Three-and-thirty eunuchs stand to wait on her behest,
Three-and-thirty lute players to lull her heart to rest.
But the King of China's daughter shall rest no more at all Because in dreams I went to her and hold her heart in thrall."

THE GOLDEN HOUR

There's ever and ever a longing
Down in the heart of me
For days that have drifted onward,
And joys that have ceased to be,
For days on the old plantation
And hours in the willow stream,
When summer seemed a lifetime,
And childhood's day was a dream!
For old-time stories and fables
When we were gathered 'round
The big log fire and listened
With never a nod or a sound—
For a swing beneath the magnolia,
And a laugh that is free from care,
For a song from the lips of mother
That sounded sweet and dear.
But best of all, for the hour
When lowly gleamed the light,
And mother came so softly
To kiss us kids goodnight!

There's ever and ever a prayer
On these feeble lips of mine,
To live once more the years
When life was all divine.
To be again a laughing child,
And know all childhood's thrills,
To romp and play till day is done,
On flowered fields and hills.
To live again on the plantation
And nestle 'round the fire,
Hearing wondrous fairy tales
That fulfill a heart's desire.
To hear again my mother sing
The songs she used to know,
And romp through summer's daisy fields,
Or through bleak winter's snow!
But best of all, the sacred hour,
That crowns a heart's delight—
When mother came so gently
To kiss us kids goodnight!

NEW CONGRESSMAN SWORN IN MONDAY

Washington, October 31.—Chester W. Taylor was sworn in today as a member of the house from the sixth Arkansas district. He succeeds his father, the late Representative Samuel M. Taylor.

Seen and Heard in Washington

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Washington, October 31.—(Special.)—It is unnecessary to explain here the important part organized agriculture is playing in present-day political and economic affairs. Senator Kenyon calls it "the strongest and most hopeful single force in America today."

Whether we people in the south realize it or not the fact remains that there is no one individual more closely identified with organized agriculture than Charles S. Barrett, of Georgia. He is president of the National Farmers' union, which is one of the strongest purely farm organizations in America, and he is also chairman of the national board of farm organizations, which is an organized alliance of all farm organizations. Therefore, his force is manyfold in strength.

* * * * *

Barrett knows more public men—senators, members of the house, cabinet officers, department heads, governors, state officials, editors and political writers—than any dozen officials in Washington. That is a fact.

That Georgia's junior senator has made good, is Barrett's firm conviction, and he has written it out.

That Tom Watson is conservative, safe, and a senator whose knowledge of law and the science of government qualifies him to speak for a great state and a great people, is the belief of his life-friend, and I am only too glad to publish in full here the dictated statement regarding Senator Watson handed me by Charlie Barrett—I know he has spoken from his heart and knows what he is talking about.

Says Barrett:

"It is impossible for me longer to resist the temptation to reduce to writing some of my impressions of Thomas E. Watson, junior United States senator from Georgia. Sincere and devoted service to the people of Georgia especially, and in a general way to the entire citizenship of the United States, characterizes his career in Washington.

"For more than twenty years I have watched the men who are elected to serve the people of the United States. I have seen them in action in the house, the senate, and in the office of the chief magistrate of the nation. I think, therefore, I might modestly claim to speak with some authority when I make public my estimate of the value to the nation of a public man's services.

"Tom Watson has missed fewer roll calls than any man in the senate. He has been on the job constantly, in season and out of season. If a call of the senate is made it is safe to say that it will not be necessary for the sergeant-at-arms to hunt him up. On one of the very few occasions that he failed to answer to his name I investigated and found that he was in bed, incapacitated by illness. But by the exercise of his powerful will he soon conquered his physical weakness and took his seat in the upper chamber of the American congress.

"Nobody who has seen Senator Watson in action can possibly doubt his sincerity. His devotion to what he believes to be the real interests of the people is conceded by his bitterest critics and by those who are totally out of sympathy with his political and economic views. They admire his courage and are compelled to acknowledge that he has ability of a high and rare order.

"Senator Watson was able, without incurring censure, to break through a long established senatorial custom that a new man must 'get his seat warm' before attempting to address his august colleagues. Very soon in his career in Washington the junior senator from Georgia made himself heard and compelled admiring attention. Republicans and democrats alike listened to him and the many questions addressed to him from the floor indicated that his associates were greatly interested in what he was saying even if they were disinclined to accept the principles enunciated by him.

"Unquestionably he has the real interests of the farmers, the workers and the business men, who are acting on the square, at heart. It was thought by some when Senator Watson came to Washington he would prove too radical for his colleagues. But he has made friends with substantial men on both sides of the house and has demonstrated his ability to do team work. He can both lead and follow.

"It is not always pleasant to remain seated for long hours while some senator with a poor delivery insists upon entertaining his colleagues. When such a speaker begins his discourse senators start for cloakrooms or their offices. But if only three legislators are left to listen to the dreary discourse, Tom Watson is usually one of the trio. He insists on getting at first hand the views of all men who speak on any important topic. This is one of the answers to the oft repeated question: 'How is it that Tom Watson is so well informed on everything worth knowing?'"

The above is a beautiful tribute from one friend to another.

What Barrett has said about Senator Watson's senatorial career is correct.

We all may not agree with everything he says—it would be unusual if we did. We may think his views are extreme at times. But whatever our own convictions about Senator Watson's convictions, there is one conviction about him that everyone must hold and admit, and that is, that he is honest, sincere and courageous.

The Hapsburg Collapse

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS

The swift and complete collapse of the venture of the former Hapsburg emperor represents a real and encouraging gain for the cause of order and stability in all of central Europe. What might have been a signal to reaction generally and particularly in Germany can hardly fail to serve as an unmistakable warning.

If reaction cannot succeed in Hungary, then one may conclude that at the moment it can have little real chance anywhere in Europe, for of all countries Hungary is perhaps the most incurably monarchial in its sentiments. Admiral Horthy, the regent, told a friend of mine last summer that the whole nation desired a sovereign, but that every sane Magyar realized that in view of the attitude of the little entente it would be madness to attempt a restoration now.

The trouble with ex-Emperor Charles seems to have been that he could not wait and could even less easily understand the sentiment of his former subjects. Count Czernin in his illuminating book describing Charles during the war tells of the obsession which that amiable monarch had as to the devotion of his subjects. Pushed by an ambitious wife, deluded by a few sycophantic courtiers, incapable like all Hapsburgs of estimating public sentiment, Charles has now ruined a cause which in Hungary had a promising future.

Moment Was Dangerous.

But the great gain is European. Had Charles succeeded we should almost inevitable have seen another invasion of Hungary, this time by Slav as well as Rumanian troops and new disorders would have troubled the mid-European regions, where there has been but little peace for more than seven years. Had Charles been successful, too, every big and little king now out of a job, every royal and grand ducal transparency of German nationality would have been roused to new hopes and new efforts.

Given the cabinet crisis in Germany, given the unrest over the Upper Silesian decision, it is plain that the moment was dangerous and the earliest venture might have had grave consequences. By Contrast its quick collapse must serve as a powerful deterrent to all similar attempts for the present. Moreover, despite all rumors to the contrary, the allies seem to have been able to preserve a united front, at the moment when the outcome remained in doubt and to have been prepared to act together against the ambitious but reckless young emperor.

Now that he has failed a second time, Charles must expect something more than a polite admonition and an escort to the frontier. That he will be punished severely is quite unlikely because this would, perhaps, be the single way to help his cause. On the other hand, it is unthinkable that he will be permitted to return to Switzerland or be free to try again. On the contrary, what is likely is some form of detention somewhere which, without imposing too severe restraint, will compel him to cool his heels for a time.

May Yet Wear Crown.

Not impossibly Charles may yet wear the crown of St. Stephen. It is not that Hungary rejects him, but merely that Hungary prefers to continue the rule of a recent recognized by Europe to recalling a sovereign whose presence would invite invasion and almost inevitably insure ruin. Hungary has already know one Rumanian invasion in very recent years and it can hardly desire another. Much less is it prepared to defy all Europe merely for the dubious pleasure of having a king of its own choice.

But from the American point of view the great fact about this last episode is the gain for stability. In the heart of what is described as Balkanized Europe and at a moment when the whole European situation was manifestly shaky a most dangerous incident has terminated with only localized disturbances. Success might have had almost incalculable consequences of an evil character, failure is a correspondingly great gain for the cause of order.

Moreover, Hungary, which has been not unjustly suspect ever since the end of the war and has been refused admission to the league of nations as recently as the last Geneva session, must acquire new standing generally. Obviously, the Horthy government is royalist, and would have preferred to welcome rather than arrest Charles. But it has given striking proof of good sense and of power which must command general approval and insure to the ultimate advantage of the Magyar state itself.

THE WIND

I am the spirit of freedom and power!
As well I'm the soul of Awe and Unrest;
I go with my wings unhampered and dower
My path, as one on Eternity's quest.

I fly with the shadowy ghosts of men,
Who long have slept in the deeps of the sea;
These smile once more, as they laughed with Sin,
When first they walked on the earth with me.

I ruffle the sand where the shorelines turn
And whip the waves into furious spray;
I rule the seas where the tropics burn,
As well where eternal Winters stay.

I am the spirit of Passion that gloats
In the heart of one, whom Sin beguiles,
And I am the whisper that comes from the throats
Of those who mate when Love-time smiles.

But hush! and list! in the dead of night!
Did you hear a sound, as one who sighed?
Then know, that with all my restless might,
I'm the ghostly voice of the souls who've died.

DEPUTY CLERK LEWIS RESIGNS HIS POSITION

J. Clarke Lewis, for twelve years a deputy clerk in the Fulton superior court, Monday severed his connection with the courthouse to enter the monument business with offices in the Fourth National Bank building.

As a token of their esteem, T. C. Miller, Fred Edwards, F. J. Spratling and Sam C. Conyers, all deputy clerks attached to the office of Arnold Broyles, presented Mr. Lewis with a jeweled Shrine pin shortly before he turned his desk over to J. R. Holliday, who will take Mr. Lewis' place in handling the juries in the civil division.

STABLE INJUNCTION DISSOLVED BY JUDGE

Judge John T. Pendleton in Fulton superior court Monday dissolved the temporary restraining order that prohibited the building of a stable at Piedmont avenue and North Boulevard by the Governor's Horse Guard, but required Major J. O. Seamans and other officers of the organization to give bond of $5,000 to cease work on the stable if the supreme court reverses the lower court.

Application for injunction was filed by Mrs. C. P. Hope, Mrs. W. F. Wofford and C. G. Gray, who were represented by Attorney Walter A. Sims. Attorney Reuben R. Arnold represented the guard.

Meetings Are Held In National Drive To Prevent Cancer

Addresses on cancer were made Monday morning at four meetings held in Atlanta as part of the national campaign against cancer. The talks were made by members of the Fulton County Medical society in the observance of the country-wide Cancer week October 30-November 5.

The Atlanta chapter of public health nurses was addressed by Dr. J. L. Campbell in the headquarters of the drive in the Moore building on Walton street at 9 o'clock. Physicians spoke to several meetings of the ministers of Atlanta and neighboring communities at their separate meetings, held in the churches at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Cancer week is indorsed by virtually every organization, social, professional or religious, in the city.

Pupil nurses of the hospitals of the city will meet in one of the assembly rooms of Grady hospital at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening for instruction on cancer. It is stated that cancer causes the death of about one person in ten above the age of 40.

Invitations to attend the meeting of the Fulton County Medical society, to be held Thursday evening at a time and in a place to be announced later, have been extended to many prominent citizens. Similar meetings for scientific and public discussions are being planned by all medical associations, and the Rotary, Civitans, Kiwanis, Lions, Masonic and other clubs plan to further the good work by requesting speakers for their regular weekly meetings.

GUILTY PLEA ENTERED IN WHITE SLAVE CASE

R. L. Echols, a telegraph operator, entered a plea of guilty in federal court Monday to a charge of violating the Mann white slave act. Judge Sibley sentenced him to four months in the Fulton tower.

It is alleged that Echols deserted a wife and five children in a Georgia town and married another woman in Atlanta without obtaining a divorce, and then took her to Alabama and other states. Because of the illegality of the second marriage the government charges that Echols violated the Mann act when he crossed the state line.

VAUDEVILLE ACTOR TO FACE NEW CHARGE

Nathan B. Altman, former vaudeville performer, who has appeared before Atlanta audiences on several occasions, will be taken to Oklahoma City Tuesday for federal authorities there following completion of a term in the United States penitentiary here. Altman is wanted there on a federal charge of impersonating an officer with the intent to defraud.

The Opportunity to Call It a Mean Trick Is Irristible.

"On Friday night as the venerable Dr. Means, of Savannah, was entering the car at Macon he was robbed of his gold watch and pocketbook containing $200. The watch was presented by the students of Emory college to Dr. Means on the occasion of his retiring from the presidency of the college and was highly prized by him. He makes the following announcement to the pickpockets:

"'If the person who has possesion of a double-cased gold watch bearing the inscription on the inside face "Presented to Rev. A. Means, D. D., by the students of Emory college on his retiring from the presidency," will return the same in such a way as to reach safely the hands of Colonel Capers, at Savannah; John W. Burke, at Macon; Ed Lawshe, at Atlanta, or the loser of this memento, he may rest contented with the pocketbook and with his own conscience. If he has not the latter, he has but to name his reward to either of the gentlemen above named in any way that may suit his art.'"

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, October 31.—"Strip poker" has received attention from a critical press lately, due to carryings-on in Hollywood, but not until last week was the jaunty insolence of this feature of American life analyzed by the Broadway drama. The overwhelming theme of Avery Hopwood's latest play is "strip poker."

Mr. Hopwood is the pale-faced youth who has furnished the satyric pranks and blunt aphrodisiacs for a half dozen plays this season for Al Woods. With the proceeds Woods builds a chain of theaters across the country and produces a few helpful dramas that pay only skimpy returns.

"Dearie," said Al to me on Broadway the other day—he calls all his pals Dearie—"watch out for this number. It's a pip. Snappier than 'Getting Gertie's Garter.' It looks almost good enough for a pinch."

And, of course, if the police swoop down on it, it means a fortune for this astute East Side boy, who began producing "Edna, the Pretty Typewriter," "The Bowery After Dark," and a long string of thrilling ten, twent and thirts.

Hopwood, however, seems unable to get quite enough of the old Sam T. Jack burlesque punch across. He is, as one Broawayite expressed it, "too durn eddicated." The play with the "strip poker" theme is merely a brazen piece of pornology—stupid when it isn't venal.

People may laugh at Woods, yet despite his predilliction for bedroom dramas, I admire him more than most Broadway manager. He's always putting his cards on the table. Woods is a rouch and tumble guy from a tough ward. He has no frills. He doesn't burn incense in his office, wear trick clerical collars nor talk about uplifting the drama. He produces, as he says, for "the old jack."

Once a playwright was protesting to Al about a certain actress selected for a part. "You want a more etherial type," said the playwright. "This is not merely for an ingenue. You want some girl who suggests the spirituelle—indeed, the faint flutter of an angel's wing."

"Yes," said Woods, "but where the bloody hell you goin' to get a mutt like that?"

Overheard at The Rendezvous, one of the stuntiest of the new midnight supper clubs! They were revolving about on the dance floor.

She: I know something you don't know!

He: What's that?

She: You're on my foot.

New York has an impressive way of receiving its visitors. An Italian general put up at an inn in my neighborhood the other morning. A half an hour before he left his steamer a squad of police drove all curb automobiles off the street.

Soon platoons of mounted police stationed themselves about the hotel. Far away came the bark of a hundred motorcycles—the advance guard to clear the traffic.

Then a rush of motorcycles that surrounded the general, and his staff. When the general finally stepped from his car the streets for five blocks in either direction were packed and jammed with pushing, neck-craning humanity.

If the general had got in an automobile and driven to his hotel in the usual way not a soul would have noticed him. We are quite used to generals in New York. One new one fails to thrill.

Louis H. Chalif, the Russian ballet master, gave the Washington Irving High school students his idea of a true artist in an address the other day. He said: "When we find the phenomenal mind of the scientist, the reasoning powers spiritually and morals of a philosopher and the creative powers of a super-genius we have the true artist—and only then."

A lot of vaudeville "artists" I know don't measure up to this!

OCTOBER PROVES WETTER MONTH THAN AVERAGE

Probably nine-tenths of Atlanta's population would say that October, just ended, was drier and warmer than the average October. This belief is good enough, too, for all general purposes, but strictly speaking October was cooler and wetter than the golden month has been on the average heretofore.

The total rainfall was 2.54 inches against an average of 2.34 inches. Most of the precipitation fell on one day, however, the fall being 1.15 inches on October 2. The next day .52 inches of rain fell, and then there were thirteen days in which the sun looked down from a cloudless sky. The first half of the month was cooler than normal, and despite the glowing Indian summer days during the remainder, ended 1.7 degrees below normal. The highest temperature registered in the month was 79 degrees on the first, and the lowest 41 on the twenty-first.

Up to Monday, 1921 was 6 1-2 inches under the average rainfall from January 1.

Tuesday it will be clearing up again, according to the weather forecast. "It's an odd thing that practically no disturbances accompanied this rain we are having," Forecaster von Herrmann said Monday.

BOSTWICK POSTOFFICE ENTERED BY YEGGMEN

Yeggmen cracked the postoffice safe at Bostwick, Ga., Sunday night, it was reported Monday to local postoffice inspectors. It has not been stated how much loot was obtained. Inspectors believe that the act was committed by members of a gang which has been responsible for a number of robberies in the smaller cities for the past few months.

MEDALS TO BE GIVEN NINE HEROES OF GRAY

Crosses of honor will be given nine Confederate veterans by the United Daughters of the Confederacy at St. Mark's church at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The presentation will be made by Mrs. Hal Hentz, custodian of the crosses. Veterans who will receive them are George W. Allen, J. S. David, W. L. Eberhart, Joe Guice, H. C. Reeves, R. D. Smith, T. J. Sturlin, R. P. Terrill and E. D. Welden.

ALDA WILL SING ENGLISH, ITALIAN AND FRENCH SONGS

Songs from the ancient Italian and the modern French and songs in English, sung with perfect enunciation and expression, will feature the recital next Monday night by Mme. Frances Alda, the beautiful soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company.

"The Singer," composed for and dedicated to Mme. Alda by the composer, Maxwell, will form one of a group with MacDowell's lovely "Thy Beaming Eyes." The ancient group will begin with the great "Rendi il Serano al Ciglio" of Hendel.

Gutia Casini, the Russian cellist, who shares the program with the soprano, will play several solo numbers and provide the cello obligato for the beautiful "Panis Angelicus" of Cesar Franck, to be sung by Mme. Alda.

Seats for the joint recital, the second number of the All-Star Concert Series, will go on sale Thursday at the Cable Piano company, the prices ranging from $1 to $2, plus the government war tax of 10 per cent.

PARENTS ARE SOUGHT FOR FOUNDLING BABY

Foster parents are sought by the Salvation army of Atlanta for a plump, good-looking one-year-old baby, left at the army headquarters, 29 1-2 Luckie street, by a man who claimed to be the child's father, and said that his wife had died, and that he wished the baby to be properly cared for. The name the man gave was fictitious, and no trace of him can be found.

Unless the child is adopted the Salvation army authorities here will send it to the Salvation Army Orphan asylum in Greenville, S. C. The baby has been taken to the Emergency home, at 186 Crew street, and is now being cared for by Mrs. Eleanor Carlson, the matron.

WILL GIVE LECTURE ON "PSYCHIC POWER"

On Tuesday evening, November 8, at 8:15 o'clock, the Very Rev. Thomas H. Johnston, dean of St. Philip's cathedral, will give a lecture in the Cathedral Chapter house on East Hunter street, directly back of the church. The subject of this lecture is "psychic Power."

This lecture is given under the auspices of the Young Woman's Auxiliary, the proceeds going for the missionary work of that organization. Tickets are 50 cents.

ROANOKE IS FLOODED AS RIVER OVERFLOWS

Roanoke, Va., October 31.—Heavy rains for the past forty-eight hours resulted tonight in Roanoke river breaking its banks and flooding the local power company plant, stopping street car service and threatening to put all lights out of commission. A PETER RUFF STORY

John Dory, waiting patiently at home for his wife's return, felt a certain uneasiness when she swept into their little sitting room in all her cheap splendor, with flushed cheeks—an obvious air of satisfaction with herself and disdain for her immediate surroundings. John Dory was a common-place looking man—the absence of his collar, and his somewhat shabby carpet slippers, did not improve his appearance. He had neglected to shave, and he was drinking beer. At headquarters he was not considered quite the smart young officer which he had once shown signs of becoming.

He looked at his wife with darkening face, and his wife, on her part, thought of Peter Ruff in his immaculate evening clothes.

"Well," he remarked, grumblingly, "you seem to find a good deal of pleasure in this gadding about!"

She threw her soiled fan on the table.

"If I do," she answered, "you are not the one to sit there and reproach me with it, are you?"

"It's gone far enough, anyway," John Dory said. "It's gone further than I meant it to go. Understand me, Maud—it's finished! I'll find your old sweetheart for myself."

She laughed heartily.

"You needn't trouble," she answered, with a little toss of the head. "I am not such a fool as you seem to think me. Mr. Ruff has made an appointment with him."

There was a change in John Dory's face. The man's eyes were bright—they almost glittered.

"You mean that your friend, Mr. Ruff, is goin to produce Spencer Fitzgerald?" he exclaimed.

"He has promised to," she answered. "John," she declared, throwing herself into an easy chair, "I feel horrid about it. I wonder what Mr. Ruff will think when he knows!"

"You can feel how you like," John Dory answered bluntly, "so long as I get the handcuffs on Spencer Fiezgerald's wrists!"

She shuddered. She looked at her husband with distaste.

"Don't talk about it!" she begged sharply. "It makes me feel the meanest creature that ever crawled. I can't help feeling, too, that Mr. Ruff will think me a wretch—quite the gentleman he's been all the time! I never knew anyone half so nice!"

John Dory set down his empty glass.

"I wonder," he said, looking at her thoughtfully, "what made him take such a fancy to you! Rather sudden, wasn't it, eh?"

Maud tossed her head.

"I don't see anything so wonderful about that," she declared.

"Listen to me, Maud," her husband said, rising to his feet. "You aren't a fool—not quite. You've spent some time with Peter Ruff. How much — think carefully — how much does he remind you of Spencer Fitzgerald?"

"Not at all," she answered promptly. "Why, he is years older, and though Spencer was quite the gentleman, there's something about Mr. Ruff, and the way he dresses and knows his way about—well, you can tell he's been a gentleman all his life."

John Dory's face fell.

"Think again," he said.

She shook her head.

"Can't see any likeness," she declared. "He did remind me a little of him just at first, though," she added, reflectively—"little things he said, and sort of mannerisms. I've sort of lost sight of them the last few times, though."

She did not answer him at once. A low, triumphant smile had parted her lips.

"Tomorrow night," she said, "he is to meet me in Mr. Ruff's office."

"At what time?" John Dory asked.

"At 8 o'clock," she answered. "Mr. Ruff is keeping his office open late on purpose. Spencer thinks that afterwards he is going to take me out to dinner."

"You are sure of this?" John Dory asked eagerly. "You are sure that the man Ruff does not suspect you? You believe he means that you shall meet Fitzgerald?"

"I am sure of it," she answered. "He is even a little jealous," she continued, with an affected laugh. "He told me—well, never mind!"

"He told you what?" John Dory asked.

She laughed.

"Never you mind," she said. "I have done what you asked me, anyway. If Mr. Ruff had not found me an agreeable companion he would not have bothered about getting Spencer to meet me. And now he's done it," she added, "I do believe he's a little jealous."

John Dory glared, but he said nothing. It seemed to him that his hour of revenge was close at hand!

"The Spoils of the Strong," by Eleanor Talbot Kinkead, Starting Sunday.

An hour later Yorke took himself downtown to the city hall, and looked up the records of the two addresses given in the references of "Mrs. Bigger." As he had anticipated, they were fictitious.

Yorke next turned his steps toward New Jersey, and after a few minutes arrived at Broad street, Newark.

And there began for him a long, tiresome, despairing search. He found Hollihses, living and dead, but none who answered his purpose. At last on a venture he called upon Mr. Charles Hollins, who lived in an old brick house just out of the city. He was received by a stern old man, apparently in feeble health, who inquired with grave dignity:

"What can I do for you, sir?"

"Had you any brothers or relatives among whom was one Robert Hollins?"

The old gentleman stared at him fixedly for a moment, and it seemed in the dim light of the room that he turned a shade paler. But when he spoke his voice was as unmoved and dignified as before.

"Robert Hollins? No, there has been no man named Robert in our family since my grandfather, and he died in California in forty-nine."

"And you know of no Robert Hollins, outside of your own connections, who lived here in Newark thirty years ago?"

"No," replied the old gentleman gravely. "I know of no—Robert Hollins."

But, even as he spoke, he continued to gaze fixedly at Yorke, as he had ever since the mention of that name.

The detective rose.

Yorke went thoughtfully down the long tassellated marble hall to the front door, where the negress was waiting to show him out.

"Oh, suh!" she burst out, but in a subdued voice, "Ah, 'spect Ah knows who yo' is a-lookin' fo', Ah lis'ened, suh! Ah couldn't help it, an' Ah yeard! Are yo' suah, suh, dat it's a man what you is lookin' fo'? Are yo 'suah 't ain't a woman? 'Tain't Miss Roberta Hollins, is it, suh? She's done been daid fo' fifteen yeahs an' mo'. She done run off to New York an' married Mistah George Donal'son, suh; dat's how come she an' de fam'ly don' speak no mo'. Mistah George, he's daid, too, now; but Mistah Charles don't never speak her name."

"I see. Thank you for telling me, aunty. You don't know if they had any children?"

"None of dey own, but dey don' took a li'l boy to raise. Dunno whar he come f'om."

"Where is he now—do you know, aunty?"

"No, suh; ain't yeard tell oh him since dey died."

"Do you know of any one living here now who knew Miss Roberta well—who could tell me about her and her husband, and about adopting the boy?"

"Well, suh, de only one Ah knows ob is Mis' Jane; an' she's kinder po'ly, an' don't see many folks. Mis' Jane Henderson, she lives just down de street, on de odder side."

Tired as he was, Yorke felt a curious bracing sensation as he entered the presence of Jane Henderson. She was balancing his card in one of her large, firm hands, and eying him steadily as he approached.

"I am connected with the law," said Yorke gravely. "I am trying to trace the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson."

Miss Henderson pulled herself up on her pillows, with an involuntary grimace of pain at the movement, and eyed him with shrewd surprise.

"Well!" she said at last. "That is curious. I always thought his people, whoever they were, would turn up some day. I'll tell you what I can. As I suppose you know, Roberta Hollins ran away and married George Donaldson all of thirty-five years ago. George was a decent sort of man, but a weakling—no head for business. The Hollinses disliked him, and never forgave her. It was not only on account of her marriage, though. It was something they learned about the adoption of the boy which made them all so bitter.

"About six or seven years after they were married, they went away on a trip, and came home with this little boy, Neil. He was about five or six years old, and the strangest child I ever saw.

"The boy ran away when he was a small lad and we heard nothing of him for years. But the other day my nephew, Stanley, who was brought up with him, met him in New York and recognized him. He seemed annoyed that Stanley should have remembered him and it turned out that he had adopted another name—that of his parents, I suppose, for he called himself—"

As the name fell from her lips, Yorke bounded from his chair and stood staring at her with paling face, as if she had taken leave of her senses.

Then, slowly, the look of amazed incredulity gave place to a dawning comprehension, and he sank back speechless into his chair, the light of a stupendous revelation breaking over his face.

CHRISTIAN COUNCIL PLANS DISCUSSION OF DISARMAMENT

The Christian Council of Atlanta will hold a meeting Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock, in Ponce de Leon Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, for a discussion of the question of the limitation of armaments.

This meeting is part of the program leading up to a mass meeting the night of November 11, when Atlanta will have opportunity to express to the international conference at Washington its convictions on this subject.

The program for Tuesday night includes presentation of the question by Dr. C. B. Wilmer and E. Marvin Underwood, who have been making a thorough study of the various problems involved.

Following their addresses, a period for open discussion is planned. Special music has been arranged, for which the services of Mrs. McArthur have been secured.

DECATUR PARENT-TEACHERS NAME NEW OFFICIALS

The Parent-Teacher association of the Decatur Junior High school held its first meeting last week in the junior high building. Mrs. P. H. Jeter, district vice president, presided. The following officers for the coming year were elected: Mrs. F. E. Wilson, president; Mrs. John deSaussure, vice president; Mrs. L. D. Wade, secretary, and Mrs. Paul Smith, treasurer.

Superintendent Galusler, of the Decatur schools, made an inspiring and instructive talk on the grave need of a parent-teacher association for the junior high. The association then adjourned to meet the second Thursday in November.

THIEVES ELUDE POLICE

Fur Robbers Still at Large Following Gun Battle.

No arrests have been made in the robbery of I. Pries & Milner company, Peachtree furriers, whose store was entered Sunday night and furs and articles of clothing valued at $4,000 were stolen. The thieves, two in number, were observed making their get-away by the policeman on the beat, but escaped after a running fight in which a number of shots were fired at the pursued.

WASSER JUBILANT

Sanitary Official Grandfather of Fine Boy.

The habitual calm of Abraham Wasser, inspector of markets in the sanitary department, was broken Monday.

He smiled and chuckled to himself so constantly during the day that his associates could restrain their curiosity no longer.

"What is it, Abe?" they began to urge.

"It's a boy," beamed Abe—"eight pounds—I'm grandpa."

The youngster arrived Monday morning and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wasser, of 276 South Pryor street.

LIZZIE TRIES TO BURN HER WAY OUT OF JAIL

A "burning" desire for freedom on the part of Lizzie Johnson, negress, of 112 Gilmer street, who was arrested Sunday night by Call Officers Cody and Bullard for stabbing another negro woman in the abdomen in a drunken brawl, has involved her in serious trouble.

About 3 o'clock Monday morning Night Turnkey Askew heard a commotion and smelt smoke. Rushing into the negro woman's ward, he saw flames started by Lizzie who was trying to burn her way to freedom. In recorder's court Monday Judge Johnson fined her $100 and costs and sentenced her to serve 30 days in the stockade, besides binding her over to the state courts under $2,000 bond on a charge of arson.

BEER FOR SICK FOLKS AVAILABLE AT ONCE

Washington, October 31.—Beer for the sick will be made available immediately from stocks on hand in brewers' warehouses, it was stated tonight at the treasury department.

Discussing the question of whether beer manufactured before the issuance of the new regulations could be used for medicinal purposes, officials expressed the opinion that there was nothing to prevent its immediate sale so soon as the necessary permits were obtained.

BRILLIANT HALLOWEEN DANCES INAUGURATE WINTER SOCIAL SEASON

Beautiful Opening Ball At Piedmont Driving Club

A brilliant social event of the Halloween season was the ball Monday evening at the Piedmont Driving club, the occasion marking the formal opening of the winter season of the club, and assembling several hundred guests.

The beautiful new ballroom was elaborately decorated with a profusion of symbols suggestive of Halloween, and appropriate musical selections are rendered by the Baisden-Goering orchestra.

Artistic Decorations.

The sides of the walls were banked with handsome green palms and brightly-tinted autumn foliage. The chandeliers were festooned with smilax, and foliage and the lights were covered with large pumpkin heads of yellow crepe paper. The walls were decorated with black cats and witches and pumpkin heads.

The individual tables were adorned with large baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums, and at each guest's plate were Halloween favors. At intervals on the table were black crepe paper hats, pumpkins, black cats, witches and novelty noisemakers.

Debutante Table.

This ball has always been considered the formal introduction to society of Atlanta's debutantes.

Their table was placed at one end of the ballroom, and was adorned with a large pumpkin in the center. French baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums were placed at each end of the table. Halloween favors of black crepe paper hats, witches and other novelties marked the place of each guest.

Covers were placed for Misses Wilmotine Perdue, Marion Smith, Alice Stearns, Nell Sims, Ernestine Campbell, Ruby Walker, Katherine Hand, Mary Malone, Ruth Rhorer, Mary Wooldridge, Christine McEachern, Jennie Johnson, Caroline Shivers, Frances Powell, Marjorie McMillan, Mary Clarke Cohen, William McCarty, Charles Orme, A. W. Hill Spencer Tunnell, Henry Bagley, Frank Owens, Henry Lyons, William Spalding, Jr., Rankin Manley, Rhodes Haverty, Leman Phelan, R. M. Harris, John H. Jones, Sam Carter, Thomas Colley, of Grantville, and Willard McBurney.

Beautiful Gowns.

Miss Wilmotine Perdue, president of the 1921-22 Debutante club, was beautiful in an imported gown of gold cloth and sequins. The waist fashioned basque effect, while the skirt was bouffant. A garland of French rosebuds added a finishing touch.

Miss Alice Stearns was lovely in a frock of American beauty, brocaded chiffon. Black flowers with silver stems, arranged on the girdle, was the only trimming.

Miss Ernestine Campbell wore an exquisite gown of tomato-colored silver cloth, the skirt scalloped around the hem, and trimmed with crystals and pearls.

Miss Mary Malone was beautiful wearing a gown of white sequins and chiffon.

Miss Ruby Walker was gowned in an exquisite model of cloth of gold, combined with sequins.

Miss Mary Clarke Cohen wore an exquisite model in black chiffon velvet, and her flowers were pink rosebuds in corsage effect.

Miss Nell Sims wore an imported model in red brocaded velvet.

Miss Katherine Hand was gowned in a French model of rose georgette fashioned with loops of moire ribbon at the sides and extending below the hem, while finishing the waist was a handsome rhinestone buckle.

Miss Caroline Shivers wore black chiffin embroidered in silver, and her flowers were pink roses.

Miss Frances Powell's gown was of blue chiffon velvet, with cloth of silver trimmings.

Miss Mary Wooldridge wore an iridescent gown of sequins, introducing lavender and rose, and veiling orchid chiffon. Her corsage was of valley lilies and orchids.

Miss Ruth Rhorer's gown was of black tulle embroidered in sequins and draped over black satin. She wore a corsage of red roses.

Miss Marjorie McMillan was gowned in flame-colored chiffon.

Here to Address Business Women Thursday Night

Miss Lena Madesin Phillips, of New York, executive secretary National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will adderss a meeting of Atlanta

MISS LENA M. PHILLIPS.

Business and Professional Women Thursday evening at the chamber of commerce.

She will meet here Miss Stella Akin, of Savannah, president of the Georgia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and they will put to the women of Atlanta the project of organizing a club and going into the state and national federations.

Greater economic freedom, more efficient work and a more complete service in the local community, state and country; these are Miss Phillips' ideals for the business woman of America.

She has visited in Atlanta before and will be remembered as a clear and forceful speaker with a most interesting message. She is a lawyer and the daughter of a Kentucky judge who occupied the bench for more than forty years.

A number of business and professional women of Atlanta have been in correspondence with Miss Akin, and she has received assurance that such an organization is desired here.

Community Chorus Meets.

The regular meeting of the community chorus will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 sharp in the assembly room Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. Forty have already enrolled. Sig. A. Volpi, who will drill the chorus free of charge, needs ten tenors, eight sopranos, ten contraltos, nine basses and eight baritones. Practice for the opera "Traviato" will begin at once.

Halloween Ball Featured At East Lake Country Club

One of the interesting social events of last evening was the Halloween ball at the East Lake Country club, which assembled about 300 guests.

The clubhouse was decorated in autumn leaves, and at intervals around the walls were skeletons and witches. From the ceiling to the chandeliers were streamers in the Halloween colors, and hanging from these were the yellow lanterns with witches and black cats, and other symbolic favors of the season.

Dinner and Program.

Dinner was served at 8 o'clock, and an appropriate program of dancing and singing was rendered.

Miss Anna May Coleman and her pupils, dressed in fancy costumes symbolic of the day, rendered Halloween feature dances.

Miss Nellie Sullivan rendered a group of songs and dances and was also dressed in Halloween colors.

Schoenecks' Syncopators, the club's novelty orchestra, furnished a program of the latest dance selections and other selections appropriate to Halloween.

Military Dinner.

One of the largest parties of the evening was that given by Captain Philip T. Frye and Captain John L. Autry, in compliment to the officers and their wives of the military department of the Georgia School of Technology. Covers were laid for Major and Mrs. A. L. Pendleton, Major and Mrs. Will C. Washington, Major and Mrs. R. T. Gibson, Major and Mrs. Thomas H. Monroe, Captain and Mrs. L. E. Goodier, Captain and Mrs. H. G. Gibson, Captain and Mrs. F. C. Shaffer, Lieutenant and Mrs. J. M. Heath, Lieutenant and Mrs. F. F. Shriver and their guest, Mrs. R. H. Lewis, of Detroit, Mich.; Lieutenant and Mrs. R. R. Coursey, Captain Autrey and Captain Frye.

Women of Middle Age

THE critical stage of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 55, and is often beset with annnoying symptoms such as nervousness irritability, melancholia, heat flashes which produce headache and dizziness, and a sense of suffocation. Guard your health carefully, for if this period be passed over safely, many years of perfect health may be enjoyed.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics. Its value is proven by many such letters as these:
Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During Change of Life I was in bed for 18 months and had good care, but did not improve. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better That was five years ago, and now when I feel run down and nervous I take the Compound and it always does me good I wish all women would try it during Change of Life, for I know it will do them good."—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tenn.
Thomas, Okla.—"I first used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my girlhood days, by the advice of a friend. At the age of 47 I was troubled with dizziness, hot flashes, and became very weak so that I was unable to do any work. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with the result that I felt better and stronger than I have for years. I have also given it to my three daughters, and always with good results. The Vegetable Compound is certainly grand for the ills of women."—Mrs. J. G. SWAREY, Route B, Thomas, Okla.

Didier—Blandy.

New York, October 29.—(Special.) The marriage of Mrs. Mildred Walsh Didier and Alexander B. Blandy took place at 4 o'clock this afternoon in New York city. They were attended by Miss Marie Winters, of Somerset, Pa., and Dallam B. Blandy, of Greenwich, N. Y., brother of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Edward Walsh, Jr., of Troy and Ballston Spa, N. Y.

Alexander Blandy is the son of T. C. Blandy, of Greenwich, N. Y. Many friends from Troy, Albany, Schenectady, Ballston Spa, Saratoga and Greenwich, N. Y., motored to New York to be present at the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Blandy will reside in New York city.

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—(adv.)

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Two Sessions Daily at School On Citizenship

Owing to Miss Ames leaving for Gainesville Thursday the six remaining lectures will be given, two each day, afternoons at 3 o'clock and evenings at 8 o'clock, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Miss Ames' work is being highly appreciated and has proven its value to the number of league members who have been taking advantage of this great opportunity to gain the knowledge and information along political lines that the aroused world of women are seeking.

Program for Sessions.

Tuesday, November 1, 3 p. m.—"Organizing for Efficiency," "Getting a Bill Through the Legislature," "Looking Toward the Future."

Tuesday, November 1, 8 p. m.—"Political Parties in the United States," "How the Political Parties Operate in Georgia."

Wednesday, November 2, 3 p. m.—"Reduction of Armament," "X-Raying the Legislature."

Wednesday, November 2, 8 p. m.—"Campaign Methods," "Georgia Laws Concerning Women and Children."

Among the speakers in addition to Miss Ames, the national director, will be Attorney General Napier, Dr. A. Sproul Lyons, James L. Mayson, Miss Helen Douglas, Roy Dorsey.

Yesterday's program for the afternoon and evening included:

Afternoon — "Fundamentals in Public Speaking," "Governor and Other State Officials," "Parliamentary Drill."

Evening—"The President and His Cabinet," "Election Laws and Methods."

Bridge Club Entertained.

Mrs. C. E. Wall entertained the members of her bridge club on Thursday at her home in the Peachtree Court apartment. The rooms where the game was enjoyed were brightly adorned with dahlias in yellow and white. Mrs. B. T. Beasley won top score.

Following the game tea was served. The club members included Mrs. W. B. Swint, Mrs. A. E. Hagan, Mrs. E. S. Limbaugh, Mrs. B. T. Beasley, Mrs. E. T. Cullen, Mrs. Barry Neal, Miss Elsie Jett and Mrs. C. E. Wall. The next meeting wil be held with Mrs. E. T. Cullen at her home in Ansley Park.

DISCOURAGED AND MISERABLE

Virginia Lady So Weak She Could Hardly Get Around. Says Cardui Helped Relieve a Serious Condition.

Ringgold, Va.—Mrs. D. T. Barker, of a well-known Pittsylvania County family, residing on Route 2, here, says that upon reaching a critical period of her life she was "in a very serious condition."

"I was so weakened until I couldn't get around," Mrs. Barker relates. "I couldn't sleep. I was so blue and out of heart. I had no appetite.

"I would . . . try medicines, and grew weaker and weaker, more out of heart every day. I would get up and try to drag around, and feel so miserable, and creep back to bed.

"My husband bought me Cardui. I thought the first bottle helped me, and when I began the second, I knew it did. I kept it up—each day growing a little stronger, a little more like my former self, and I began to eat and sleep.

"It sure wasn't long until I was up and around like another woman. No more dragging; no more weak and blue feeling. It cured me. I used seven bottles in all.

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Barker describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui, if troubled with womanly ailments.

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

Murphy—Dunk.

The marriage of Mrs. Martha W. Murphy, of Buffalo, to Thomas William Dunk, of Jacksonville, Fla., was solemnized Saturday morning, October 29, at 10:30 o'clock in St. Joseph's new cathedral, the Rev. Charles E. Duffy performing the ceremony. The bride wore a costume of navy blue velvet, trimmed with blue flowers. She was attended by her daughter, Mrs. John H. Lahey, who was gowned in navy blue Canton crepe and rust georgette and a black lace hat. Thomas Richard Dunk, of Jacksonville, attended his father.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride in St. James place. The decorations were pink and yellow pompom chrysanthemums. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Dunk, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCarthy and Mrs. P. R. Quinlan, of Syracuse, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Dunk have gone to New York and will be at home after November 15 at 20 Elizabeth place, Jacksonville, Fla.—Buffalo Evening News.

Mrs. Daniel to Entertain.

Mrs. Robert Daniel will entertain at a bridge-luncheon Saturday, November 5, at the Piedmont Driving club for her guest, Mrs. Perry Arnold, of New York city.

Silver Tea.

Mrs. I. T. Catron's circle of Grace Methodist church gave a silver tea Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. D. Bellah, 565 North Boulevard.

Miss Louise, of Radcliff Chatauqua, was in charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. F. C. Evans, Mrs. Robert Blackburn and little Miss Jean Lee.

The ladies of the North Side Embroidery club assisted in entertaining and refreshments were served by Miss Eleanor Welborn, Miss Inez Willingham, Miss Rosalyn Rainey, Miss Evelyn Hicks and Miss Elizabeth Catron.

Swastika Club Entertains

Friday evening at 9 o'clock members of the Swastika club and employees of the Southeastern Express company gathered at the Roseland hall and enjoyed an old-fashioned masquerade ball. The Roseland was especially decorated for the occasion with a lavish assortment of oak, hickory and maple branches, full of beautiful colored leaves, the pumpkins and cornstalks added the correct tinge for the occasion, while the jack-o'-lanterns were found in the "spooky" corners. One hundred and twenty-six couples were in full Halloween costume.

The prizes given for the most attractive costumes were awarded to Miss Lila Wash, who wore a very unique Hawaiian costume, and R. H. Vogel, the local general agent for the Southeastern Express company, who was dressed as a Spanish bull-fighter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hockaday were guests of honor, and the following list of out-of-town officials of the Southeastern Express company were the guests of the club:

W. F. Terrell, superintendent at Charlotte; N. P. Leary, route agent, Washington, D. C.; R. A. Wynn, route agent, Danville, Va.; G. W. Bacot, assistant superintendent, Macon, Ga.; R. K. Russell, assistant superintendent, Jacksonville, Fla.; W. M. Bragg, superintendent, Chattanooga, Tenn.; F. B. Bell, assistant superintendent, Knoxville, Tenn.; K. C. Barrett, assistant superintendent, Asheville, N. C.; E. H. Goodrich, superintendent, Meridian, Miss.; P. S. Henry, assistant superintendent, Mobile Ala.; J. J. Wilkinson, general agent, St. Louis, Mo.; J. H. Massey, agent, Charlotte, N. C., and W. E. Ward, general agent, Lynchburg, Va.

The committees in charge of this entertainment were H. J. McFerren, chairman; Miss Lila Wash, C. B. Williams, E. A. Mosteller and D. P. Bradbury.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Atlanta, Ga., for week ending Saturday, October 29, 1921, on shipments sold out, ranged from 9 cents to 18 cents per pound and averaged 11.72 cents per pound.—(adv.)

City Federation To Sponsor Roll Call of Red Cross

The executive committee of the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross will launch the fifth annual Red Cross roll call on November 11, extending through November 17.

The Atlanta City Federation of Women's Clubs, whose president, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., is a member of the Red Cross executive committee, has been asked to direct the woman's division of the roll call.

Mrs. Thornton has appointed Mrs. R. K. Rambo, chairman, and Mrs. T. T. Stevens, vice chairman, to represent the federation.

This is the second time that the Atlanta City Federation has sponsored the woman's division of the roll call. Under Mrs. Spencer Atkinson, in 1916, the first drive for membership in the Red Cross, was launched. It met with a wonderful success, and was followed by the organization of Red Cross auxiliaries in at least two-thirds of the one hundred organizations that compose the federation.

These auxiliaries did splendid work to support the Atlanta chapter, and are now counting on the collaboration of all the patriotic societies and the support of every woman in Atlanta, during the fifth roll call.

The following letter has been sent out by Mrs. Thornton to the presidents of the various federated clubs:

"Dear Madam President: The fifth annual Red Cross roll call will take place in Atlanta beginning on Armistice day, November 11, extending through November 17.

"Mrs. R. K. Rambo has been appointed by the City Federation of Women's Clubs, chairman of the women's division of the roll call; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, vice chairman. This makes it distinctly our work. The Parent-Teacher organizations, the patriotic societies, the League of Women Voters and the negro women's organizations have been invited to co-operate with us.

"I am writing to ask that you appoint a Red Cross chairman in your organization, if you have not such a chairman, to enroll your membership 100 per cent and to stand ready to answer any call from Mrs. Rambo to help in this cause.

"There will be a general meeting of the women's division of the Red Cross on Thursday morning at 10:30 at the chamber of commerce. Please be present with good representation of your organization. Cordially yours,

"MRS ALBERT E. THORNTON,
"President Atlanta City Federation Women's Clubs."

Mrs. Boynton Gives Family Luncheon.

Mrs. Charles Boynton was hostess at an informal family luncheon Monday for Mrs. Stephen Harris, of El Paso, Texas.

Among other affairs planned for Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Irving S. Thomas will entertain at tea this afternoon at the Woman's club. The guests will include Mesdames Harris, James E. Pritchard, Clyde L. King, Stewart McGinnis, Newton Craig, Frank Bean, James Thompson Williams, Augustus Wilkinson, Charles Boynton and John M. Cooper.

Mrs. Frank Bean will give a luncheon at Druid Hills Golf club Wednesday for Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. Roy Harris will give an informal family luncheon Thursday for Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. James Thompson Williams will give a tea at the Atlanta Woman's club Friday for Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Hal Hart, of Lakeland, Florida.

Mrs. Newton Craig will be among others entertaining.

Mrs. Erwin to Act as Chairman.

The Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will aid the Red Cross drive, beginning Friday, November 11, Armistice day. Mrs. James A. Erwin, the chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. R. B. Blackburn, Mrs. W. C. King, Mrs. Betty, Mrs. L. W. Arnold, Mrs. A. H. Erwin, Mrs. F. C. McKinney. Mrs. Erwin urges every member to enroll through her and her committee and to mail all checks to Mrs. James A. Erwin, Box 10, 171 Blue Ridge avenue. Hemlock 4932.

Calhoun School P.-T. A. Meeting.

The Parent-Teacher association of Calhoun school will hold their regular monthly meeting at 3:15 o'clock Thursday, November 3.

As there will be matters of importance to come before the association, the president urges a very prompt and full attendance.

Hospital Committee Meets.

There will be a meeting of the hospital committee of the Atlanta Woman's club Wednesday at 10:30 o'clock at the clubhouse. It is very urgent that every member be present.

Drama League at Egleston Hall.

The drama league will hold its second meeting this afternoon at Egleston hall, beginning promptly at 3:15 o'clock. Preceding the regular program, Mr. William Woods, an Alabamian of distinction, who happens to be visiting in the city, will give several of the dialect poems which he has done with distinguished success at Harvard and other universities.

The regular program of the league will be given up to John Drinkwater, whose play, "Lincoln," ran for two years in New York and for even longer, indeed, is still running in London. Excerpts from this play will be read by Professor William Gilmer Perry, of the Georgia School of Technology, and a group of the poems of Drinkwater will be also read by Mrs. Ulric Atkinson. An open forum on the justice of the characterization of Lincoln will be conducted by Mrs. J. E. Sommerfield.

"My love is like the red, red rose,"

Damage Reports Of Florida Storm Much Overdrawn

That reports of storm damage to Tampa, Fla., and the neighborhood of the port are greatly exaggerated is declared in a telegram received Monday by M. B. Wellborn, governor of the Federal Reserve bank, from Louis A. Bize, president of the Citizens American Bank and Trust company.

Mr. Bize stated in his telegram that the damage in Tampa was almost negligible, and that the damage to the citrus industry throughout the state did not excede 5 per cent.

The University of Rio de Janeiro, one of the foremost institutions of higher learning in Brazil, has opened all the positions on its staff to women.

FOR COLDS AND GRIPPE FOLLOW DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Any physician or druggist will tell you that the first step in the treatment of a cold, cough, sore throat, influenza or grippe should invariably be a brisk calomel purgative, preferably the nauseless calomel tablet called Calotabs. This alone is often sufficient to break up a severe cold over night, or cut short an attack of grippe and possibly prevent pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasures or work. Next morning your cold has vanished and your system is purified and refreshed. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages; price ten cents for the vest pocket size; thirty-five cents for a large family package. Recommended and guaranteed by druggists everywhere. Price refunded if you are not delighted.—(adv.)

Fat That Shows Soon Disappears

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden, a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure. You can take off the fat where it shows by taking after each meal and at bedtime, one Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name. Buy and try a case today. All druggists the world over sell them at one dollar for a case or you can order them direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Av., Detroit, Mich. You can thus say good-bye to dieting, exercise and fat. —(adv.)

M. E. PATTERSON NAMED SECRETARY OF COAL DEALERS

M. E. Patterson, widely known coal expert who served during the war as assistant fuel administrator in this city, has been secured as permanent secretary of the newly formed Southeastern Coal Merchants' association, and will assume his duties at once with headquarters at 528 Candler building, it is announced.

Mr. Patterson was for more than fifteen years associated with the largest coal distributors in the southeastern territory and his experience has covered almost every important phase of the business, from accounting and sales to advertising.

The association was organized at a convention of coal men from Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and North and South Carolina who met here September 20. J. A. Yarbrough, of Charlotte, was elected president, and R. R. Johnson, of the R. O. Campbell company, chairman of the board of directors.

The association is making rapid strides, much enthusiasm being shown by dealers everywhere, leaders state.

"Why don't they get up a one-seat car?"

"What's the idea?"

"So father can drive it and be absolutely sure that nobody is going to assist him in the operation."—Detroit Free Press.

Dec.	18.92	18.95	18.30	18.37	18.80

New York, October 31.—An early advance in the cotton market was followed by declines under renewed liquidation, accompanied by talk of a disappointing trade demand and southern selling. January contracts broke from 18.88 to 18.15, and closed at 18.20, compared with 18.60 at the close of last week, with the general market closing steady at a net decline of 23 to 43 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 17 to 30 points on the higher Liverpool cables and covering. There may have been some scattered buying on reports that two representatives of the bureau of markets recently returned from abroad estimated foreign consumption of American cotton this season at from 10 to 13 per cent in excess of last year. No general or aggressive demand developed, however, and the market soon turned easier on liquidation by early buyers and a renewal of western, Wall street and southern selling. Offerings seemed to grow heavier as prices worked lower, and the market was weak and unsettled during the afternoon, selling off from 18.88, the early high level, to 18.30 for December, and from 18.75 to 18.08 for March, or about 35 to 45 points net lower on the general list. Last prices were only a few points up from the lowest on covering. There was a little trade buying in the market here on a scale down, but it appeared to be outweighed by increased southern hedge-selling, and the market was unsettled by a continuance of near-month liquidation. In some cases sellers of December bought the later deliveries, and the spring months were relatively firm. A preliminary estimate by a Chicago authority, placing the cotton chop at 6,621,000 bales of 500 pounds net weight, and the percentage of the crop picked at 93, attracted no special comment and failed to check the afternoon decline. Private cables said Liverpool had advanced on covering, but had encountered hedging and Manchester selling.

NEW YORK SPOTS.

New York, October 31.—Spot cotton quiet; middling 18.75.

COTTON DECLINES AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, October 31.—The early trading in cotton today brought advances over last week's close of 21 to 26 points, but after December touched 18.40 cents a pound, selling pressure appeared and during much of the remainder of the session it was felt. In the late trading prices were driven 40 to 45 points under the close of Saturday and last prices were 40 to 44 under. December fell to 17.75 and closed at that price.

On the opening values were helped by a better Liverpool than due and by a favorable opinion of weekly textile trade reviews, but after their effect wore off offerings became heavier on the lack of any special trading in the spot department. As the market fell away, considerable liquidation came from the long side and much of this, to all appearances, was due to the holiday here tomorrow, in observance of All Saints' day.

During the course of the decline the market had its upturns, but none of them was sustained for any length of time, nor did the market run into any real support after the early trading was over, although much bullish comment was aroused by a private crop estimate of 6,621,000 bales, accompanied by the claim that the crop was 93 per cent picked.

NEW ORLEANS SPOTS.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, October 31.—(Special.)—Our market opened up higher on better Liverpolo cables and remained steady, with an advance of some 20 points above Saturday's close. The advance was made by hedge and scattered selling. The theory advanced this morning is that American mills would be out of the market until after the next ginning report. Texas reports an easier spot basis for short staple cotton. Technically the market favors the long side in so far as a great deal of cotton has been sold all the way down from 19 cents for January, so on any favorable news we feel that the market will respond. We expect the market to experience some further reaction, but in the long run favor higher prices.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, October 31.—(Special.)—Selling in the cotton market today led by local Liverpool and western interests caused the decline. The south also sold, but in smaller volume. Gossip about the influences varied. Some continue to harp upon the foreign money situation. Others speak with assurance about a heavy demand for spot cotton being in prospect. Those who have been awaiting a reaction in the market to enter on the long side welcome the temporary softness of prices to carry out their ideas. The Liverpool market showed a much better tone today than for some days past and this is likely again in tomorrow's market, and if steadiness there develops it will be reflected by prices here. We favor purchases on weakness such as today's.

ORVIS BROTHERS & CO.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, October 31.—Cotton seed oil ruled irregular, with narrow price limits. Nearby oil was heavy in the absence of trade demand, while forward months averaged higher on buying by refiners and demand from local shorts. Closing bids were 2 points lower to 3 net higher. Sales, 15,000. Tenders, 200. Crude markets were firmer; prime crude 7.25@7.50, prime summer yellow spot 8.35@8.75, December 8.82, March 9.18, May 9.30, all bid.

Dry Goods.

New York, October 31.—Cotton goods and yarns were steady today, with trading less active than Friday and Saturday. Raw silk was dull and some manufacturers were reselling stock. New season lists were being issued by carpet manufacturers, with prices little changed from those current last month. Wool goods manufacturers reported a quiet demand, with some unsettlement caused by threats of a strike in local garment manufacturing centers. Burlaps were quiet.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, October 31.—Cotton spot fair inquiry; prices easy; good middling 12.94, fully middling 12.48, middling 12.09, low middling 10.80, good ordinary 9.50, ordinary 8.75. Sales, 7,000 bales, including 5,000 American. Receipts, 2,000 bales; no American. Futures closed quiet. November 12.08, December 11.98, January 11.88, March 11.63, May 11.51, July 11.30, October (1922) 10.00. Official noon closing October 12.34 value.

STOCK ACTIVITIES PROVE CONFUSING

New York, October 31.—Fluctuations in the stock market today were confusing, issues of the same description moving in opposite directions. Dealings were fairly large, but again subject to the maneuvers of traders.

Money rates furnished an excuse for the market's unstable course. Call loans opened at 5½ per cent, relaxed to 5 per cent at midday and suddenly hardened to 6 per cent in the final hour.

Developments over the week-end offered little encouragement to the bull accounts. Railroad tonnage showed irregular decreases, and business gains at prominent centers were neutralized by further price reductions for important industries.

Independent steel producers were reported to be contemplating lower prices for structural steel and other fabricated materials, and substantial cuts were announced by manufacturers of motor trucks and rubber tires.

Among market leaders, Mexican Petroleum was heaviset at an extreme decline of nearly eight points, the stock being under gergatest pressure in the last hour, and unsettling the entire list.

Rails lapsed into the dullness shown by that group prior to the strike settlement, and equipments, motors and food shares were heavy. Wilson & Co. common, and preferred, made gross declines of 5 to 15 points. Officials of the company were quoted as being unable to account for the weakness of those issues.

Foreign exchanges were irregular, the French rate being the only important remittance to display strength. German, Scandinavian and central European rates were variably lower.

Trading in bonds was moderate, with an uneven tone. Liberty issues closed mostly at slight gains. Rails were uncertain, and mixed changes ruled among internationals. Total sales, par value, $14,375,000.

Rice.

New Orleans, October 31.—Rough rice quiet; sales reported, none. Receipts, 2,645 sacks; millers' receipts, 1,914 sacks.

Clean rice, quiet; sales reported, 301 pockets Honduras at 4¼@6; 2,371 pockets Blue Rose at 4¼@4½. Receipts, 700 pockets.

Sugar.

New York, October 31.—There was no change in the local raw sugar market today, with duty-free centrifugals quoted at 4.06, while Cubas were held at 2½c, cost and freight, equal to 4.11 for centrifugal. There were sales of 45,000 bags of Cubas to local refiners by the committee at 2¼c, cost and freight, equal to 4.11.

The raw sugar futures market was firmer early on covering and scattered buying by commission houses, but after showing advances of 2 to 5 points prices eased off under increased offerings from trade in this, and closed 3 points lower to 2 net higher. December closed at 2.54, March 2.39, May 2.49, and July 2.58.

The market for refined was unchanged at 5.20@5.30 for fine granulated, but the demand was less active, although refiners were pretty well filled up and behind in deliveries.

Refined futures were nominal and without transactions. Closing prices were unchanged to 10 points net lower, with December at 5.40 and March and May at 5.30.

White Potatoes.

Chicago, October 31.—Potatoes steady; northern white sacked, $1.05@1.80; bulk, $1.70@1.85; sacked and bulk Red River, $1.65@1.90; South Dakota whites, $1.40@1.65.

Live Stock.

East St. Louis, Ill., October 31.—Cattle: Receipts, 7,000; steers steady, $8.85 paid; bulk, $7@7.75; canners and veaiers steady; other killing classes and stockers and feeders, 15@25c higher; medium to good cows, $3.75@4.75; bologna bulls, $4@4.25; bulk canners, $2.75@2.85; stockers and feeders, $4.50@5.50; veal calf top, $11.50.

Hogs: Receipts, 9,500; closing easier than early on few late sales; general market, 25@35c higher; pigs, $8.35; bulk medium and light weights, $8; no heavies here; packer sows, steady, $6.25@6.50; pigs, 10@25c higher, $8@8.35; several decks good hogs unsold at lower bid.

Sheep: Receipts, 1,000; closing steady; lamb top, $8.75; bulk best lambs, $8.25; good southwest $7.75; culls mostly $5; ewes, $3.50@4.00.

Fulton Ginnings.

Fulton county ginnings report Monday showed that there were 179 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, ginned from the crop of 1921 prior to October 18 last, as compared with 401 bales in the same period last year. The report was made by Jacob Z Sheats, special agent for Fulton county.

GRAIN UNDERGOES SLIGHT DECLINE

Chicago, October 31.—Notwithstanding substantial decrease in the United States visible supply total, the wheat market today underwent a slight decline owing chiefly to imports of duty-paid Canadian wheat. Prices closed easy at 1-8 to 1-2 cents net lower. Corn finished a shade to 14c off; oats unchanged to 1-4c lower, and provisions varying from 2 1-2c decline to 12c advance.

tA first the bulls in wheat appeared to have some little advantage on account of correct anticipations of the change in the domestic visible supply figures, but demand failed to broaden out, and all upturns in price seemed to be a signal for selling on the part of houses with northwestern connections. In the end the prevailing sentiment was rather bearish, the outstanding factor being news that millers at Buffalo and other eastern points were acquiring wheat from Canada and that the Canadian visible supply total had been heavily enlarged. Besides export inquiry continued to be sluggish, and there was no stimulus in private estimates of farm reserves, the estimate proving similar to the government report of October first.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION ANNOUNCES

A NEW FUN GAME

AND INVITES YOU TO

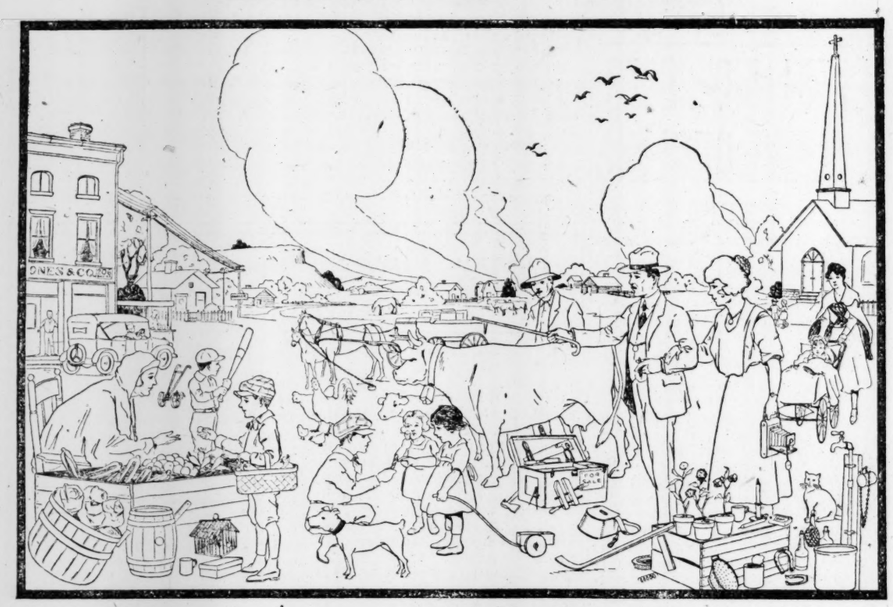

IT COSTS YOU NOTHING TO TRY

JOIN IN

A CONSTITUTION PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

YOUNG AND OLD TAKE PART IN THE FUN

The Constitution invites you—your family—and all your friends—to join in this fascinating fun game. We know you will find it "the best game ever"—full of fun and excitement. It doesn't look hard, it isn't hard. Start your list of "C-Words" tonight. For all you know, you may be the very one who can find the best list of "C-Words," which, if you prove to be a booster, would mean a One Thousand Dollar Prize or the $1,715 Buick Six Touring Car. The puzzle game provides unlimited fun. You'll never have a better time. It will keep you sitting right on the edge of your chair. Don't fail to start a "C-Word" game in your home tonight.

HERE'S HOW TO SOLVE THE PUZZLE

The picture at left contains a number of objects beginning with the letter "C." Just take a good look at the picture—there are all sorts of things that begin with the letter "C" like cow, calf, cap, etc. Nothing is hidden—you don't have to turn the picture upside down. Make a list of all the objects in the picture, the names of which begin with the letter "C." Have the whole family join in—see who can find the most. Don't miss any. Fifteen cash prizes will be awarded for the fifteen best lists of words submitted. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of visible objects shown in this picture starting with the letter "C" will be awarded first prize; second best, second prize, etc.

You Can Win $1,000.00

OR A $1,715.00 BUICK SIX TOURING CAR

The "C-Word" Picture Puzzle Game is a campaign to increase the popularity of The Atlanta Constitution. It costs nothing to take part, and you do not have to send in a single subscription to win a prize.

If your list of "C-Words" is awarded FIRST, SECOND or THIRD prize by the judges you will win $35; but if you would like to win more than $35, we are making the following special offer whereby you can win bigger cash prizes by sending in ONE OR TWO subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution.

HERE'S HOW: If your answer to the "C-Word" Picture Puzzle wins FIRST, SECOND or THIRD prize and you have sent in ONE six-month subscription to The Atlanta Constitution at $5.00, you will receive $350 instead of $35; fourth prize, $150; fifth prize, $100, etc. (See second column of figures in prize list).

OR, if your answer wins FIRST, SECOND, or THIRD prize, and you have sent in TWO six-month subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution at $5.00 or ONE yearly subscription to The Constitution at $9.50, you will receive $1,000 in place of $35; fourth prize $300; fifth prize, $200, etc. (See third column of figures in prize list).

How is that for a liberal offer? But, LOOK, there are three $1,000 prizes. Therefore, if you stand FIRST, SECOND or THIRD and have sent in TWO six-month subscriptions at $5.00 or ONE yearly subscription at $9.50, you will win $1,000. NOW, FURTHER, as a SPECIAL OFFER, we will allow the participant having the best list of "C-Words" of the First Three prize Winners (if fully qualified), the choice of $1,000 in cash or a new 1922 Buick Six Touring Car, value $1,715 f. o. b. Atlanta.

Special Prize for Best List of "C Words."

As an extra special prize for the best work shown by the persons taking part in the puzzle game, we will allow the participant sending in the best list of "C Words" of the first three prize winners (if fully qualified), the choice of $1,000 cash, or this beautiful 1922 BUICK SIX TOURING CAR, value $1,715.

OPTIONAL FIRST PRIZE

This Car is Now on Display at 190 West Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia

OBSERVE THESE SIMPLE RULES

1—Any man, woman, girl or boy living in Georgia or any adjoining state who is not an employee of The Atlanta Constitution, or a member of an employee's family, may submit an answer. It costs nothing to try.

2—All answers must be mailed by November 19, 1921.

3—Answers should be written on one side of the paper only and words numbered consecutively, 1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address on each page in the upper right-hand corner. If you desire to write anything else, use a separate sheet.

4—Only words found in the English dictionary will be counted. Do not use hyphenated, compound or obsolete words. Use either the singular or plural, but where the plural is used, the singular cannot be counted, and vice versa.

5—Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate different objects. The same object can be named only once; however, any part of the object may also be named.

6—The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of names of visible objects shown in the picture that begin with the letter "C" will be awarded first prize, etc. Neatness, style or handwriting have no bearing upon deciding the winners.

7—Candidates may co-operate in answering the puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household; nor will prizes be awarded to more than one of any group outside of the family, where two or more have been working together.

8—In the event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be paid to each tied participant.

9—All answers will receive the same consideration, regardless of whether or not a subscription for The Atlanta Constitution is sent in.

10—There will be three independent judges, having no connection with The Constitution, who will judge the answers submitted and award the prizes at the end of the puzzle game, and participants agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.

11—The judges will meet right after the close, and the announcement of the prize winners and correct list of words will be published in The Constitution just as quickly thereafter as possible.

Dig Deeper for Profits.

The north Georgia soil is too shallow for the best production of all kinds of crops, say officials of the extension division of the Georgia State College of Agriculture. By deepening the place where the plant roots feed, it is possible to increase the yields considerably.

"One more inch of soil will often increase the yields 15 to 20 per cent," the statement continues. "It would cost a tremendous sum of money to haul this amount of soil from another place and spread it over the land, but fortunately this is not necessary.

"There is an abundance of it below, and it can be had by deep plowing. The fall is the best time to increase the depth of the soil because the new soil from below needs to be exposed to the weather for several months before it is ready for crops. Turned up in the fall and left for the frosts to tear apart and the sunshine and rain to soften, the new soil is made ready for the spring planting.

"The only precautions needed are not to plow the land too wet nor to bring up more than an inch of subsoil at one time. If these precautions are followed better yields will be secured."

Salesmen and Solicitors

Real Opportunity for High-Grade Salesman

AN old-established house manufacturing an exceptionally high-grade line of advertising specialties, leather goods, calendars, outdoor and indoor signs, desires to secure a big producer for this territory. Liberal proposition and ample territory to the right man. Will have backing of strong sales promotion and advertising campaign, to start immediately.

INTERVIEW H. S. GOODRICH, Hotel Piedmont, Tuesday, Nov. 1.

ONE OF THE OLDEST and best known institutions of Atlanta desires a few good solicitors or salesmen for city and suburbs on commission and salary basis. Men of good address and salesmanship can easily make from $5 to $10 daily. One gentleman, working only four days last week, made over $37. Another, former $16 a week man, made on our proposition over $30 last week, and still another made $36. Must be reliable and supply satisfactory references as such. No loafers or irresponsible transients need apply. The best man of all employed who shows by results he is competent will be given a permanent position as crew manager. Apply to A. C. Tommy, City Circulation, 2d floor, Constitution building.

TRAVELING salesmen wanted for Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee territories; must be experienced in earthenware, china, glassware, house furnishings, dolls, toys and novelties. Give references with application and state territory preferred. Commission contract only. Address F-975, care Constitution.

MANUFACTURER of an exclusive patentable shopping bag made from India jute, chemically treated to prevent linting, and retailing at a price in reach of the masses, desires to connect with a live and energetic representative for this territory, who is financially able to carry at least a $500 stock. These bags are in great demand and a hustler can build up a permanent business which should net him better than $5,000 a year. Address Sales Director, Best Bag Company, St. Paul, Minnesota.

IF YOU are a salesman and not an order taker and willing to prove this fact, we have an excellent proposition to offer you. Complete line of tires, vulcanizing equipment and repair materials. Address G-769, care Constitution.

WANTED—DISTRIBUTORS FOR WOODSTOCK TYPEWRITERS IN EVERY TOWN IN GEORGIA. ATTRACTIVE PROPOSITION. W. E. Whyte, District Manager, 71 South Pryor St., Atlanta, Ga.

$30 AND MORE per day or evening made selling auto stoplites. Distributors, dealers, agents wanted everywhere. Federal Foundry Supply Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

WANTED—Two first-class salesmen to sell life insurance in Atlanta. Good contract with first year and renewal commission will be given the right man. Apply Akers and Skinner, 400 Grant Bldg.

WANTED—Man qualified to handle salesmen to take charge of and handle branch office selling a specialty; must have at least $1,000 to invest. If you can qualify it will pay you to investigate. If you do not mean business do not answer. For further information see Mr. A. D. Williamson at Piedmont hotel.

FOR Georgia, good proposition for right men. J. R. Page, Piedmont hotel, 9 to 12.

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night.

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.
It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—(adv.)

PROBING PAST LIFE OF VIRGINIA RAPPE

Chicago, October 31.—Witnesses who knew Virginia Rappe, film actress who died following a party Miss Rappe visited his office for an given by Roscoe Arbuckle in a San Francisco hotel, and which resulted in his being held on charges of manslaughter, testified today before representatives of the state of California and the defense, relating their knowledge of the girl during her earlier life in Chicago.

The witnesses were asked a prepared interrogatory specified by the trial judge in San Francisco.

Dr. Maurice H. Rosenberg, the first witness, testified that in 1913 examination. He told the investigators that Miss Rappe was suffering from chronic cystitis.

Miss Josephine Roth, who gave her occupation as midwife, also testified, and her testimony was corroborated by Miss Virginia Warren, a nurse, who said she was Mrs. Roth's assistant.

The hearing then adjourned and Attorney C. H. Brennan, who was present in behalf of the defense, departed for New York, where further depositions will be taken.

FORMER MAYOR CAROLINA TOWN IS FOUND DEAD

Charleston, S. C., October 31.—Fleming Chavous, 65, was found dead this afternoon at the edge of woods on one of his plantations near Allendale, S. C., with two bullet holes through his body. The sheriff is investigating to ascertain whether there was any foul play. Mr. Chavous was formerly mayor of Allendale, and his son W. A. Chavous, is now mayor of that town.

Another son, C. C. Chavous, is cashier of the Allendale bank. Only a few minutes before the discovery of his dead body he had purchased cigars from a nearby store.

A Big Fine Home at a Price Reduction

Sometimes we run across a house which we feel like recommending freely; the one we have in mind now has such unusual merit about it that we do not hesitate to commend it to any buyer. This is a big, fine, two-story, slate-roof, brick dwelling, situated on one of the most prominent north side thoroughfares; the location is such that the land value itself is worth considering.

This house has a fine basement fully excavated; cemented and efficient heating plant which keeps the house comfortable all through the winter. The structure of the house is sound, and it is in good condition throughout. This is a durable house, having the best of materials in it, with good workmanship, and anyone not an expert in house building can see at a glance the superior construction of this house.

Moreover, it is a good-looking place, with an elevated lot that affords a splendid view. The price is $16,500, and you could not erect a house for that money today. Two years ago we would have welcomed this as a good listing at $25,000 spot cash, and could have sold it in twenty-four hours at that time. The cost of building houses has gone down considerably since then; but it has not gone down as much as some price reductions, and a great many people do not yet realize what good values can be obtained in ready-built homes.
